5 RAIL UNIONS OFFER TO TAKE 8 CENT RAISE

Overtime Pay After 40 Hours Sought.

BY WALTER TROHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—The threat of a complete tieup of the nation's railway system still hung over the capitol tonight as another day passed without finding rail labor leaders and President Roosevelt nearer agreement.

Sen. Clyde Reed.

The White House maintained a silence on a counter-proposal for settlement of the strike, drafted by leaders of the five railroad operating brotherhoods.

The counter-proposal was submitted after the operating brotherhoods, representing 350,000 workers, rejected the proposal the President put forth for averting the threatened strike.

Conference to Reopen Today.

Representatives of railroad management and leaders of the operating brotherhoods conferred on the counter-proposal and the meeting broke up this evening with an announcement that another session would be held tomorrow.

The conferees failed to reach an agreement, but reported progress.

There were no developments from leaders of the 1,100,000 nonoperating railway workers, who voted to walk out Dec. 30 with the operating unions after congress adjourned without adopting a resolution authorizing an increase of 8 cents an hour for them.

Intervention Held Off.

There was no federal intervention during the day in the strike threat of the nonoperating unions. Nor was there a conference of the President and operating leaders.

The President was reported still to be hopeful he would have a Christmas present for the country in the form of news there will be no strike. The administration is counting on the reluctance of union leaders to accept responsibility for a strike which would paralyze military movements and war industry.

Sen. Clyde M. Reed [R., Kas.] said, however, that the chances for a settlement "don't look very good to me." He predicted the government will seize the railroads unless the strikes are called off.

Overtime Payment Sought.

The operating unions' counter-proposal sought an outright increase of 8 cents an hour, overtime for workers on an hourly basis after 40 hours a week, payment of expenses away from home, and a one week vacation with pay.

The payment of overtime would mean an increase of approximately $3.91 a week for yard foremen and smaller sums for switchmen and other yard workers, it was said. Payment of expenses away from home would give firemen, engineers, and road men an average of approximately $25 a month, it was estimated.

The operating brotherhoods had asked an increase of $3 a day. President Roosevelt offered an increase of 4 cents an hour in the form of overtime pay in addition to an increase of 4 cents an hour recommended by an emergency board.

Board Order Branded Insult.

The union leaders, who had rejected the board's offer as "an insult," last night rejected the President's proposal and began drafting the counter-proposal submitted today.

The 15 nonoperating unions sought an increase of 20 cents an hour almost a year and a half ago. This was reduced to 8 cents an hour by an emergency board, and the carriers signed contracts to pay the 8 cents. Fred M. Vinson, stabilization director, refused to approve the increase, and the unions carried their case to congress.

The senate adopted a resolution approving the increase, but the house adjourned over the holidays without acting on it.

Seat on Train Only a Hope as Yule Nears

The holiday travel rush, which has been straining already overloaded facilities to the limit for several days, entered its peak period last night. The Dearborn street station provided a typical example of the congestion caused by uncounted thousands of service men and women and civilians on the move.

The station's waiting rooms were crowded. Soldiers and sailors and women with children predominated. All were sitting patiently, the mothers usually occupied trying to sooth fretful babies. Many of those waiting had been unable to find room on earlier trains and were hopeful their luck would be better on the next train three or four hours later.

Ticket and passenger agents were besieged by travelers hoping to chance on reservations canceled by others at the last minute or trying to make reservations for the holidays. The same pleas were repeated again and again. A naval lieutenant, traveling under orders, must report for duty. A young mother with an infant said her husband expects to go overseas soon and never has seen the baby. Some one was desperately ill in California or Tennessee or Texas.

Line Up Before Gates.

The congestion was even more noticeable at the train gates. The gates are opened a half hour before departure. Long before that, however, several hundred persons would gather in a dense mass that strained forward, shuffled feet, and shifted luggage. Written on every face was the same vision of a seat on a train to where they wanted to go.

Holders of Pullman reservations, who usually are accommodated thru a separate gate, were in the minority. There was no haste or crowding as they filed thru.

The crowd that remained waiting had to take chances in coaches on a first come, first served basis. It is in the coaches that one finds all the conditions which the railroads have advertised widely in an effort to reduce travel that is anything less than imperative.

Service men and women were allowed thru the gates before civilians. If necessary, soldiers and sailors were called to a separate gate. Wherever possible, train attendants allowed women with children and the aged thru the gates with service personnel. The wives of service men also went thru with their husbands.

Favor Mothers and Children.

One gatekeeper said that he and his fellow employes always tried to do all they could to see that mothers and their children obtained seats. Conductors and redcaps made extra efforts to direct such travelers to less congested coaches.

Half an hour before the Santa Fe Ranger was scheduled to leave the station, for Kansas City and Oklahoma and Texas points, service men began to stream thru the gate onto the trainshed platform. Most of them ran and boarded the first coach, heaved their luggage into the racks and sat down—pleased and secure in the thought that they had seats.

The first coach was filled within 10 minutes and the later arrivals filed thru the car in a seemingly endless line toward coaches farther ahead. In another few minutes, the line began to increase in density and slow down. The solid stream of service personnel gave way here and there to a mother with her child.

Outside, in the cold of the train platform, civilians swirled around the few open train doors, or ran ahead hoping to reach the head cars before the seats were taken by those filing thru inside. The jam on the platform was intensified by mail and baggage trucks.

Many Stand in Aisles.

By the time the train pulled out, every seat was occupied and scores were standing in the aisles and vestibules, or sitting on luggage and arms of seats.

"The government and the railroads can tell people all they want to about not traveling during the war and holidays," a redcap commented. "They can tell people they have no chance in the world of gettin' a seat and they'll have to stand for 500 or 1,000 miles. But that don't stop 'em. They just forget about seats. All they want to do is get on that train anyway they can."

BECAUSE OF A COUPLE OF BAD BOYS

Having Baby? There's Good Chance of Boy

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—The odds are with you that if you are going to have a baby it will be a boy. At least that is the studied opinion of the bureau of census of the department of commerce, which for years has kept records of births, deaths, marriages, divorces, jobs, when the stork is most likely to come, and similar statistics.

The bureau reported today you've always had a better than 50-50 chance of producing a male heir. But in the last year the proportion of male to female births rose to the highest levels in 15 years, giving credence to the long-held belief that more boys than girls are born in time of war to replace soldiers killed in battle.

Astonishing Phenomenon.

"One thing that can be said quite definitely is that an increase in this ratio is not exclusively a war time occurrence insofar as the United States is concerned," the bureau stated.

"The ratio of male to female live births is ordinarily an astonishingly constant phenomenon, but it was noticed during the last war that in a number of the European countries the ratio increased temporarily.

"The idea then grew up that this was nature's method of compensating for the loss of male lives in warfare. Scientists pooh-poohed the idea, but the facts remained and no adequate explanation was given.

Several Studies Made.

"Recently several investigations have been made of the matter, one by the census bureau. It was found that to eliminate from the statistics all the possible factors which were known to cause variation in the 'sex ratio,' such as the race and nativity of the mother, the number of previous children born alive and stillborn, the maturity of the infant at the time of delivery, and so forth would take elaborate and expensive tabulations of the statistics."

Here are the latest statistics on births. There were 1,444,365 boys and 1,364,631 girls born in the United States in 1942. This is a ratio of 10,584 boys to every 10,000 girls.

Nazi Fugitive Captured in Mail Bag Aboard Train

NORTH BAY, Ont., Dec. 22 (AP).—A 23 year old former Nazi flyer who escaped from a war prison camp in northern Ontario last night for the third time in a year and a half was recaptured early today in a railway mail car. The prisoner, Eckert Drosig, had hidden in a mail bag put on the train at Montieth, Ont., site of the camp.

SUBZERO BLASTS HIT CITY TODAY; RELIEF IN OFFING

Chicago temperatures last night dropped steadily toward the 2 degrees below zero scheduled to be recorded here this morning.

At 1 a. m. it was 3 above at the airport. At the same hour unofficial readings gave exactly zero at Waukegan, Morton Grove, and Willow Springs, and 2 above at Oak Park.

H. L. Jacobson, forecaster, predicted continued cold weather today, with a high of 15, with some moderation in sight for tonight, and steadily rising temperature tomorrow, when the mercury may reach 30.

Forecaster G. L. Canaday held out some hope of a white Christmas. He pointed out that the city has had no measurable rain or snow since Dec. 6, but that rainfall was 1.9 inches above normal earlier in the month, making the year's precipitation about normal.

Tito Forbids King's Return to Jugo-Slavia

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—With the forces of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz battering the Nazis on all Jugo-Slav fronts, Tito's National Council of Liberation tonight ordered King Peter's government-in-exile deprived of all rights, and "forbade" the king from returning to his homeland until it is liberated.

The council issued a manifesto in which it said the exile government in Cairo, Egypt, has maintained "a hostile attitude" toward the fighting patriots and has spread "lies and slanders" about Tito's guerrillas.

Assails Gen. Mihallovitch.

The manifesto, broadcast by the Jugo-Slav radio, accused the exile government's minister of war, Gen. Draja Mihallovitch, who has been at odds with Tito, of having "organized civil strife in Jugo-Slavia" and making a "lasting" deal with the Germans and their satellites.

Tito's council said the king "showed full confidence" in both the government and Mihallovitch and had "decorated traitors and criminals."

"Under the protection of the royal flag and the monarchy," the council was quoted as saying, "the most abominable treacheries and crimes have been committed and still are being committed."

Therefore, the broadcast said, the council declared "null and void all international treaties and obligations" undertaken by the king's regime.

Tito Made Chief.

The manifesto, which the broadcast said was prepared at a meeting Nov. 29, was announced shortly after Tito had been raised to the status of a full allied commander of patriot forces.

Meanwhile, the fighting raged with ever-growing fury, dispatches said, with the Germans seeking desperately to clear their Balkan flank, where they were said to have suffered 40,000 casualties in October and November alone. This total was given in a Moscow broadcast which said it included 16,000 killed and 11,000 prisoners.

A Tito bulletin said his outnumbered men had beaten off big scale German assaults in Croatia and that the Partisans were on the offensive in all sectors. Tito has been promised increased support by the allies.

YANKS GAIN AT ARAWE DESPITE RAIN OF BOMBS

Down 16 Jap Planes; Sink Cargo Ship.

ADVANCED HDQ., New Guinea, Dec. 23 [Thursday]—(AP).—American ground forces have extended and consolidated their positions at Arawe, New Britain, in the face of stubborn night and day Japanese air attacks which cost the enemy at least 16 planes.

Lt. Gen. George C. Kenney's air force dropped 205 tons of bombs on the Japanese airdromes and supply dumps in the Cape Gloucester area, hiking the total of explosives laid on this vital enemy center to more than 2,000 tons since Dec. 1.

Nearly 100 enemy dive bombers and fighters participated in the attacks on Arawe from before dawn Tuesday to midafternoon. Gen. MacArthur's bulletin today said that besides the 12 dive bombers and four fighters downed, one more dive bomber and two fighters were probably destroyed. Only slight damage was caused the attacking planes.

Sink Cargo Ship.

By their attacks the Japanese signaled possible resumption of air assaults, which had become negligible a few days after the American 6th army invaded the island, Dec. 15.

Dispatches from Arawe said one patrol on Dec. 19 reported receiving light fire from Awang Island, west of the Arawe peninsula.

American Catalina planes bombed enemy cargo vessels off Kavieng, New Ireland, Tuesday night, sinking one 6,000 ton ship and scoring direct hits on another, and a bomber damaged an enemy destroyer.

Australians bombed the Kavieng airdrome and other Aussie flyers in fighter planes hit the airdrome at Cape Hoskins, on the north coast of New Britain, and downed an enemy fighter and destroyed a coastal vessel in the Gasmata area.

Aussies Gain Again.

Liberator bombers attacked Madang, above the Huon peninsula on the New Guinea coast, leaving 21 tons of bombs there and causing fires and explosions in supply dumps.

Australian ground troops on Huon peninsula advanced a mile and a half to occupy Hubika, 15 miles northwest of Finschhafen.

American destroyers shelled shore positions in the Tinputs area on the northeastern coast of Bougainville Island, and allied medium bombers hit airdrome and supply centers at Buka, on the northern tip. Dive bombers and torpedo planes paid a visit to the Japanese supply dumps and bivouac areas at Kieta.

Fifteen Japanese bombers raided the American positions at Empress Augusta bay, causing slight casualties, the bulletin said. One enemy floatplane was shot down.

American air activity over the Marshall Islands in the Central Pacific continued active, with the Japanese showing stiffening aerial opposition but still heavy losers compared with American plane losses.

Yanks Are Reënforced.

ADVANCED SOLOMONS BASE, Dec. 21 [Delayed]—(AP).—Additional troops as well as thousands of tons of military supplies and equipment are arriving in forward areas of the Solomons in the American campaign to capture Bougainville Island.

This was disclosed today by Rear Adm. Theodore S. Wilkinson, commander of south Pacific amphibious forces.

The Solomons air force has completed the job of neutralizing enemy air fields and already has turned its striking power against New Britain, 250 miles from the new American air strip on the Bougainville beachhead.

Lt. Col. Dyess Escaped Jap Prison Camp

Burbank, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Lt. Col. William E. Dyess, army air forces hero of the Philippines campaign, who escaped a Japanese prison camp, was killed today in the crash of his P-38 fighter.

Lt. Col. Dyess.

His widow is the former Marajen Stevick of Champaign, Ill. Mrs. Dyess and her mother are the publishers of the Champaign News-Gazette.

His plane, out of control, burst into flames and sheared off the steeple of a church before stopping in the driveway of a residence.

A witness, Howard C. Gowman, service station operator, told army investigators Col. Dyess might have made a safe landing in a vacant lot except for his attempt to save a passing motorist who was in his path.

Children Run to Safety.

Col. Dyess, of Albany, Tex., had taken the fighter plane from Grand Central airport. Motor trouble developed and he swung around and had started back when the plane ignited.

In avoiding the motorist the pilot struck the steeple of St. Sinbar's Catholic church, then plummeted off into a driveway as two children, playing near by, scurried to safety across the street.

How the 27 year old airman, who turned up suddenly after having been reported a prisoner of the Japanese, got back to this country has been a military secret.

UNBELIEVABLE STORY

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

It was on one of those sunny mornings during such falls as only the Virginia country knows that I got off the train to interview a Maj. Dyess. At that time I knew only that he was a hero of Bataan, that he had escaped from a Japanese prison camp, and now was resting in a great base hospital.

We entered the grounds of the hospital and were admitted to the suite assigned to the major. At first it was difficult to believe he held the Legion of Merit, the distinguished service cross with the oak leaf cluster, the silver star, and the two cluster group citation.

He was a thin, blond youngster. He was slow of speech. But after a couple of minutes in his presence you recognized the qualities of leadership that had made him great. There was a ruggedness of feature; a cold blue of the eye—and then something only one southwesterner can recognize in another.

Greatest Story of War.

Our mission was to buy for publication in THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers a story the United States war department had declared to be the greatest story of the war in the Pacific and one that should arouse the American people

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT AT PHILADELPHIA IS CLOSED BY CAB ORDER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The civil aeronautics board today ordered the Philadelphia municipal airport closed to traffic, effective at midnight, because of "military necessity and as a public safety measure."

The order left the city without prospect of commercial air traffic for from four to six months, the estimated time necessary to complete the new northeast airport, now under construction.

Camden airport, the only other field near-by, has been held unsafe for big transport planes. CAB officials said the area in the vicinity of the Philadelphia air port has been increasingly used for military purposes as the tempo of the war increased. There is a navy explosives depot near-by. Air line officials said they would disembark Philadelphia traffic at Harrisburg or New York.

CONVICT SEVEN OF CONSPIRACY IN FILM RACKET

Face 10 Year Term and $10,000 Fine.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A federal jury tonight returned verdicts of guilty against all seven defendants charged with conspiring to extort more than a million dollars from the motion picture industry.

Louis Campagna.

The verdicts were announced at 9:08 p. m. Chicago time, 10 hours and 13 minutes after the jury received the case.

Conviction carried a possible maximum sentence of 10 years' imprisonment and a fine of $10,000.

Six Are Chicagoans.

Those convicted are Louis Campagna, Philip D'Andrea, Francis Maritote, Charles Gioe, Paul De Lucia, and John Roselli, all of Chicago, and Louis Kaufman, business agent of the Newark, N. J., local of the AFL International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes.

Judge John Bright, before whom the verdicts were returned, set Dec. 30 as the date for sentencing and continued each man in bail until that time, over opposition of the prosecution, to let them go home for Christmas. Separate verdicts were returned for each defendant, and the jury poll showed that the decision was unanimous in each case.

"I think you have done a good job," Judge Bright told the jury.

Accused as "Higher Ups."

The prosecution argued that the defendants were "higher ups" backing Willie Bioff and George E. Browne, labor leaders who were convicted of extortion in 1941. Bioff and Browne were prosecution witnesses in the trial.

The defense contended payments by producers to Bioff and Browne consisted of bribes to avoid labor trouble and that the seven defendants were not linked with the payments.

"Ample proof has been submitted that money was obtained," Judge Bright said in his charge to the jury. "It is for the jury to decide whether this money was obtained by extortion or bribery. If you find this money was obtained by bribery you must acquit.

Accomplice Testimony Valid.

"In a federal court there is nothing which forbids the conviction of the defendants on the testimony of fellow conspirators. Accomplices are therefore used, and properly used, and their evidence is to be properly considered by the jury."

Judge Bright cautioned the jurors against attempting to decide the case on a capital-labor basis.

"We are not here to teach any one a lesson or to pass on the relations of capital and labor," he said. "We can leave to another tribunal the remedy for the astounding situations as revealed here."

The prosecution, in summing up, asked verdicts of guilty as a warning to "racketeers, mobsters, and racketeering labor leaders" to get out of American industry and labor.

NITTI ALSO ACCUSED

The original indictment named nine men—eight of them described as the last remnants of the old Al Capone gang in Chicago—but the count had been reduced to seven when the verdict was reached.

Frank Nitti, cousin of Capone and known as the gang's "enforcer," committed suicide in North Riverside, Ill., March 19, the day he was named in the indictment. Midway in the trial Ralph Pierce, another Chicago defendant, won a directed verdict of acquittal on the ground of insufficient evidence.

Forty-three persons, ranging from convicted labor racketeers to some of Hollywood's top executives, testified in support of the government's contention the defendants forced motion picture executives to pay their demands by threats, coercion, and terror applied thru underworld control of theatrical labor unions.

The defense contended the payments were bribery and that the sums involved were paid by producers to Browne and Bioff to avert labor trouble and were not given to the defendants. The present trial had stemmed from the 1941 conviction of Bioff and Browne for extorting 2 million dollars from the film industry.

Bioff, brought from prison where he is serving a 10 year sentence—as was Browne, who is serving eight years—was the star of the 11 week trial. Bioff, the former Chicago pander who once boasted he was "boss of Hollywood," colored the record with underworld jargon as he told how he and Browne "moved in" on Hollywood after the latter's election as IATSE head in 1934, and how they demanded and received sums ranging up to $50,000 from film companies.

The government contended the defendants—referred to by Bioff as "the boys from Chicago"—helped engineer Browne's election and shared in the money.

Film Payments Told.

The theme of testimony of movie executives was the same—that they paid because they feared bodily harm and the disruption of their businesses. Among them were Nicholas Schenck, president of Loew's Inc.; Louis B. Mayer, head of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and one of the nation's highest salaried men; Harry Warner and his brother, Albert Warner, president and vice president, respectively, of Warner Brothers, and Joseph Schenck, former chairman of Twentieth Century Fox.

Nicholas Schenck testified he "paid off" because he feared loss of life and destruction of his business. He said Bioff had demanded producers pay 2 million dollars or be faced with a nation-wide strike of theater employes and that a bomb was found in a Loew's theater on one occasion during union negotiations.

Harry Warner told of carrying a gun in his car and having a bodyguard because of his fear of Bioff. Albert Warner, telling of turning over a total of more than $80,000 to Bioff, asserted he was "plenty scared" of the racketeer.

Chicagoan Gives Testimony.

Jack Barger, operator of the Rialto theater in Chicago, testified for the prosecution that Maritote, one of the Chicago defendants, collected $13,500 from him in forcing him to accept Bioff as a "partner."

Defense Atty. James D. McMurray scoffed at the idea that movie magnates cowered in fear and declared "this case took on the aspect of a prosecution wherein two unholy scoundrels tried to use this court to walk out of prison over the broken bones of the defendants." Some of the 36 defense witnesses testified the producers were on friendly terms with Bioff and Browne.

During the closing stages of the trial a government witness, Andrew J. Roach, member of the IATSE local in Newark, was charged with perjury and arrested on the witness stand. He declared he made a trip to Chicago and delivered a package to Nitti in 1939 at a time the government conceded that the federal bureau of investigation had established that Nitti was in Hot Springs, Ark.

SEIZE CANDIED FRUIT MADE OF NAVY'S GARBAGE

Hundreds of pounds of candied fruit made from garbage received from the Great Lakes Naval Training station and Navy pier have been seized here by the foods and dairies division of the Illinois department of agriculture. Seizures also have been made in Iowa and other states by officials of the federal food and drug administration.

The navy breakfast garbage was converted into glacé fruit and shipped all over the country, including many army camps, by the Garden Fruit Glace company, 955 Schubert avenue, operated by Benjamin Weinberg and Archie Bacarro, said Zean Gassmann, superintendent of the foods and dairies division.

Gassmann announced he would recommend prosecution of the two men by the attorney general for violation of the sanitation and adulteration law. The fruit company took the navy garbage under contract, paying $20 a ton for citrus rinds. It still is operating full blast, altho no more navy garbage is being taken.

NAVY WORKMEN FINISH JOB WHEN UNIONISTS QUIT

CIO Group Insists on Higher Wages.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Uniformed craftsmen of the navy took over jobs of civilian machinists and finished up a naval vessel today after CIO machinists were accused by a war time shipbuilding committee of refusing to do the work unless paid higher wages.

Vice Adm. Greenslade.

The Pacific coast joint committee for shipbuilding and ship repair declared Machinists' union 1304, Oakland, demanded the $1.34 an hour ship repair rate for the job, instead of the $1.20 paid on new construction work.

Repairs, Union Charges.

The committee, headed by Vice Adm. John W. Greenslade, contended the ship, built at a Stockton yard which had no drydock facilities, was brought to Moore Drydock company, at Oakland, for completion. The union argued the job constituted repair work.

The ship was built at a Stockton yard and was towed to Moore Drydock Co., at Oakland, for final machist work.

In the Pacific coast ship repair agreement, the joint committee stated, "labor has agreed to accept new construction wages and working conditions unless the vessel, upon which the work is performed, has been completed, finally accepted and has made a passenger or cargo laden voyage.

Never in Service.

"The ship in question... has never been in service, it has not been accepted by the navy and it has never made a voyage."

"Some members of the crew which will fight on the vessel already have been assigned to her. They know how badly she is needed and are anxious to get their ship in service. They requested that they be allowed to do the work the machinists refused to do. The request was granted."

AURAND HOLDS M'INTOSH FATE AFTER VERDICT

Ultimate fate of Pvt. Charles L. F. McIntosh, who Tuesday was sentenced to 10 years at hard labor and to be dishonorably discharged from the army by a general court martial at Fort Sheridan virtually is in the hands of Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand, commanding general of the 6th service command, who will review findings of the court within 30 days. Gen. Aurand's decision will be reviewed by the adjutant general in Washington, who will make his recommendation to the President. Reports of commanding generals rarely are upset in Washington.

It is conceivable that McIntosh, convicted of absence without leave and nine other charges, may never see the inside of a prison. Fort Sheridan has a rehabilitation center from which men under sentence may after six months apply for restoration to duty.

Mrs. Alice Rand de Tarnowsky McIntosh, wife of the soldier since she divorced an army captain, yesterday expressed her devotion to him in her Barrington home. The heiress said it would be a mistake for the army not to benefit from his experience as an aviation mechanic.

MULCAHY TAKES OFFICE; PLEDGES STRICT REGIME

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy pledged himself to strict law enforcement yesterday on being sworn into office amidst a throng of admiring friends, Democratic office holders, and many of the 700 employes of his new office. His few words indicated he would join with State's Atty. Courtney in the campaign to eradicate syndicate gambling and gangster control in the county.

Other developments of the day in the anti-gambling warfare were:

1. Police Commissioner Allman filed charges with the civil service commission aginst Capt. John T. Cartan of the Des Plaines street station, and Capt. Eugene E. Barry of the Shakespeare avenue station, both of whom had been suspended as a result of the inquiry made by the October grand jury.

Malone Attacks Indictments.

2. A motion was made to quash the gambling conspiracy indictment against Capt. Frank Malone of the Chicago Lawn station, his aid, Detective George Gore, and John J. Williams, gambler who recently was acquitted of the murder of Martin Quirk. It was continued to Dec. 29.

3. The grand jury which has been investigating gambling in the 1st ward adjourned yesterday until Monday and announced it will end its work on Dec. 29 with a recommendation that the January grand jury continue the gambling probe.

4. Municipal Judge John Gutknecht dismissed a complaint against Mike Greenberg and Hershie Laff, arrested as gamblers by detectives from the office of Commissioner Allman who forced their way into an apartment at 6933 Wayne avenue on complaint of a telephone company lineman that there was "trouble" in the place.

Denies Accusation.

5. Assistant State's Atty. Myron V. Lewis, who was prosecutor against Greenberg and Laff, denied that he had said on Tuesday that Laff would have ben justified in killing Detective George O'Brien, who crawled thru a window. O'Brien, however, reiterated in court his statement that he heard Lewis make the statement.

Mulcahy, who was chosen by the county board on Monday to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sheriff Peter B. Carey last October, was given the oath of office by Judge Harold G. Ward, acting chief justice of the Criminal court.

Mayor Kelly was one of the first speakers. He intimated that Mulcahy's selection by the county board was no surprise to him. It was understood that Mulcahy was his personal choice for the job. He said he had confidence in Mulcahy's ability to make an excellent record in the new job.

Allman at Ceremony.

Present at the ceremony were Police Commissioner Allman, who is under Kelly's jurisdiction, and Chief John J. McGinnis of the county highway police, who is under Mulcahy's jurisdiction. United States Marshall William H. McDonnell was there, too.

Several speakers referred to the late Sheriff Carey as a man of integrity and ability who would have prevented gambling in the county during the last summer if he had not been ill and out of the state.

Mulcahy said he was sure his old friend, Carey, would have won his fight for law enforcement had he lived.

"I will do it for him," Mulcahy promised.

Williams was expected to surrender today to post a new bond of $10,000. His old bond of $2,500 was forfeited because he left the state, as revealed by his arrest in Texas on federal charges of helping his ex-Chicago partner, Pvt. Harry Roberts, in an attempted desertion.

Green and Family Plan Air Christmas Greetings

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 22 (AP).—Gov. and Mrs. Dwight L. Green and their daughters, Nancy, 16, and Gloria, 12, will extend holiday greetings on a half hour radio program Christmas eve instead of sending cards to friends. The governor's office said the program, similar to one in which the family participated last year, would include Christmas music over WCBS, Springfield, from 8 to 8:30 p. m.

REALTY DEALER ACCEPTS PRISON TERM IN FRAUD

John J. Kern, 47 years old, formerly a real estate dealer at 1520 Devon avenue, yesterday gave up his fight to escape prison, and was sentenced 1 to 10 years by Judge Rudolph Desort in the Criminal court, on a charge of operating a confidence game.

His capitulation was the direct result of threats of more severe punishment made by Clement Cody, assistant state's attorney. Kern was convicted last summer in an alleged real estate swindle, and sentenced to 1 to 10 years, but he appealed to the Illinois Supreme court. Then on Dec. 3, he was convicted of a second offence before Judge Desort.

Yesterday Cody recommended that the two sentences be made consecutive, adding he would then be ready to prosecute Kern for a third offense, with that sentence, in event of conviction, also to be made consecutive. Kern then offered to drop his appeal to the Supreme court and go to prison. He was then sentenced, the term to run concurrently with the first sentence. Prosecution in the third case was dropped.

$150,000 IS LOSS IN FACTORY FIRE; 15 ARE RESCUED

A 5-11 alarm fire late yesterday destroyed the interior of a five story brick manufacturing building at 14 North May street, driving nearly a hundred persons into the street. Fifteen of them were escorted down ladders by firemen. The firemen, Capt. George Ruse, Walter Kinsella, Mike King, and George Edmund, were trapped for a time on the fourth floor.

Only the sidewalls of the building remained standing after the fire had been brought under control. Sparks and flames leaped high into the air as upper floors of the building crashed thru to the basement.

Fire Commissioner Michael J. Corrigan estimated the loss at $150,000, including the $25,000 value of the building. Corrigan said that streams of water probably would have to be hurled into the mass of embers inside the structure all night long.

Rush hour traffic on busy Madison street was tied up for more than an hour.

LAW IS DRAFTED TO LET INDIANS BUY LIQUORS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 [Special].—The office of Indian affairs, department of interior, is drafting legislation in an effort to modify century old laws prohibiting sale of ale, beer, wine, or intoxicating liquors to Indians and banning liquor importation in Indian reservations, it was learned today.

Recently the American Legion appealed for legislation to give Indians full rights and privileges of their American citizenship. Specifically the Legion asked that Indian liquor laws be modified at least as they affected 20,000 Indians in military service.

The legislation being planned in the office of Indian affairs will be ready in a few weeks for early consideration of the legislators when they return from their Christmas vacation on Jan. 10.

RED UNIT SEEKS TO GAIN ENTRY IN WAR RELIEF

BY ROY GIBBONS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 22.—An application for permission to participate in the publicly contributed funds of the national war fund, which has 35 million subscribers, has been filed with that agency by the joint anti-Fascist refugee committee, one of the projects of the American Communist party, it was disclosed here today.

The refugee group is headed by Dr. Edward K. Barsky, Communist supporter and former national chairman of the United American Spanish Aid committee which in 1941 sponsored the ill-fated American rescue ship mission that raised $35,000 in a $100,000 drive to transfer 450 Spanish war refugees from France to Mexico.

The latter venture bogged down after the resignation of some of its principal sponsors, who quit, it was said, when they learned of its Communist origin.

Mrs. Roosevelt Pulls Out.

Among those who resigned were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, wife of the President; Helen Keller, who had been the committee's honorary national chairman; Henry Morgenthau Sr., and Henry J. MacCracken, president of Vassar college. Harold Riegelman, a New York lawyer, another member who also resigned, previously had criticized the committee after auditing its accounts. Riegelman said he found the cost of collecting funds to be a third of the amount collected.

Should the committee be granted membership in the fund as an accredited agency, it would be placed on a par with the U. S. O., War Prisoners' aid, the United Seamen's service, and other war time relief organizations.

Invited to Conference.

Barsky has been invited to appear Tuesday in Washington, D. C., before the President's war relief control board, which consists of Joseph R. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, and Charles P. Taft, brother of Sen. Robert A. Taft [R., O.]. Indorsement by the board, however, will not automatically confer membership in the fund on Barsky's group because the fund reserves the right to pass on all certifications which come to it.

The national war fund now supports all refugee work thru Refugee Relief Trustees, Inc., made up of the International Rescue and Relief committee, the American Committee for Christian Refugees, and the Unitarian Service committee.

Barsky is remembered as the person who in 1941 accused the Red Cross of permitting its food shipments to Spain to "be used as a political weapon" by Fascists. This was after both the Red Cross and the Quaker's friends service committee rejected a $5,000 contribution from Barsky's United American Spanish Aid committee, allegedly because of its political makeup.

DEMAND CLERKS SUBMIT DISPUTE TO ARBITRATION

Montreal Officials Stiffen Attitude.

BY DON STARR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—A stiffening attitude on the part of the provincial government toward the wave of strikes among Montreal city employes became evident today when Edgar Rochette, minister of labor, warned the 2,300 white collar workers who walked out yesterday that there would be no negotiations until they agreed to arbitration and returned to their jobs.

Representatives of the three unions participating in the strike replied they will not agree to submit their demands for a $500 annual wage increase to an arbitration board until they have received assurance that the increase will be granted.

Largest Union Calls Strike.

The strike was called by the National Syndicate of Canadian and Catholic Workers, the largest of the three unions active among the city clerks and stenographers. Gerard Picard, general secretary, and Alfred Charpentier, president of the syndicate, went to Quebec in company of Georges Aime Gagnon, president of the Central Council of Montreal National Syndicates.

They denied they were in Quebec to confer on the strike with the provincial cabinet, which they said was their purpose when they left Montreal. They insisted they were there merely to present a program of labor legislation for consideration of Premier Adelarde Godbout and his ministers.

Negotiations Deadlocked.

The second day of the strike, which was marked by scattered threats of violence, thus ended in a deadlock, with officials little concerned at the closing of city buildings. The situation is not regarded as serious as it was last week when policemen and firemen went on strike.

The first threat of violent action by the strikers occurred this morning when Arthur Hooper, assistant city clerk, appeared at his desk at the usual hour and was visited by a delegation of pickets who warned him that they would not answer for what might happen if he stayed on the job. He yielded to the threats and went home.

Another official of the clerk's office who attempted to perform his work said he was forced to obtain police protection for his home. He said that he had received threats that his home would be damaged.

New Grievances Rise.

Meanwhile, Dr. Jacques Archambault, president of the Provincial Civil Service association, and Clovis Bernier, conciliator for the independent group, prepared a list of grievances after a meeting of members last night. Paramount among the grievances which are to be presented to Premier Godbout is a demand for a $500 annual wage increase and a readjustment of the cost of living bonus now in effect. Civil servants interested in this move total about 12,000 in the province.

CHICAGO URGED TO SAVE PAPER A LA PARK RIDGE

Plans to spur the collection of waste paper in the Chicago metropolitan area are expected to be made when representatives of the office of civilian defense salvage division, war production board executives, and others interested in salvage gather in the Morrison hotel at 3 p. m. next Tuesday.

J. G. Sheldon, general salvage secretary of the WPB's Chicago office, said yesterday he would urge the Chicago OCD to adopt plans similar to those in Park Ridge, where a salvage group this week observed its third anniversary by sending its millionth pound of waste paper to a Michigan mill to be converted into paperboard for critically needed munition containers.

Proceeds Support OCD.

Park Ridge, a town of 12,500 persons, has a self supporting OCD made possible thru the sale of waste paper. Its salvage department pays only one employe, a warehouse man, who is on duty 48 hours a week. Volunteer trucks collect the paper and deliver it to the warehouse, where volunteers do the sorting, baling, and weighing. Then it is placed in freight cars for shipment to the mill.

Hall Teeman, Park Ridge salvage director, said the first million pounds grossed $7,686.32. This revenue is the financial backbone of the town's OCD. No funds are solicited from the public and none are contributed by the city government, he said.

In Chicago, the OCD had an appropriation of a half million dollars of taxpayers' money for its administrative expenses this year. Will H. Connelly, Park Ridge OCD publicity chairman, estimated that Chicago should collect approximately 2 billion pounds of waste paper annually. This should return a revenue of about 15 million dollars and would make Chicago's OCD self supporting, he said. Figures are based on a monthly Chicago pickup of 5 pounds a person, which is the Park Ridge requirement.

Example for Midwest.

Recognizing Park Ridge's outstanding work, Sheldon pointed out that if every community in Illinois, Iowa, Wisconsin, Indiana, Ohio, and Michigan collected waste paper in the same proportion, there would be no shortage, and those in charge actually would be collecting 4,600 tons a week in excess of the 10 million additional tons needed from the middle west.

The Chicago Newspapers association is taking steps to bolster the collection of used newspapers and has named John Robinson to head a publicity department, said Sheldon.

Mexico Boosts Budget; Plans Payment on Debt

It includes payment on the foreign debt under an agreement with bondholders scaling down principal and interest, and will be financed from present taxes.

KIN OF BUSCH, BREWER, SEIZED IN DRAFT PLOT

Cafe Society Figure Held with Four Others.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—An anonymous tip to the federal bureau of investigation led to the arrest today of German born Gert Hans von Gontard, 37, alias George Grant, a wealthy cafe society figure identified by federal officials as a grandson of the late Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer, on a complaint charging conspiracy to evade military service.

Gert von Gontard.

The complaint named an army lieutenant, formerly a city detective, a chief clerk of a New York City draft board, a German refugee physician, and a manufacturer of army uniforms as being parties to the making of false statements to indicate Von Gontard's nonliability for military duties.

They were listed in the complaint as Lt. Francis Xavier Grottano, 37, an army intelligence officer stationed at Governors Island, N. Y.; John Edward Wilson, chief clerk of local draft board No. 20; Dr. Arnold Aaron Hutschnecker, 45, Manhattan physician accused of faking a medical history for Von Gontard, and Michael Mangano, 43, an official of the G. M. Uniform Company of Brooklyn.

Owns Brewing Stock.

Von Gontard and Grottano were held in $1,500 bail each and Dr. Hutschnecker in $1,000 bail when they were arraigned before United States Commissioner Garrett W. Cotter. Mangano was arraigned before United States Commissioner Jacob A. Disel. He consented to his removal to the southern district federal court and was released in $2,000 bail.

Wilson was to be arraigned later.

Asst. United States Atty. J. Edward Cregan said Von Gontard, educated in Europe, where he traveled extensively, became a United States citizen in 1939. He described the defendant as a large stock holder in the Anheuser-Busch Brewing company of St. Louis.

Complained of Illness.

Cregan declared that Von Gontard, originally registered with the Beverly Hills, Cal., selective service board, attempted thru the New York local board, with the help of Grottano and Mangano, to represent himself as essential to the war effort as a representative of a uniform manufacturer, altho, Cregan added, he never was so employed.

When the California board became insistent that steps be taken to induct the brewery heir, he presented a medical history to indicate he had been under treatment for gall bladder trouble for three years and was rejected for service on those grounds altho he was found to be in normal physical condition in the selective service physical examination, Cregan said.

The federal official said Von Gontard was divorced in January, 1941, but that in July, 1941, he had requested the California draft board to place him in class 2 or 3 on the grounds that he was supporting a wife and was essential in war work.

Stayed at Best Hotels.

In an occupational questionnaire in 1942, Cregan said, Von Gontard described himself as "thoroly at home camping, an experienced horseman, experienced in Alaskan expeditions, adept at handling horses and pack mules and a member of the National Ski Association of America."

Von Gonfard, who lived at first rank New York hotels, had been under investigation since May, 1943, when an anonymous complaint to the FBI asserted that he had made a $500 payment to a physician for advice to enable him to avoid the draft.

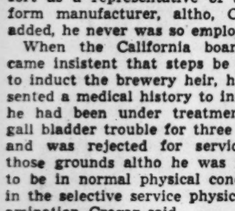

Cregan said that Dr. Hutschnecker, who has offices on Park avenue, came here as a refugee from Germany in 1933 and took out first papers for citizenship the day after his arrival.

Each defendant, if convicted by a federal grand jury, would face imprisonment for five years and a fine of $10,000.

GENERAL SEES DE GAULLE.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Dec. 21 [Delayed] [AP].—Gen. Jean de Lattre de Tassigny, who recently escaped from a German prison in France, arrived from London today and was received by Gen. Charles de Gaulle. This gave rise to speculation that he soon might take a responsible post in the French command.

DEMOCRATS GO INTO ACTION ON STATE TICKET

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Democratic state leaders will meet in Chicago today for a belated start at slate making, the Republicans having completed preliminary organization work in support of a nearly complete state ticket.

Sen. Scott W. Lucas and Mayor Kelly will be the ranking office holders at the discussion in the Morrison hotel at 2:30 p. m.; but it will be primarily a downstate show, with the Cook county backbone of the Democrats' voting strength being kept in the background for the time being.

Principal office holders absent from the session will be Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes and State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney. Up to now they have been the most talked about as potential candidates for governor. Hughes several months ago was voted the favorite candidate by downstate Democrats in the Illinois house of representatives.

Hughes Doubtful Starter.

After a month in a Chicago hospital Hughes is resting in his Springfield home. Aside from his own wishes, medical factors complicate the question of how he is likely to figure in a Democratic slate. He was to have gone to Tucson, Ariz., but canceled the trip. In view of the strenuous pace for a gubernatorial race, some of the Hughes enthusiasts are regretfully seeking a possible alternate.

State's Atty. Courtney thus has been mentioned with increasing frequency for the gubernatorial assignment. While he continues silent, supporters are busy citing his election record to show his appeal to the independent vote.

In the downstate contingent with Sen. Lucas, will be former Gov. John Stelle of McLeansboro; Edward P. Allen of Quincy, chairman of the Democratic state central committee; Harry Hershey of Taylorville, 1940 nominee for governor; John C. Martin of Salem, former state treasurer; John P. Devine of Dixon, former speaker of the Illinois house; Bruce Campbell of East St. Louis, former Democratic state chairman; Thomas J. Donovan of Joliet, former lieutenant governor, and Rep. William Vicars of Pontiac, minority leader of the Illinois house.

Cook County Relegated to Rear.

Few Cook county spokesmen are expected to sit in the conclave, altho one is certain to be Albert J. Horan, Municipal court bailiff and chairman of the executive committee of the Democratic county central committee.

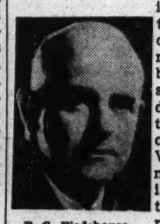

Secretary Hughes' proposal for a pre-primary state convention to foster "open air" consideration of various possible candidates will be taken up and probably adopted. Such a convention would be held downstate in an attempt to recapture the interest of those citizens who made possible the Republican state-wide victories of 1940 and 1942.

Methods to be employed in indorsing delegates to the 1944 national convention will be discussed, if time permits. Another subject to be given attention is the Illinois legislature, which now has substantial G. O. P. majorities.

NEWSPAPER MAN KILLED.

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 22 [AP].—Terry J. De Lapp, 39 years old, publicity director of Universal studio and former day city editor of the Los Angeles Times, was killed today when struck by an automobile.

COMEDIAN FLAYS B. B. C.'S GAG ON P. G. WODEHOUSE

P. G. Wodehouse.

LONDON, Dec. 22.—The government controled British Broadcasting corporation today was accused of "narrow-mindedness" by Leslie Henson, stage comedian, for banning the broadcasting of lyrics by P. G. Wodehouse, humorist and novelist, who was captured by the Germans in France in 1940 and subsequently spoke over the German radio.

Henson, who recently has been broadcasting extracts from musical comedies, said he wanted to include lyrics from "The Cabaret Girl" and other shows but was informed by B. B. C., "You cannot have those, they're by P. G. Wodehouse." Protesting B. B. C.'s decision, Henson said: "For all we know, Wodehouse may have made his Berlin broadcasts with Gestapo pistols pointed at his back."

Wodehouse was released from internment by the Germans in 1941 and that June he lived at Berlin's fashionable Adlon hotel. He made five broadcasts to the United States from Berlin.

Elgin Finally Discovers How to Kill Black Bears

The three black bears of Lord's park, Elgin, whose resistance to poison last spring baffled park commissioners, yesterday succumbed to rifle bullets. The commissioners decided to kill the bears last April because of the mounting cost of food and the shortage of zoo attendants. The animals, fed enough potassium cyanide and strychnine to kill a regiment of men, begged for more.

OUSTER OF REDS FROM EXECUTIVE AGENCIES URGED

Busbey Says His Quiz Will Expose Many.

Rep. Fred E. Busbey [R., Ill.] predicted in Chicago yesterday that the special congressional committee investigating un-American activities soon will disclose that "an astoundingly large number of Communists and fellow travelers hold key positions in those branches of the federal government which have been set up by executive order of President Roosevelt."

He said that "these persons should be ousted from the government jobs they hold because of their disloyal philosophies."

Rep. Busbey charged also that "many persons have been put on the federal pay roll by being certified by the certification division of the federal civil service commission with the request that they be not subject to investigation of their records."

OWI Inquiry Denied.

Disclosing that Rep. Adolph J. Sabath [D., Ill.], chairman of the house rules committee, on Dec. 14 refused his request for a hearing on his resolution to appoint a committee to investigate the office of war information, on the ground that the house already had adopted resolutions providing for two such similar moves, Rep. Busbey said:

"I intend, however, to see that the office of war information is investigated by the congressional committe investigating un-American activities, after the committee's investigation of the civil service commission."

Long associated with investigation of subversive activities for the American Legion, Rep. Busbey was appointed to the congressional committee investigating un-American activities just before congress recessed for the Christmas holiday.

The committee's pending investigation of the federal civil service commission was scheduled after Rep. Busbey recently demanded an inquiry into the commission's order barring civil service investigators from asking questions about communistic activities of job applicants.

On Nov. 8, Rep. Busbey read in the house of representatives a list of 22 persons alleged to have communistic ideologies who are or recently have been on the OWI pay roll.

On Dec. 10, Rep. Busbey charged the OWI with hiring Communists and other subversive employes in preference to loyal Americans and of trying to retain employes even after their subversive activities had been uncovered.

FOURTH TERM? EVEN ROOSEVELT DOESN'T KNOW! SAYS WALKER

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Frank C. Walker, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said after lunching with the President today that he did not think Mr. Roosevelt himself knew now whether he would seek a fourth term.

"Did you discuss politics?" Walker was asked as he left the White House.

"A little," he replied.

"Is the President going to run again?"

"I don't know," Walker said, "and I don't think he does himself. It's much too early."

MORSE OF WLB CONSIDERS RACE FOR U. S. SENATE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Wayne L. Morse, public member of the war labor board, said today he is considering entering the race for the Republican nomination for United States senator from Oregon in the primary next May.

"I have not definitely made up my mind to resign from the WLB to run," he told a reporter.

U. S. WITHHOLDS RECOGNITION OF BOLIVIA REGIME

Hull Fears Axis May Be Its Inspiration.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull warned today that axis sympathizers are still at work in the western hemisphere, and indicated that recognition of the new Bolivian government will be withheld until the question whether they inspired the revolution is settled.

Hull said hemisphere security and the allies' war plans come first where recognizing the regime of Maj. Gualberto Villarroel is concerned.

Lesson from Argentina.

"Included in the relevant considerations is the question whether outside influence unfriendly to the allied cause played any part," he went on. After emphasizing that the security of the hemisphere is the first consideration, Hull added:

"It must never be forgotten that the hemisphere is at present under sinister and subversive attack by the axis, assisted by some elements within the hemisphere itself."

Another reason why the United States is cautious is believed to be a desire to avoid plunging into complications such as resulted last spring from quick recognition of a revolutionary Argentine junta, supposedly pro-allied.

Argentine Minister Quits.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 22 (AP).—A traveler from Buenos Aires said today that the Argentine minister of public works, Naval Capt. Ricardo Vago, has resigned. There was no confirmation.

The report of Vago's resignation followed the resignation of the interventors of three provinces, which some Montevideo circles interpreted as showing a breach between different groups in the Argentine government and the army. Interventors are federally appointed officials named to replace elected governors of provinces.

Vice President Alberto Guani said today he was studying the idea of suggesting that all American governments act in agreement before recognizing any new regime created by force in the western hemisphere.

Asks U. S. Coöperation.

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Dec. 22 (AP).—A desire for "effective coöperation" between the United States and Bolivia and an early settlement of negotiations concerning tin and quinine was expressed today by a minister in the new government of President Maj. Gualberto Villarroel.

"I believe an effective coöperation ought to exist between the United States and Bolivia," asserted Minister of Economy Gustavo Chacon, "and that within the shortest time possible we should face the matters left pending by the laxness of the former government, including tin and quinine."

The Villarroel government, which installed itself with a coup d'etat Monday, turned its attention to retributive measures for what was described as last December's "Catavi massacre," in which 19 were killed when troops fired on striking tin mine workers. The government announced a decree providing indemnities for the victims.

Denies Pro-Nazi Charge.

The Catavi killings resulted last August in the resignation of the nine-man cabinet of Enrique Penaranda, the deposed president, in the face of a barrage of criticism directed by the nationalist revolutionary movement and the leftist revolutionary party.

[A dispatch from Arica, Chile, quoted Penaranda as denying that he had either signed or dictated his resignation. "I have not renounced and I refused to sign the documents they brought to me," Penaranda asserted.]

Villarroel denied a charge Penaranda made at Arica that the revolution was carried out by Nazi elements.

"Gen. Penaranda mistakes the sense of the words democracy and Naziism," said Villarroel.

NEGRO SINGERS TO BE FEATURED ON W-G-N HOUR

The senior choir of the Monumental Baptist Negro church will be featured in W-G-N's hour long program of Christmas carols to be presented from 5 to 6 p. m. today. Part of the program will be broadcast over W-G-N from 5:30 to 5:45 p. m. Amplifiers will carry the entire songfest to an area surrounding the Michigan avenue studios.

The accompaniment will be provided by Leonard Salvo, organist, and Harry Sukman, pianist. The program will be:

O Little Town of Bethlehem,
Sleep, Baby, Sleep.
Thru Heaven, Thru Earth, Hosannas Ring.
Choir.
Ave Maria.
Mr. Salvo and Mr. Sukman.
I Will Give Thanks.
Glory to God.
Peace on Earth.
Choir.
Joy to the World.
Deck the Hall.
Mr. Salvo.
Sweet Little Jesus Boy.
O Lord Most Holy.
O Holy Night.
Choir.
God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen.
We Three Kings of the Orient Are.
Mr. Salvo.

O Little Town of Bethlehem.
Sleep, Baby, Sleep.
Thru Heaven, Thru Earth, Hosannas Ring.
Choir.
Lo, How a Rose E'er Blooming.
O Come, All Ye Faithful.
Mr. Salvo.

The carols sung Tuesday by the junior choir of the Broadway Methodist church brought a touch of home to a former member, Leslie Earle Stephenson, now with the Seabees in Honolulu, who heard the program. He sent a cable yesterday to Miss June Ostman, director of the choir, saying he was thrilled to hear the voices of his old friends.

Snow Maiden Role

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt assumed the role of a "snegorouchkas"—snow maiden—long enough to complete the Christmas party given for 12 young sons and daughters of soviet consular officials here. Before a Christmas tree trimmed with packages of dehydrated borsch, the first lady, as a "snegorouchkas," presented food kit, similar to ones shipped to Russia by Russian war relief, to Inna Kisselev, 9 year old daughter of the soviet consul general. In return, Mrs. Roosevelt was given a copy of the book, "Igor's Summer," by 12 year old Ura Brockore, who suggested that Mrs. Roosevelt give it to one of her grandchildren.

Record Christmas Travel Forecast for New York

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—An all-time high record for Christmas travel appeared in prospect today as pre-holiday reservations deluged principal railroad terminals and offices here. The New York Central railroad reported that traffic in and out of Grand Central terminal probably would exceed last Christmas' record by from 10 to 20 per cent, and the Pennsylvania railroad estimated the increase at Pennsylvania station would average 15 to 20 per cent before the peak, expected by Friday, was passed.

F. D. R. TO SPEND CHRISTMAS AT HYDE PARK HOME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—For the first time since they came to the White House in 1933, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will spend Christmas at their family estate at Hyde Park, N. Y., and two of their four sons will be home from the war to celebrate with them.

Presents will be opened Christmas afternoon around a tree in the library of the mansion overlooking the Hudson river, and Mr. Roosevelt will carve the turkey at a family dinner in the evening.

Plans Radio Address.

White House officials said the President didn't want his gifts wrapped because that would save two or three barrels of paper. And the presents he will distribute to the White House staff from his office desk tomorrow morning won't be done up in fancy paper and ribbons either.

Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt will receive the household staff and their families and children tomorrow in the east room of the White House.

They will be in Hyde Park Friday and from there, in midafternoon, the chief executive will broadcast yuletide greetings to the nation and the men and women in the military services around the world. His address will be piped back to Washington, where traditional ceremonies will be held around a Christmas tree on the south lawn of the White House.

Sons to Be Present.

After the speech, the President and Mrs. Roosevelt will receive the people who live on their 1,200 acre estate. In the evening, as he always does on Christmas eve, Mr. Roosevelt will read Dickens' "Christmas Carol" to the family.

The members of the family who will be present are a daughter, Mrs. John Boettiger, and her three children, Eleanor, Curtis, and John; Lt. and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and children, Franklin D. III. and Christopher; Lt. and Mrs. John A. Roosevelt and children, Haven and Ann, and Mrs. James R. Roosevelt, widow of the President's half brother.

In contrast with peace time custom, the White House will be decorated sparingly this Christmas. There will be a wreath over the front door and in the windows on either side of the door.

PRESCRIBE DO'S AND DONT'S FOR GAYER HOLIDAY

The National Safety council, 20 North Wacker drive, offered several suggestions yesterday for a safe and sane Christmas. They were:

Don't travel; don't use wornout lighting fixtures on Christmas trees; don't put gift packages near fire or flame, disconnect tree and other lighting ornaments before retiring or leaving the house, and don't clutter up floors or stairs with toys.

With the official arrival of winter, the International Association of Chiefs of Police from Evanston warned motorists to reduce speeds on snow and ice, keep windshields clean, use anti-skid chains, avoid traffic congestion, and signal intentions to stop or turn.

The Neighbors By George Clark

"Well, nice to have met you folks. Here's where she'll be waiting for me. Just watch out the window and you'll see what I'M fighting for!"

MOVES TO ANNUL TIES TO SAILOR ALREADY WED

Acts After Talking to Wife No. 1.

Miss Betty Jane Edwards, daughter of a lieutenant colonel in the army, yesterday awaited the outcome of marriage annulment proceedings instituted in the Catholic church. Her mother, Mrs. John G. Edwards, 1509 Fargo avenue, announced plans to notify naval authorities that the sailor who married her daughter Tuesday already had a wife and 18 month old son in Cleveland, O.

The sailor is Raymond W. Goe, 22 years old, seaman second class. Within a few hours after he and Miss Edwards, who is 21, were married in St. Jerome's Catholic church his previous marriage was revealed. The denouement came when wife No. 1, Mrs. Betty Mary Goe, 26, learned of the romance and marriage by reading of it in a Cleveland newspaper. She telephoned the apartment of the bride's mother just after the wedding and while the reception was in progress.

Identified Thru Wirephoto.

Mrs. Goe of Cleveland declared she and Goe's mother had identified a wirephoto of the sailor. Wife No. 1 and wife No. 2 talked on the telephone. A few minutes later Goe left the Edwards apartment.

Mrs. Edwards said yesterday she did not know the sailor's whereabouts and declined to discuss her daughter's plans. Annulment proceedings were instituted as soon as Goe's previous marriage was disclosed, she said.

Mrs. Edwards said she planned to notify Goe's commanding officer at Norfolk, Va., where he was stationed when he came to Chicago on a holiday leave.

In Cleveland, the first Mrs. Goe was reported to be planning a divorce. It was understood that she was not considering pressing bigamy charges against her husband.

Christmas Gift Romance.

The romance between Goe and Miss Edwards began last Christmas when he received a Christmas stocking filled with candy, one of several packed by Miss Edwards for distribution at the Great Lakes Naval Training station. Goes wrote to thank her. When they met later, it was love at first sight, according to friends.

Miss Edwards' father is Lt. Col. John G. Edwards, who has been in England 15 months. Shortly before the wedding ceremony, a wire arrived from Col. Edwards congratulating the couple and giving them his blessing.

LIGHTS GO ON AGAIN IN THE LAND WHERE CHRISTMAS BEGAN

JERUSALEM, Palestine, Dec. 22.—The lights are going on again all over Palestine, with the exception of a narrow coastal strip 10 miles in depth, with the removal of blackout regulations which have been enforced since June, 1940. A government order to this effect coincides with Christmas eve, symbolical or not.

G. I. SANTA WON'T MISS A SOLDIER, WHEREVER HE IS!

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Santa Claus, dressed in olive drab and flying an army plane, is bringing Christmas to United States troops in icy, barren, northern areas, the battle fronts of Europe and the sunbaked isles and dripping, dim jungles of the Pacific.

The war department reported today that hundreds of evergreens, tons of cigarets, candy, cake, radios, and recording machines marked "hold until Christmas" have been flown to isolated outposts which are inaccessible in winter except by air.

Packages for Every One.

The army Santa Claus began deliveries four months ago and will continue until every soldier in the most remote station has received his packages.

An army transport plane will drop mail bags in the snow this month at a tiny weather station in the Bering sea. It will be the first mail there in four months.

On Thanksgiving day, soldiers in the Aleutians tasted their first fresh fowl since arriving in the islands. They will have it again Christmas—turkey—with olives, shrimp, and rolls, all flown in by their air force buddies.

Isolated Posts Get Theirs.

Even isolated gun positions have received Christmas trees, food, and packages, dropped from passing combat aircraft.

Chaplains Andrew Beahm of Lock Haven, Pa., and Francis Geigel of Maniot, Wis., will address Attu troops. Chaplain Joseph Applegate will conduct services for men in outposts from Nome to Point Barrow by airplane.

A light ski equipped plane will carry Chaplain Charles Sais to bleak Nunivak Island, and presents from the Red Cross and decorated Christmas trees will be flown to other icebound islands by Chaplain Ralph Wheeler and Sgt. Bill Douglas of Aberdeen, Wash.

CHRISTMAS TREE MARKET BREAKS IN CHICAGO AREA

Christmas trees, which the public had been led to expect would be scarce and costly this year, became a drug on the market yesterday with thousands destined to remain unsold, piled in vacant stores, filling stations and lots.

Many dealers admitted they had no hope of selling even a major portion of their trees, altho they have been slashing prices. The wholesale market, which started the season at $3.50 a bundle of from two to six trees, was demoralized.

Similar conditions were reported from New York, with farmers going from door to door selling home-cut trees for anything they could get. Overcutting, spurred by reports of high prices, was blamed for the surplus.

GEN. MacARTHUR DENIES HE WILL VISIT U. S. SOON

Rumors Are Unfounded, Spokesman Says.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ. IN NEW GUINEA, Dec. 23 [Thursday] —(AP).—Published reports in the United States that Gen. MacArthur would go to Washington, D. C., next March—reports which were linked with a "MacArthur for President" movement — were characterized today by the general's spokesman as without foundation.

He said Gen. MacArthur had no plans to return to the United States in the near future.

When these published reports first were brought to the attention of headquarters, it was pointed out that MacArthur and his staff were too occupied with the newly opened invasion of New Britain Island to have the time or opportunity for comment on political issues.

Referring specifically to reports published in the Indianapolis Star, MacArthur's spokesman said:

"There is no foundation whatsoever for the statement that Gen. MacArthur expects to go to Washington in the near future for conferences."

Plans Unknown to Curtin.

In Australia it was stated officially that Prime Minister John Curtin knew nothing about such plans and that he would have been consulted inasmuch as MacArthur is partly responsible to the commonwealth government. Australian official circles called attention to Gen. MacArthur's statement last October that his primary concern was to win his way back to the Philippines, that he preferred the life of a general and had no political ambitions.

[The Indianapolis Star on Tuesday said in a dispatch from its Washington bureau there were "persistent reports of reliable persons returning from Australia" that the general would return to the United States next March and that Lt Gen. Walter Krueger, commander of the United States 6th army, would take over MacArthur's command.]

Marshall on Way to Capital.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the United States army, left for Washington, D. C., today after arriving here from a tour of the Southwest Pacific war theater, where he conferred with senior military and naval leaders, army officials announced.

Gen. Marshall arrived from Honolulu yesterday, and while here conferred with officials of the film and aircraft production industries.

Report King, Nimitz Changes.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Presidential Secretary Stephen Early, replying to a question, said today he had heard nothing about reports that Adm. Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the fleet and chief of naval operations, might be transferred to sea duty, and be succeeded by Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, who commands the Pacific fleet.

Division of Command Indicated.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—A grand division of the allied command appeared possible tonight, with Gen. Eisenhower commander in chief for the western European invasion, a British officer commander in chief for the Mediterranean, and Gen. George C. Marshall retaining a high and perhaps heightened staff position with both the European and Pacific wars.

Gen. Marshall's tour of the Southwest Pacific war theater, on which he went directly from the middle east conferences of allied leaders in a trip around the world, emphasized his global position and particularly his responsibility for a phase of the war in which American public interest exceeds the British at present—the war against Japan.

Complex Situation.

Marshall initially had been headed for the command in the western European theater. But the impression here was strong that Eisenhower was accepted at Teheran as an alternate and that he finally will be designated.

It was pointed out, too, that the Mediterranean area is of greater long term British interest than of American interest, and that the main weight of military force there is British. There is, in fact, much to indicate that the battle there will become more and more a British enterprise.

Outstanding in Midshipmen Class

SUGGESTS WHIFF OF SALT AIR FOR DESK ADMIRALS

Sheppard Asks Cut in Capital Officers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—A whiff of salt air for hundreds of navy officers now polishing desk chairs in Washington was prescribed today by Rep. Harry R. Sheppard [D., Cal.], chairman of the house navy appropriations subcommittee.

Rep. Sheppard.

Since Sheppard is the man whose committee decides how much money the navy may spend each year, his views aroused the attention of the Washington admirals and the navy secretary.

A sea voyage will clear the cobwebs from the brains of gold braided officers whose fighting talents have too long been devoted to attacks upon red tape, Sheppard opined.

Asks Detailed Report.

The Californian called upon the bureau of naval personnel to submit a detailed report on the number of officers assigned to Washington, the nature of their duties, and whether their functions can't be performed by WAVES or civilian personnel.

There are estimated 16,000 to 20,000 navy officers in the capital at present out of a total officer personnel of 212,000.

Sheppard was reluctant to estimate how many of those in desk jobs could be serving the country better in the field but finally said 3 per cent of those in Washington could probably be lifted from their desk jobs.

Rest Cut Personnel.

A survey of navy departments in the rest of the country, undertaken by the committee during the past months, showed commendable improvements in the reduction of clerical personnel, Sheppard added.

The inquiry should also disclose, he said, the part which the WAVES can play in reducing shore personnel in Washington.

The committee initiated legislation last year which limited the navy's employment of civilian personnel in Washington to 20,000 persons. The department now has about two persons in uniform for every three civilian employes in Washington.

HALSEY PRAISES CREW WHO SANK JAP DESTROYER

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Dec. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—The spirit shown by the destroyer Selfridge in sinking at least one and probably two Japanese destroyers and firing on two others "is the spirit that will put us into Tokio," Adm. William F. Halsey said today in decorating the warship's commander.

Comdr. George Edward Peckham, 35, of Philadelphia, and Cresco, Ia., was awarded the navy gold star for the Selfridge's part in a night sea battle in the Solomons, Oct. 6.

"Our ship fired at four targets," Peckham said. "We sank one, probably sank another, damaged the third and fired at the fourth. A torpedo knocked off our bow. Fifty-two of our crew were killed or are missing and 14 were wounded."

[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Capt. B. B. Wygand as he addressed graduating midshipmen.

The 16th class, comprising 1,120 ensigns, to complete the midshipmen's course conducted in Abbot hall, Northwestern university, was graduated yesterday. After short holiday leaves the new deck officers will report to various ships and stations for duty.

Capt. J. A. Briggs, chief of staff to Rear Adm. A. C. Read, chief of naval air technical training in Chicago, and Capt. B. B. Wygant, commandant of the midshipmen's school, addressed the graduates, telling them that the success of the navy is in their hands.

Ensign William A. Root, Hingham, Mass., won first honors in navigation and placed third in general excellence. Len M. Nelson Jr., Kansas City, Mo., was first in ordnance, seamanship, and general excellence Willard H. Hunzleman, Des Moines, Ia., was first in general aptitude, and Carleton J. Stauffer, York, Pa., was second in general excellence.

JAPS CLEARED FROM HALF OF CHINA RICE BOWL

CHUNGKING, China, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Chinese high command announced tonight that Japanese forces had been cleared from the area south of the Lin river, thus restoring half of the rice bowl to China. Enemy remnants on the north bank of the Lin also were said to have been cleared. The bulletin indicated the Japanese withdrawal was continuing, with the Chinese pursuing the fleeing Japanese on various routes.

OFFICES ROBBED OF $1,000.

Burglars broke into the Reliable Cartage company offices, 464 North May street, yesterday and took $1,000, Sam Catalano, the owner, reported to police.

JUDGES OF LIARS TUNE IN ON AXIS TO PRACTICE UP!

Burlington, Wis., Dec. 22 (AP).—Four officers of the Burlington Liars' club gathered around a short wave radio set today to listen to broadcasts from Tokio and Berlin.

O. C. Hulett, originator of the club, said they were "getting in shape to pick the 1943 champion liar—and boy, there's nothing better than those axis broadcasts to get us warmed up to our job."

Approximately 6,000 persons who like to spin tall yarns have tossed their entries into the laps of Hulett and his three companions, who will come up New Year's eve with the "winner and new world champion," as they have been doing for 12 years.

Fighters Enter Tales.

Nearly half of this year's entries have come from members of the fighting forces, indicating that even in war "it seems you can't wipe out the old American sense of humor."

Mosquitoes are prominent in many of the entries. Fred Kuntz, a Seabee somewhere in the Pacific, writes to tell how the pests in that area are getting choosey.

"The other night," he said, "several of my buddies were awakened by mosquitoes walking on their chests and turning over their dog tags to find out what type blood they had."

Capt. Louis H. Reddis of the marines, who is stationed in Newport, R. I., also offered a mosquito story.

Hot Air, No Doubt.

He said two men were wondering how long it would take a mosquito to fill up with blood. One let a mosquito light on his hand and dig in while the other held a watch and timed the proceedings.

After three minutes the mosquito had run its bill clear thru the hand and was sucking air.

A Pennsylvania apple grower said his apples grew so big that cider flooded the community when one fell off a tree. He uses the stems for cordwood, hauling them to the mills by tractors, and cut 1,400 feet of timber from one stem.

Seems There Were 2 Farmers.

Then there were the farmers who were boasting of their strength and ability to pitch the biggest forkful of hay. To see who was the better, Farmer John drove a load of hay to his barn. He dug his fork into the pile and pitched it up. A second forkful and his wagon was empty.

Farmer Lem, who had a bigger wagon and a bigger barn, then went into action. He drove his fork into a load, pitched it into his barn, and turned around for another forkful.

His horse and wagon were gone. He had jabbed his fork thru the hay, stuck it into the wagon, and had pitched hay, horse, and wagon into the barn in one toss.

MARSHALL GETS INTO HOT WATER; SO DO 3 YANKS

ARMY HDQ. CENTRAL PACIFIC, Dec. 22 (AP).—Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, paid a surprise visit to a camp kitchen on Oahu Island—and got sprinkled with hot water for his curiosity.

Startled at the sight of a four star general, Sgt. Edward Carlo, Niagara Falls, N. Y., and two privates tried to salute with a pail of water in their hands. Marshall was splashed.

Marshall congratulated Carlo for the spick and span kitchen but asked, "You won't burn me if I visit you again?"

NAZIS DREAM OF CHRISTMAS, BUT IT'S A BLUE ONE

No Gifts, No Santa, No 'Tannenbaums.'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 19 [Delayed]—(AP).—There is no Christmas spirit this year in Germany, where formerly "Der Tannenbaum" [the Christmas tree] was in every home and Christmas was always a white one.

"Blue fire" has become the symbol of Berlin's Christmas, which may be the worst in Germany's history, said Herje Granberg, Aftonbladet correspondent.

"It is the fire which springs from the flames of coal stocks in burning cellars," he said.

"There is no festive spirit over this Christmas. A few days ago a Christmas snow fell, covering both the ashes and ruins with a merciful cloak of white, but now it is melted and everything is grey, naked, and cold. Berliners will never forget this Christmas of 1943.

Shortage of Yule Trees.

"Berlin's streets today present a horrible picture of destroyed and burned houses. In cellars where winter coal stocks are still burning three weeks after the first great November raid, the bluish flames make a ghostly impression.

"Because of the shortage of Christmas trees, Berliners are making trees from old branches of tied sticks decorated with bits of tinfoil salvaged from sheets dropped by the R. A. F. in an effort to deflect the rays of anti-aircraft batteries."

Olle Ollen, Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Social Demokraten, who is in Stockholm for the holidays, said "The Masses of bombed out people now form a real new army of sympathizers, perhaps not fully in favor of the Nazis, but loyal. They are a real factor to count with, for the regime can depend on them. It is not the revolutionary force which the allies may have expected after the bombings."

People Live Primitively.

The Russian war dominates everything, Ollen added, for the average German "really is afraid that all German life will be destroyed if the Russian army breaks thru the east front."

Ollen's observations undoubtely reflect accurately a large section of German opinion and reëmphasize the effect of Nazi propaganda on German thinking. However, Ollen plans to return to Berlin after the holidays and obviously could not write a full story.

Ollen said the Germans are living in primitive fashion, with paper and boards covering bomb shattered windows.

Rain Seeps Thru Roofs.

"The rain seeps thru the burned out upper floors into the living quarters and into the cellars," he related. Many homes have no gas or light and little heating. But one can live very primitively and work. I have seen many such examples. One factory manager told me production was being maintained."

He reported there will be virtually no exchanges of Christmas presents and few family gatherings. Most children have been evacuated and most husbands and wives are separated.

Thousands of homes have been destroyed. Department stores are like tombs, with nothing to sell. The vegetable supply is insufficient and worse than last year.

YEAR'S INQUIRY LIFTS SOME OF DARLAN SECRECY

Father of Assassin Seeks to Clear Youth.

ALGIERS, Algeria, Dec. 22 (AP).—An anguished father, seeking to clear the name of his son who a year ago Christmas eve ended the life of Adm. Jean Francois Darlan in a flurry of gunfire, has lifted some of the secrecy thrown over the death of the little man who tried to be all things to all men.

Fernand Bonnier de la Chapelle.

One year of untiring effort by Eugene Bonnier de la Chapelle, newspaper man, has won partial vindication of the name of his 20 year old son, Fernand, a frail university student who died before a firing squad the day after Christmas.

As the result of the father's appeal, the justice ministry of the French committee of national liberation has announced that a reëxamination of the case revealed that the youth had not been connected with the axis.

Tool of Older Men.

Gradually thru the year these facts have become apparent, altho the full story may not be told until the many persons involved in the plot are dead:

1. The fierce emotional idealism of the young student, who was an ardent follower of Gen. Charles de Gaulle, was used by older men who never have been brought to trial.

2. These men supplied him with a gun and the opportunity to shoot Darlan.

3. The youth was tried hurriedly and shot within 48 hours of the assassination.

4. A story spread around Algiers, to the effect that the assassination was a royalist plot to install the prince of Paris, a Morocco pig farmer, as the king of North Africa, was a smoke screen raised to confuse the situation.

"Inspired by Finest Sentiments."

One-half hour before the young student was shot he wrote a letter to his father in which he said:

"If I must die, it cannot be helped. The chief thing is that we must be certain that it is not useless. I feel that if now my crime seems to be stupid, it will be found later on that it was inspired by the finest sentiments."

In the swift changing political events that followed, the gray haired father, who won the Croix de Guerre in the last war at 17, remained silent, but early last month he addressed a letter to De Gaulle, Gen. Henri Giraud, and French Minister of Justice George Catroux.

"I know that a few weeks after the execution of my son an inquest was opened against high personalities," the father said in his letter. "This inquest was much more minute and took much longer than the one of my son. The result of this inquest was a returning of 'no bills.'"

This hearing was one which eventually released Henri D'Astier de Vigerie and a priest who were arrested shortly after Darlan's death and held for many weeks. The former was assistant to Jean Rigaud, minister of the interior under Darlan, and brother of Gen. Emmanuel Dasteir de la Vigerie, a De Gaulle follower.

Rigaud had charge of the arrest and subsequent trial of De la Chapelle. He has disappeared from Algiers and was last reported living in Morocco.

2 THINGS WORRY TOJO—FOOD AND MORE AIRPLANES

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Premier Hideki Tojo told a conference of Japanese district governors today that "the reënforcement of the air arm is the key to victory in modern warfare," and that such reënforcement depended in Japan's case upon solution of two fundamental problems, transportation and labor, the Tokio radio said today.

A lengthy transmission to the Japanese-controled press also quoted Tojo as warning the district executives that "unwavering determination" was required from the Japanese people and that hunger constituted the greatest danger to such determination.

PREDICTS 396,000 WAR CASUALTIES IN THREE MONTHS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Hinting at offensives far mightier and bloodier than any yet undertaken by Anglo-American arms, one of the government's highest executives predicted tonight that American battle casualties in the next 90 days would more than triple the total for two years of war.

The present total of dead, wounded, missing, and prisoners is approximately 132,000, which would mean that casualties totaling about 396,000 are expected in the next 90 days. This would bring total casualties to approximately 528,000 since the start of the war.

The forecast, made by an official who preferred to be unidentified, appeared to contemplate a full scale assault on the European continent within a matter of weeks and perhaps additional smashes at Japanese strongholds in the Pacific, where softening up processes already have been applied.

WEARY OF WAR, BRITISH FAMILIES PLAN MIGRATION

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—Thousands of British families, wearied by four years of war and facing a possibility of a long period of European unrest when the present conflict ends, are planning to settle in other parts of the empire when transportation again is available.

London representatives of the dominion governments are being deluged by inquiries on opportunities for founding new homes and careers in Australia, Canada, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa.

Food a Prime Factor.

Aerial bombardment has brought this war more than any other to the home of the civilian population, but aside from this the fact that such a large quantity of food and other supplies must be imported to maintain civilian life makes war time hardships greater here than in any other part of the empire.

Another factor arousing interest in migration is the world-wide nature of the war, which has given the British working man, who normally travels little, an opportunity to see other parts of the empire as a soldier. Much interest has been expressed in South Africa where hundreds of Britons training as airmen have written home to their families about the country. Empire troops stationed here also have aroused interest in other parts of the world.

Seek Employment and Schools.

Most inquiries have related to the possibility of obtaining employment and educating children, but the prospective migrant also wants to know about income taxes and whether the governments will give settlers any financial aid.

Plans for handling immigrants still are in the formative stage. At present travel is restricted to those on war business and the first concern of dominions' authorities is to get their troops home and find jobs for them. A Union of South Africa official said that until ex-soldiers have been taken care of, it is not likely that there will be any mass movement from the United Kingdom, but the problems are under consideration by all governments. Resettlement is expected to be one of the major issues before the empire council which may meet here before the end of the war.

POPE ADDRESSES MESSAGE TO ALL WAR PRISONERS

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—A Vichy radio broadcast recorded by the British ministry of information said today that Pope Pius XII. had addressed the following message to all war prisoners:

"To our beloved prisoners—those who wait anxiously for the moment when they can celebrate at home with their dear ones the holy feast of Christmas—we send our warmest affection and paternal benediction and we hope the feasts founded by our Lord will be a comfort to all those in distress and a firm hope for a new era of Christian prosperity."

CHICAGOAN AIDS IN AN OPERATION BY FLASHLIGHT

BOUGAINVILLE, Solomon Islands [Delayed].—By the light of four flashlights, navy surgeons saved the life of Marine Sgt. Hugh M. Helvey, 25, of Pikesville, Ky.

Shrapnel had pierced his stomach and, without an operation, death was a matter of hours. Lt. [j. g.] Duncan Shepard, Atlanta, Ga., assigned to operate, sent to the beach for instruments. They were still packed in crates.

Just as an air raid alarm sounded an anesthetic was administered and, by the light of four flashlights held by marines, Dr. Shepard began. Without rest, he and his assistant, Lt. [j. g.] L. J. Kosciuski, 2532 North Richmond avenue, Chicago, completed the operation and Helvey recovered.

HALSEY ADMITS HE WAS A POOR CRYSTAL GAZER

ALLIED HDQ. IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Dec. 13 [Delayed]—(AP).—Adm. William F. Halsey, who last New Year's day predicted "complete, absolute defeat for the axis powers in 1943," isn't so sure now when the war will be over.

"Only God knows how long this war will last," he conceded today.

The commander withdrew from long range forecasting a few months after his famous prediction that no one will let him forget. When asked about it now, he says, "I refuse to gaze into the crystal ball any more."

But his confidence in the ultimate outcome hasn't changed a bit.

ALLIES HAMMER 2 NAZI CITADELS ON ITALIAN LINE

Yanks Reach Outskirts of Gate to Rome Plain.

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 22 (AP).—Two principal strongholds in the German defense line for Rome—San Vittore and Ortona—were under intense assault by American and Canadian troops tonight and announcement of the capture of either or both was expected momentarily.

American troops were reported to have fought into the outskirts of San Vittore, fortified village six miles southeast of Cassino on the main Rome highway, while Canadian tanks and infantry of the 8th army battled thru the streets of Ortona, Adriatic anchor of the Nazi line.

Seizure of San Vittore would open the way to Cassino and give Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 5th army tanks a chance to take some of the burden off the weary infantry, which has been struggling forward foot by foot thru the mountains. A low plain spreads out beyond Cassino toward Rome, 70 miles away.

Drive Thru Rugged Terrain.

Preceded by heavy artillery and mortar fire, American doughboys methodically wiped out enemy pillboxes around San Vittore.

A flank drive on Cassino from the northeast by American and French troops made progress thru rugged terrain west of Filignano. American infantry was reported attacking the mountain village of Acquafondata, only about eight air line miles from Cassino, after capturing a 3,000-foot peak in hard fighting. Cardito, four miles north of Acquafondata, also was under assault.

Disclosure that French troops for three days had been struggling for possession of a mountain pass in this flank thrust gave the location of Gen. Alphonse Juin's units for the first time since their presence in Italy was announced last week. The French infantry, employing American weapons, won the southern shoulder of the pass.

Near Key Port of Pescara.

Across Italy on the Adriatic, Canadian forces fought a roaring battle in Ortona. Normally a town of 9,000 population perched on a shelf 200 feet above the sea, Ortona has been turned into a vertible fortress by the Nazis.

A field dispatch said the Canadians occupied the southeastern half of Ortona yesterday. It reported the Canadians had to clear out much of the town one building at a time and took only 10 prisoners.

Ortona is only 11 miles from the coveted Italian port of Pescara from which a main highway cuts across the waist of Italy to Rome.

In an effort to relieve the pressure on Ortona, the Nazis sprang a counter-attack led by flame-throwers against New Zealand forces holding the road running inland from Ortona to Orsogna, but the attack was smashed.

[Germany's war report on Italy yesterday said: "Enemy attacks on the Adriatic coast subsided. Weaker thrusts in the Ortona sector were repulsed.]

For the first time in five days, muggy weather kept the big bombers of the 15th United States air force on the ground, but allied fighter-bombers and medium bombers attacked German ground positions and communications.

SPAIN 'REGRETS' INSULTS IN U. S. CONSUL'S OFFICE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The state department announced tonight that the Falangist party had presented its "profound regret" to the American embassy in Madrid for a disturbance created by members of the official Spanish party in the American consulate at Valencia.

The incident occurred last Saturday when two Falangists entered the consulate, tore photographs from the walls, and harangued visitors. Ambassador Carlton Hayes made representations to the Madrid government.

The Spanish apology said "the culprits, who are now under arrest, will be expelled from the party and placed at the disposition of the courts of justice." The state department said the national delegate of foreign services and the vice secretary of the party called at the American embassy Monday to present the apology in behalf of Jose Arrese, minister of the party.

BENES FORESEES RED-CZECH PACT SOON WITH POLES

Aims to Block Nazi Door to East.

MOSCOW, Dec. 22 (AP).—President Eduard Benes of the Czecho-Slovak government in exile expressed confidence today that Czecho-Slovakia and the soviet union, newly linked in a 20 year treaty of friendship, mutual aid, and post-war collaboration, will reach an agreement with Poland soon.

[The Moscow radio announced that the treaty—the first step toward putting up a barrier against future German aggression in eastern Europe—was formally ratified in the Kremlin Wednesday night by soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov and Col. Zdenek Fierlinger, Czech ambassador.]

Confident of Pact.

Describing the pact as part of a "general system of security," Benes told a press conference that "the soviet union and the Czechs sincerely believe we can come to a settlement and an assurable peace also with Poland." He added:

"The intentions of the soviet union toward Poland are the same as they were to us—to see an independent country strong and democratic and in full coöperation. From this point of view I go back to London with absolute assurance, tranquility, and confidence."

Benes said a reconciliation between the soviet union and Poland, whose break in relations has constituted the only major rift in the allied nations, would be an "extremely delicate job" and added, "I shall not intervene in difficulties between two other states."

He agreed, however, that the protocol to the soviet-Czech pact leaving it open to any neighbor was "an invitation to Poland." He expressed confidence in the rapprochement of Poland and Russia before the end of the war.

"It is a question of the near future," Benes said.

Aimed at Germany.

Benes said the soviet-Czech pact had "one special aim—to stop the 'drang nach osten' [Germany's traditional 'drive to the east']."

This aim, he said, was particularly important for Czecho-Slovakia, Poland, and the Ukraine.

At the same time, today's issue of the Russian labor magazine War and the Working Class let it be known that it considers the Baltic states soviet. Reactionary plots have been aimed at recognition of "former Fascist governments of Lithuania, Latvia, and Estonia," it said.

WAR SCARE HITS ISTANBUL; TURKS CROSS INTO ASIA

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 21 [Delayed] (AP).—A first class "war scare" hit its full stride in Istanbul today as many families living in the European part of Turkey moved over to the Asiatic side of the Strait of Bosporus.

Gold prices, which took a long jump upward when President Inonu went to Cairo for conferences with President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill, and which flopped after his return, reached new highs today.

The widespread scare developed despite Foreign Minister Numan Menemencioglu's announcement that Turkey's foreign policy remained unchanged and newspaper advice that there was no reason for panic.

FIVE HUNGARIAN ANTI-NAZIS FACE TREASON TRIAL

BY SAM BREWER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 21 [Delayed].—Five Hungarian democratic leaders, accused of high treason, face possible execution for anti-Nazi speeches in a recent secret session of the Hungarian parliament, it was learned today.

Alarmed pro-Nazi elements have undertaken what amounts to a purge of all capable democratic leaders to stifle opposition to the Nazis and to prevent possible German occupation.

Unite Against Liberals.

The Premier Nicholas Kallay himself had been accused by Bela Imredy, the extremist, of "growing lukewarm toward the war effort." Kallay and Imredy have joined to crush democratic, liberal, and socialist elements.

They voted to cancel parliamentary immunity of five outstanding leaders of the opposition so that they could be tried for high treason. These leaders are Charles Peyer, president of the Social Democratic party; Anna Kethly, woman Socialist; Arpad Szakasits, Andre Bajcsy-Zsilinsky, representing small land owners, and Imre Kovacs, peasant leader. They represent all shades of anti-Nazi opinion.

The treason charges are believed to be a mere effort to gag opposition demands that coöperation with the Nazis be ended and a move for peace instituted. Bajcsy-Zsilinsky in a speech on the floor of the Hungarian parliament had said:

"In accordance to the opinion and conviction of our party, Hungary is not obliged by any treaty, pact, or promise to send soldiers into this war. Our only real duty is to recall our troops. We can do that without being traitors.

Assails War on United States.

"And still I must mention our declaration of war against the United States, which gives homes to 1,500,000 Hungarians. The war with America has no reason and it is against our interests. We should have done like the Finns, who never gave up their diplomatic contact with the United States."

Bajcsy-Zsilinsky finished his speech amid angry shouts from the right of "dirty Red" and "slave of New York." Premier Kallay at the same time forbade Bajcsy-Zsilinsky to repeat a word of his speech and ordered that none of it appear in the press. All anti-war portions of the anti-Nazi leaders' speeches were suppressed, but the texts have been smuggled here.

The campaign to eliminate political opposition in Hungary is taken here as proof that the Germans are worried about their hold on eastern Europe and that Hungarian extreme right elements are trying to clean house to prevent a German occupation.

TRIBUNE WRITER RETURNS FROM PACIFIC FRONTS

Robert Cromie, Chicago Tribune war correspondent who covered the fighting with the Japanese in the Southwest Pacific, including the battles on Guadalcanal, returned to Chicago and home yesterday after an absence of 17 months. "It's great to be back," he said, as he hugged his wife, Alice, and their son, Michael, 4 years old. It'll be a happy Christmas, they all agreed.

Cromie, in his long assignment, reported spot news from Australia, New Guinea, New Britain, New Zealand, New Caledonia, New Hebrides, and the Solomons, including Guadalcanal. He was often under heavy enemy gunfire, especially on Guadalcanal which marked the first real stop of Japan and the first real advance of American forces. That fight will live longest in his memory, he said.

"The Japs are unquestionably good fighters, but in our boys they have met their masters," said Cromie. The army, navy and marines coöperate beautifully, he added. Cromie will be home several weeks. Another Tribune war correspondent home for the holidays is Seymour Korman, who was assigned to the Mediterranean theater.

When rifle shots and grenades fell upon the cortege from windows along a street, Fascists and Nazi troops returned the fire and panic broke out among the crowds. The casualties included Fascists and by-standers, including several women.

COL. GARDINER, 3 CHICAGOANS CITED BY ARMY

His Tank Smashed, Led Attack on Foot.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Award of the oak leaf cluster to the silver star to Lt. Col. Henry E. Gardiner, of 20 North Wacker drive, Chicago, and the silver star to three other Chicago heroes of the North African campaign was announced today by the war department.

Lt. Col. H. E. Gardiner.

"While leading his battalion in an attack against enemy tanks and artillery," the announcement said, "the tank in which he [Gardiner] was riding was immobilized by direct fire from enemy guns. After removing members of his crew from the tank, he gave himself first aid and continued to direct the attack on foot, walking from tank to tank, amid heavy artillery and small arms fire. He allowed himself to be evacuated only after the action was terminated."

Holds DSC and Purple Heart.

Gardiner, attorney and member of the Black Horse squadron of the 106th cavalry, Illinois National Guard, wears the distinguished service cross and the Purple Heart also. He is credited with delivering a decisive blow in the allied campaign which crushed the Tunisian offensive of Marshal Erwin Rommel.

Announcement of silver star awards to Chicagoans read as follows:

Lt. Howard T. Price, infantry, 6818 Wayne avenue. He continually exposed himself to enemy machine gun and small arms fire in an attack on strong enemy positions in order to check on the dispositions of his men. Altho wounded, he insisted upon issuing his orders before he would allow himself to be evacuated to a place of safety. [Reported wounded in action Feb. 28, 1943; released from hospital March 4, 1943.]

Refused First Aid.

Pvt. Clarence H. Elwood, infantry, 57 East 18th street. His vehicle was attacked by enemy aircraft and he received a bullet in the joint of his right knee. Altho suffering great pain from the wound, he refused first aid and only asked that his wounded comrades be cared for. He then drove 24 miles over rough terrain. [Reported wounded in action Feb. 14, 1943; released from hospital May 2, 1943.]

Pvt. George W. Steinke, infantry, 1133 Milwaukee avenue. While participating in a mounted counter-attack under heavy enemy rifile and machine gun fire, Steinke gallantly leaped from his vehicle and disarmed a group of the enemy. Again at a later date he effectively manned a 37 mm. anti-tank gun in the face of heavy mortar and machine gun fire. These courageous actions merit recognition as an outstanding example of courage, aggressiveness, and devotion to duty.

BRITAIN'S REDS WILL STICK TO INTERNATIONALE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 22.—British Communists intend to stick to the 'Internationale" as their revolutionary hymn, said William Rus, executive member of the British Communist party, despite its abandonment as a national anthem by soviet Russia.

Rus indicated the new soviet anthem will be sung here only on formal occasions.

The Daily Worker in an editorial said that "the 'Internationale' remains the inspiring song of the down-trodden and oppressed, and of all who fought tyranny and thirst for freedom, and it will continue to be sung in solidarity by the working peoples the world over."

The Daily Mail this morning complimented Marshal Josef Stalin's decision to abandon the "Internationale" as an "action of political wisdom and common sense."

HURL NAZI TANKS AT RUSSIANS ON 400 MILE FRONT

LONDON, Dec. 23 [Thursday]—(AP).—The German high command has hurled a gigantic new tank offensive against soviet forces on a 400 mile front between Zhlobin in White Russia and the southern Ukraine as Russian Baltic troops in the north wheeled within 15 miles of Vitebsk, Moscow dispatches said today.

The new Nazi attack was described as one of the war's heaviest armored assaults. First reports from the front, a Moscow dispatch said, told of Russian forces holding firm. Russian heavy artillery and big mobile guns were said to have shot up 148 of the attacking tanks thruout yesterday.

Capture 20 Towns.

In the drive on Vitebsk the Russian Baltic army forced its way across an important water barrier to the north of the Nazi base, killing several thousand Germans and capturing 20 more populated places despite reënforced German resistance which in one sector launched 16 counter-attacks.

A Moscow radio commentator said the main defense line before Vitebsk was cracked by the Red army and Russian troops, tanks and guns poured thru "like an avalanche."

Repel German Thrusts.

In other sectors of the 800 mile front, said the Moscow war report, the Germans counter-attacked with strong forces.

These were the Korosten area of the Kiev bulge, where the Russians said they improved their defensive positions, and south in the Dnieper bend, where German attacks southeast of Kirovograd were beaten off.

REDS HALTED: BERLIN.

The German war report yesterday said Russian attempts to break thru north and east of Vitebsk and northwest of Nevel failed.

Berlin also said a Russian battalion was wiped out on the front north of the Crimea and that violent Russian attacks against the Nikopol bridgehead on the Dnieper and southwest of Dnepropetrovsk had failed. The Germans said they advanced southeast of Kirovograd in the Dnieper bend and that strong Russian counter-attacks were repelled northeast of Zhitomir, in the Kiev bulge.

EMPLOYE REPORTS $267 HOLDUP.

Sam Heard, Negro, 641 East 62d street, an employe of the Pick Fisheries at 404 East 61st street, told police last night that he was held up at 100th street and Cottage Grove avenue and robbed of $267.80 belonging to the fisheries.

ADAMIC VISIONS BALKAN MERGER, WITH RED TINGE

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Louis Adamic, author and authority on the Balkans, tonight predicted a south Slavic federation, including Bulgaria, which will be patterned after the Russian government. He spoke at a public rally commemorating the 10th anniversary of the German reichstag fire trial.

Declaring "we long have been pledged to the proposition that socialism can be established in this country only by the conscious will and decision of the American people," Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party, said:

"Since such a decision for socialism in America is not probable in the near future, the Communists are pledged to work with the non-Communist Progressives and Democrats for the realization of progressive aims within the framework of the capitalist system."

Churchill So Much Better Daily Bulletins Are Halted

LABOR LEADERS OF U. S. ASSAILED BY SOVIET PAPER

MOSCOW, Dec. 22 (AP).—The soviet labor publication War and the Working Class today called John L. Lewis, American labor leader, "that Fascist sectarian," and also accused "reactionary leaders" of the American Federation of Labor of making political war against both soviet labor unions and the soviet union.

The publication named as the AFL leaders Matthew Woll, AFL vice president; William L. Hutcheson, president of the carpenters union; David Dubinsky, international president of the Ladies Garment Workers' union, and Isidore Nagler, fraternal delagate of the AFL, but added that William Green, AFL president, who is a member of the Society for Soviet-American Friendship, did "not react to the activities of the Woll-Hutcheson-Dubinsky group."

[The Ladies Garment Workers' union is an independent body, not affiliated with either the AFL or the CIO].

The article said Woll, Hutcheson, Dubinsky and others endeavored to strengthen their own positions by trying to lead the miners back into the AFL.

"Hope to Break Unity."

"They hope to break down all attempts by advocates of national unity of the AFL and CIO," it said. "The reactionary top of the AFL used this platform as an excuse for an open and noisy demonstration against collaboration with soviet labor unions.

"Nagler as a delegate of the AFL used the platforms of the Congress of British Trade Unions for hostile attacks on soviet labor unions. This was done with the purpose of preventing further rapprochement and mutual understanding between the soviet and British trade unions and to serve as a signal for a new campaign of the reactionaries inside the AFL.

"Indeed Nagler and the other reactionaries aim to make a political war not only against soviet labor unions, but against the soviet union, a country which as an ally of the United States is carrying on a war of liberation against the common enemy, Germany.

"This hostile act was followed by an open, wrathful anti-soviet campaign in a number of publications."

The author praised the national congress of the CIO at Philadelphia and said it was fused with a progressive spirit.

DYESS, BATAAN HERO, IS KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

He Fled Jap Prison Camp After Philippines Fell.

to wrath against the Japanese such as never had been turned against Hitler.

We learned that the major [who became a lieutenant colonel before the month was over] was suffering from no open wound. He was suffering only from malnutrition and the treatment received from the imperial Japanese army.

Dyess had been sent to the hospital in this little West Virginia town by Gen. H. H. [Hap] Arnold, commanding general of the United States air forces.

He Knew too Much.

Dyess had received a strange reception in Washington. Instead of having been welcomed as a hero worthy of the best American traditions he was told he knew too much about the war in the Pacific. He was told America was not yet ready for his story. He was told he might tell his story to certain officers of the army and navy but he might not tell it for publication.

All this came out gradually on this sunny day in West Virginia. Dyess could not tell even in what part of the Pacific theater he had been until he had official permission from Washington to do so.

He waited even until he had permission to talk to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. And when he had that permission, the story he told would have been unbelievable, except that parts of it already had seeped thru. And there was that other quality in the man; the knowledge one felt on meeting him that he simply could not lie about anything. He was incapable of it. This is illustrated by the story widely printed by Byron Darnton of the New York Times, who died in an airplane accident in Australia. Darnton told the story as follows:

"Lt. Ben S. Brown had heard that two American correspondents were visiting this advanced air base so he sent word he would like to see us. He was in the field hospital awaiting a minor operation.

An Ideal Officer.

"Ben Brown is from Hawkinsville, Ga., is 25 years old. 'I didn't want you to come to see me so I could talk about myself,' he said. 'I want to tell you about Capt. [as he was then] Ed Dyess. I don't think his story has been told back in the United States, and I think it ought to be. We were together up in the Philippines. He was a Texas boy from Albany. His wife is Marajen Dyess, who runs a newspaper in Champaign, Ill.

"'Ed is 6 feet tall and has blond, wavy hair. He was 26 years old this month and, boy, he was an ideal officer.

"'We were on the most northern field on Bataan. We had only 15 planes at the time, and Ed was the commanding officer of the field squadron. Ed had a lot of work to do, but if a dangerous mission came up, nine times out of 10 he would take it. There wasn't anything the pilots wouldn't do for Ed because he never asked them to do what he wouldn't do. We got word one day that three 12,000 ton tankers, a transport, a cruiser, and some destroyers had pulled into Subic bay on the western coast of Luzon.

Did It All Himself.

"'Ed took a P-40, hung a 500 pound bomb into its belly and started out to bomb and strafe the Japs. He made three trips. I was his relief pilot but he wouldn't let me fly. He did it all himself. He missed with his bombs but hit a small island on which supplies were stored and blew them all up. By strafing he set fire to one 12,000 ton tanker, beached another, and sank four 100 ton launches, and he strafed troops and docks and caused a lot of casualties and destruction'."

[The following day the Japanese radio reported Subic bay had been raided by two flights of four motored bombers with fighter escorts.]

War gardeners in the Chicago area planted more than 2,500 acres of land during the past year, producing more than 60,000 tons of vegetables, under the supervision of wardens of the office of civilian defense, Mayor Kelly, OCD coördinator, said yesterday in an annual report.

Other OCD accomplishments of the year included the establishment of 108 community report centers, organization of a war emergency service which led the country in the collection of waste fats.

BATAAN HERO'S DEATH STUNS FATHER IN TEXAS

News Spreads Quickly Thru Texas Town.

Albany, Tex., Dec. 22 [Special].—"Judge" Richard E. Dyess tonight received in stunned grief the news that his son, Lt. Col. William Edwin Dyess, died when his plane crashed into a California church steeple.

R. E. Dyess.

Inspired by Lindbergh's hop to France, Judge Dyess urged his son to become a flyer and received the greatest thrill of his life when Edwin decided to enter Randolph field, "the West Point of the air," instead of the University of Texas law school.

Mysteriously Reappeared.

Only a few weeks ago Judge Dyess beamed as his son—a fist full of medals pinned to his blouse—was welcomed home by a mass turnout in honor of America's "mystery hero of Bataan."

How Ed Dyess escaped from a Jap prison camp after the fall of Bataan has never been told—only the bare facts of his mysterious reappearance at a United States outpost and his subsequent return to the states a few months ago are known.

War department secrecy has shrouded the story, but Judge Dyess hopes it will be told. "It's a great story," he said tonight. "It should be told. The people should know the facts of the treatment of the prisoners of Bataan."

News Spreads Rapidly.

The townsfolk here, who have known Ed since he was a tow headed kid who swept out the school on afternoons and worked Saturdays in a filling station, gathered in groups to tell their sorrow to his father.

Thru the early hours of the night Judge Dyess sat by the phone to tell callers the story—which spread rapidly thru town—was true. He didn't know the details.

EAR DUCTS 'GET' FLYER AS NAZI GUNNERS FAIL

Dives 20,000 Feet to English Channel.

Lt. William E. Peters Jr. flew 14 missions over Germany and occupied European countries as pilot of a Flying Fortress. Tho the Germans didn't defeat him, he was eliminated from combat by two small but very important little air passages in his ears, the same ones that often cause elevator passengers trouble in fast descents in tall buildings.

Lt. W. E. Peters Jr.

Here for Broadcast.

The descent that saved the Germans from further attention from Lt. Peters started very high—above 20,000 feet—near the coast of the Netherlands. It ended in the sea some 30 miles off the coast of England. The Fortress Snowball sank in less than a minute, and Lt. Peters and eight other members of his crew were in the water for three hours before two English amphibian planes rescued them.

Lt. Peters lives at 683 Harvard court, Highland Park. He is 22 years old, married, and has a 5 month old daughter. He is in Chicago to take part in a radio broadcast Sunday, a dramatization of part of the official 8th air force book "The Target—Germany." Proceeds from the sale of the book will go to the Air Forces Aid society. The society provides emergency financial assistance to families of members of the air forces.

The mission that ended in the waters of the English channel was Lt. Peters' 13th. His group was attacked by a large number of Focke-Wulf 190 German fighters on the return over Holland from a German target. Three of his plane's engines were stopped by bullets. About 25 of the Nazi planes followed the Snowball in its dive, killed the navigator, and knocked out all the Fortress' guns.

Dives 4,000 Feet a Minute.

To escape the Nazi gunners as quickly as possible, Peters dived at a speed of about 4,000 feet a minute. The ear passages whose function it is to adjust the air pressure inside the ear to changing air pressures outside were overtaxed in Peters' case. He flew one more mission, then was taken out of high altitude flying by medical examiners. Rest will correct the condition in six or eight months, he estimated.

Peters said he believed German threats to "try" captured American flyers were unlikely to be carried into action. The Germans did not try to kill Snowball's crew in its water crash landing.

JUDGES RETAIN DIVORCE RULE; DUNNE BOLTS

The executive committee of Superior court judges decided yesterday to make no changes in the present rule prohibiting a plaintiff in a divorce case from obtaining a divorce thru filing of depositions instead of appearing personally, but Judge Robert J. Dunne of Circuit court said he would permit such procedure.

The issue was raised by the desire of military men in foreign service to obtain divorces from "cheating" wives, altho unable to appear against them. Some lawyers contend that only thru depositions can these men divest themselves of "overnight brides."

ASSAIL 'REVIVAL OF WPA' IN BILL FOR 31 AIRPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22.—Economy minded members of congress were fuming today over what they termed a needless revival of the defunct WPA to the tune of nearly 10 million dollars for completing 31 nonmilitary airports originally started by WPA in 24 states.

Rep. Clarence Cannon.

The airport item, amounting to $9,907,890, was slipped into a deficiency bill, passed by congress last week, at the instigation of congressmen from states in which the projects are located, after it had been tossed out by the house appropriations committee.

"The voting of these nonmilitary funds in the midst of war was wasteful, unfortunate, and inexcusable," said Rep. Clarence Cannon [D., Mo.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, in an interview. "It is a plain raid on the federal treasury. The war department has told us that none of these projects has any military value at all. If there were any war need involved, the army has the funds to finish them."

6½ Million Voted Down.

Cannon recalled that the original proposal called for 6½ million dollars to complete 24 airports, and that this was voted down by the house when it first considered the deficiency bill.

"The bill then went to the senate," Cannon said, "and an appropriations subcommittee added seven airport projects to the list with only a perfunctory hearing. It is too significant to be overlooked that each of the additional projects is located in a state represented by a member of the senate committee."

Called Unfortunate.

After the senate committee action both houses approved the enlarged appropriation involving the 31 air fields.

Rep. Emmet O'Neal [D., Ky.] declared in an interview that thousands of unfinished WPA projects were discontinued as a war measure under orders from congress, and that congress has set an unfortunate precedent by choosing to dig up the airports for preferential treatment.

Pfc. Maynard Wyman
A.E.S. #12, U.S.M.C.A.S.
Quantico, Virginia

Dear Maynard:

We were sorry to lose you to the service because we felt you had a big wartime responsibility here at the plant. Of course we had to replace you because we are up to our eyes in war work which must go on; but now we can see the end of the war and victory in sight, we think it is time to give a promise to you and to the other men who are in the service.

We, the Gallowhur Chemical Corporation, promise that after the war is over we will provide jobs for twenty-five percent more employees than we now have, and that this percentage will be made up entirely of men selected from the services.

We will also extend all of these cooperative benefits:

1. A share, over and above your wages and salaries, in the total net profits of the Gallowhur Chemical Corporation.
2. Free insurance and hospitalization.
3. Free retirement benefits.

This is our definite promise and pledge, and it is the strongest way we know to assert our belief that service men rate a priority in our post war planning.

I am writing this same letter to every former Gallowhur employee, now in the service. You can also tell your buddies about us and pass the word along that applications are in order. But make it clear we are a hard-working group, and have no soft jobs available.

The best of luck to you, and I want you to know that we miss you and expect you back here in the company with us.

Sincerely yours,

NAZIS THREATEN TRIALS OF ALLIES HELD PRISONERS

Retaliation for Kharkov Executions Hinted.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Angered by the Kharkov war crjminal trials and executions, Germany tonight threatened to prosecute some American and British prisoners of war.

One Berlin broadcast hinted that American and British flyers captured after they parachuted from damaged planes over Germany would be haled before military courts and charged with "war crimes."

An official statement issued by DNB news agency on the Russian trials asserted that British-American prisoners guilty of "a serious breach of international law" shortly would be dealt with by military courts. It also sought to connect Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt with the Russian trials.

Cite Facetious Names.

Several American flyers captured Nov. 20 in a raid on Bremen were accused of having "Murder, Incorporated" written on their uniforms. Using this and the name "Home Block Busters," said to have been borne by another American squadron, to support its case, the German press said it now had been proved that gangsters control the American air force, and that they are using gangland methods in air warfare.

It was pointed out here that if the planes and crews actually did bear such names it would indicate nothing more than the flippancy of young soldiers. At one time there was an American Flying Fortress named "Murder Incorporated" operating from England.

DNB later said Dr. Paul Schmidt, German foreign office spokesman, refused to clarify the threat at a press conference. He was questioned as to whether air raids were regarded as infringement of international law.

Called War Criminals.

The defendants in the Kharkov trials were three Germans of the military police services, including the Gestapo and the elite guards, and a Russian traitor. The Moscow press reported that they confessed they had executed hundreds of Russian civilians and military prisoners because of Hitler's order that the "inferior Slav race" be exterminated.

"There are numerous British and American prisoners of war in German hands who according to international law can well be considered war criminals," said the German broadcast. "German military authorities might review their misdeeds under this new aspect."

It was pointed out in London that the Kharkov trials had no connection with the proper treatment of prisoners, in which the Germans have as much at stake as the allies.

Goebbels Calls Them Huns.

The German statement ridiculed charges against the Kharkov defendants as "pathologically stupid." and "the product of perverted minds."

The new threat and hate campaign came under circumstances suggesting that the unprecedented air bombardment and the Kharkov trials may have shaken German morale.

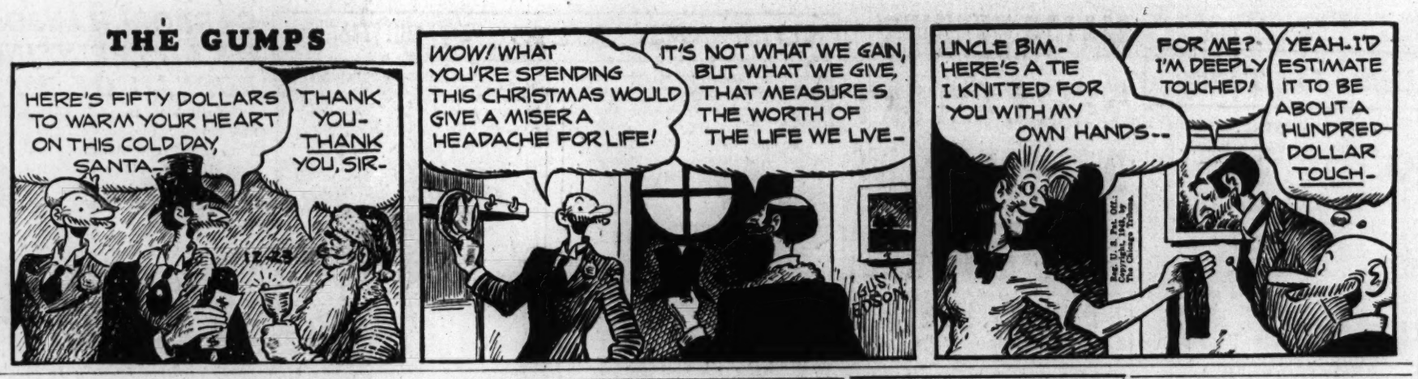

Paul Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister, labeled British-American airmen "Huns of the air," and the German press printed a "rogues' gallery" type of picture of an American airman.

Regarded as Propaganda.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Germany's threat to prosecute Anglo-Saxon prisoners is believed here to be chiefly for home propaganda consumption. International law puts in entirely different categories American and British aviators who carry out military operations over German cities and Nazi soldiers and Gestapo men who murder innocent civilians.

The United States has three times as many German war prisoners as Germany holds Americans—should the Nazis choose to disregard international law. There has never been an exact definition of just what is a "war criminal," but the most likely formula is to consider acts criminal if they may not properly be done in the course of military operations.

YANKS LEAD WAY AS BOMB TEAMS SMASH AT NAZIS

Heavy Raiders Blast Northwest Germany.

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Hundreds of American heavy bombers and fighters struck northwest Germany today and destroyed 38 enemy fighters in the United States 8th air force's 10th attack on the reich's great shipbuilding and industrial area since Nov. 1.

R. A. F. bombers blasted undisclosed German targets tonight.

Twenty-one of the American bombers and four fighters failed to return from their mission, which was conducted in temperatures as low as 52 degrees below zero. The 8th air force did not specify the targets, but Liberator and Flying Fortress crewmen said they scored direct hits, altho forced to bomb thru a cloud layer.

Seventh Big U. S. Raid of Month.

The losses on both sides indicated today's operation compared with the 8th air force's 500 bomber blow at Bremen on Monday, when 40 Nazi planes were knocked down and 25 bombers and 8 fighters were lost.

Today's raid was the seventh heavy operation of the month for the American raiders.

In addition, waves of allied bombers swept out in what looked like one of the greatest cross channel assaults of the year toward the Pas de Calais region, presumably to attack the same targets hit the two preceding days and which have been described only as military installations. Neutral reports have suggested the Germans may have extensive rocket gun emplacements in that French area.

Today's activity followed blows by R. A. F. Mosquito bombers against western Germany last night.

Tell Damage in Berlin.

The 8th air force announced its planes unloaded approximately 1,000 tons of bombs on Kiel Dec. 13, causing severe damage to shipbuilding yards. The target for that day's attack had not been identified previously.

In its first official report on damage to Berlin since the R. A. F. began its heavy assaults Nov. 18, the British air ministry told of widespread destruction in the German capital.

The worst hit districts were the Tiergarten, Mitte and Charlottenburg areas. The war, interior, justice, food and propaganda ministries were seriously damaged, the report said, as well as the residence of Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels, the new reichsbank building, Hitler's chancellery, and the central Gestapo office.

ONLY 36 PERSONS SEEK M'KEOUGH POST WITH OPA

Joseph Connor, regional director for the United States civil service commission, said yesterday that only 36 persons had filed applications for the position of regional director of the office of price administration, a post recently vacated by Raymond S. McKeough. Yesterday was the deadline for filing. Among 16 applications filed yesterday was that of Alex Elston, acting regional director of the agency and formerly its chief enforcement attorney. Applications will be graded and submitted to the OPA at Washington, D. C., where one name must be chosen from the three at the top of the graded list.

ENGINEER HURT IN WRECK.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 22 [AP].—J. A. Votik of Terre Haute, a Pennsylvania railroad engineer, was injured today when a Pennsylvania freight train collided with the rear of a deadhead passenger train on the railroad's main line east of Marshall, Ill. Seven cars of the deadhead train, which carrier no passengers, were wrecked.

THE QUESTION.

Have you grown accustomed to any of your husband's [or wife's] habits that once annoyed you?

WHERE ASKED.

The Consumers building, South State street.

THE ANSWERS.

Mrs. J. W. Miller, clerk, 4108 Kenmore avenue—My husband had the disturbing habit of snoring very loudly. It would muffle him a little to roll him over on his side, but that was always quite an effort. Now I've learned how to sleep so soundly myself that I no longer hear him.

Mrs. Elmer A. Peterson, clerk, 5442 North Menard avenue—It used to annoy me so much to have my husband tell me to hurry when I was dressing. I soon became so dependent on his constant reminders to hurry that when he wasn't around I was always late for my appointments. I'm not annoyed any more.

John P. Bychlock, clerk, 4925 Glenwood avenue—When we were first married my wife always wanted to spend all of our spare time running home to see her mother. She hadn't been accustomed to living without her and before I could break her of the habit I rather looked forward to the visits with her mother.

Herbert Hansen, railroad clerk, 4423 South Francisco avenue—Right after my wife finished dressing I'd find myself on the regular follow up work of closing all the dresser drawers. It used to annoy me to always find them left open, but now I don't mind so much. I even do it myself. It's easier.

Mrs. Adam J. Rufa, housewife, 7157 Princeton avenue—When my husband had finished his evening meal he'd sleep for about three hours. That wouldn't have been so bad, but after 10 or 11 o'clock he'd want to see a movie or call on friends. I've put myself on the same schedule and it doesn't bother me any more.

Mrs. Robert E. Melcher, clerk, 6556 Drexel avenue—In the few short months that we've been married I don't believe I've ever seen my husband unless he had a pipe in his mouth. It annoyed me at first to have him smoking it constantly, but I soon learned to accept it as a part of his personality.

VETERAN OF 110 AIR BOUTS TELLS CHIVALRY IN WAR

Pilots Salute Fallen Foe, Says Officer.

A tradition of sportsmanship reminiscent of the World war has developed between allied and German flyers in the Mediterranean and western European war theaters, Capt. Robert Chaddock, fighter pilot who is in Chicago on leave, related last night.

Capt. Robert Chaddock.

Capt. Chaddock, a former employe in the advertising department of THE TRIBUNE, is the son of Mrs. Emma Chaddock of the Drake hotel. He has participated in 110 missions with his American Spitfire fighter plane. In overseas service 14 months, he has had his plane shot up three times and holds the distinguished flying cross with 12 clusters.

Spare Defenseless in Chutes.

"In the Mediterranean war theater, and in western Europe, sportsmanship in air war prevails today," Capt. Chaddock said. "The victorious flyer salutes his vanquished foe, tho the gesture probably is unseen because he is all locked up in his glass bird cage. But the pilot who is parachuting to earth invariably waves his hand. Shooting at a defenseless flyer isn't done."

Capt. Chaddock said that in Italy allied planes, bound on a bombing mission, frequently meet German planes bound on a similar mission.

"Instead of shooting at each other," Capt. Chaddock said, "one formation drops down so the other can pass and both formations proceed calmly on their respective missions."

School Chum in Outfit.

Capt. Chaddock said that for the last nine months a pal of his school days at Swift Elementary school and Senn High school, Sgt. G. I. Allen of Chicago, had been in charge of maintenance of his plane.

Lt. [j. g.] G. W. McFeeties, 21, a navy pilot, is at his home, 301 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park, for his first Christmas there in three years.

He was one of five pilots from the escort carrier Liscome Bay who were in the air when the carrier was torpedoed and sunk during the battle for the Gilbert Islands. They landed on another carrier, and spent several days on Tarawa.

Capt. Irving P. Carlson, 26, wounded in the hand by a sniper's bullet during a battle on Arundel Island, will spend Christmas at his home, 1009 South 4th avenue, Maywood.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES PACKED IN GLASS JARS GET HIGHER CEILINGS

The retail cost of some fruits, berries, and vegetables packed in glass containers will be boosted about 2 cents a jar as a result of a ceiling price adjustment announced yesterday by the office of price administration.

The order permits processors of these items who since 1941 have begun to pack in glass containers of any size from 11½ ounces thru 49 ounces to reajust their ceiling prices.

They may add 20 cents a dozen to the prices of fruits and berries and 15 cents a dozen to jars of vegetables. Increased labor costs were the cause for the new allowances.

Retail prices of frozen figs will go up 1½ cents a pound and nectarines 1 cent a pound next week, the OPA said as a result of increased ceilings for growers.

Prices of sweet potatoes were frozen by the OPA at Dec. 17-21 levels, at all points from country shipper thru retailer. The OPA said prices at terminal markets have been increasing while shippers' prices have remained steady.

MARINE WRITER WARNS OF LONG FIGHT ON ISLAND

Saved miraculously from a Japanese torpedo that did not explode after hitting the PT boat carrying him away from Bougainville Island, Marine Tech. Sgt. Harold Azine, 27 years old, a combat correspondent, was back in Chicago last night to tell of his experiences during the week he fought with the marines in the first assault upon the enemy stronghold.

Sgt. Azine, who worked for a Chicago radio station for three and a half years before volunteering Nov. 10, 1941, said he met a lot of Chicago boys on Bougainville, among them Tech. Sgt. Joseph Morang of the Tribune sports department.

"Fighting on Bougainville is hard and it will take a long time to get rid of the Japs," said Sgt. Azine, "but there is no reason to believe that the marines won't do the job eventually." After a week of fighting on the island, Sgt. Azine and four other combat correspondents were ordered to Guadalcanal to write their stories. A Jap bomb killed one of his companions and wounded three more.

CALIFORNIA PUBLISHER DIES.

Alhambra, Cal., Dec. 22 [AP].—P. E. [Pete] Ritcha, 51 years old, publisher of the Alhambra Post-Advocate, died last night.

WAR PLANT SHUT; THIRD OF WOMEN SPURN NEW JOBS

Salt Lake City, Utah, Dec. 22 (AP).—The Utah ordnance plant closed today, and nearly a third of the women employed declined to take other war jobs.

The plant once employed more than 10,000 persons. The shutdown was ordered by the war department because the stockpile of small arms ammunition was deemed adequate for prospective needs.

Approximately 55 per cent of the working force was composed of women. W. E. Peacock, local manager of the United States employment service, said all workers were interviewed in an effort to keep them in war work. The result, he said, was that 64 per cent went into other war industries in Utah and 6 per cent transferred to war plants outside Utah.

MAJOR DEFINES 'SHELL SHOCK': INSTINCT TO LIVE

Actually, Nerves Thwart Discipline, He Says.

Maj. Ludwig R. Hanson, 34 years old, a consulting psychiatrist assigned to the North African theater of operations, yesterday said there is "no such thing as shell shock."

Maj. Ludwig R. Hanson.

It isn't the noise, the excitement, or the turmoil of combat that produces the condition known in the World war as shell shock—it's the fact that the soldier is in mortal danger of his life, the major declared.

To emphasize this statement, he pointed to the thunderous hubbub that engulfs troops when engaged in maneuvers, where artillery roars, rifles and machine guns crackle, and grenades explode—without a single case of shell shock.

Nervous System Collapses.

Maj. Hanson ascribed this fear of death as one of the primary causes of the very real condition of combat neurosis, when the nervous system of a fighting man may collapse.

"The men are faced with an unsolvable problem," he said. "Their will, trained by months of army discipline, impels them forward; their instinct of self-preservation counsels them to hold back, to seek a safe place. They are torn between two powerful impulses."

On top of all this, he continued, is the fact that they may have been combating this psychological problem for some time—as well as the enemy—and the strain is too much.

The major said cowardice seldom is the cause of a nervous blowup. Men who suddenly give way are as likely to run in the direction of enemy as they are to retreat.

Treatment Program Secret.

Actual methods of treating these neurotic victims is a military secret, he said, but revealed that much of it consists of a friendly, heart to heart talk with the sufferer. In these conversations the psychiatrist seeks some hidden reason for the blowup—bad news from home or some other extraneous incident.

Treatment takes place in a base hospital, as near the combat area as possible, to avert too drastic a change in the soldier's environment. Maj. Hanson said he did not know of a single relapse of a soldier who had been thus rehabilitated.

Maj. Hanson, on leave, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Hanson, 825 Main street, Evanston, and his brother, Charles, 1040 Asbury avenue, in the suburb. He has been with the United States army since 1942 after three years in the Canadian army.

CARROLL HANSON HEADS PRINTING BUREAU OF WPB

Carroll Hanson of Evanston, former senior auditor of the Audit Bureau of Circulations, has been named chief of the newspaper section of the war production board, H. M. Bitner, director of the WPB printing and publishing division, announced yesterday in Washington. Hanson, who will administer the newsprint limitation order, replaces Matthew G. Sullivan, who resigned to return to his position as general circulation director of the Gannett newspapers. Hanson has been associated with Sullivan for the last year in handling newspaper appeals to the WPB printing and publishing division for more newsprint.

COP FINED 30 DAYS' SALARY ON STORY OF GIRL

Patrolman James J. Bittner of Hudson avenue station was found guilty yesterday by the civil service commission of conduct unbecoming an officer and fined 30 days' pay. He was accused of going to a room with Miss Inez Clark at 4145 Broadway.

Miss Clark, who previously had charged him with rape and then refused to prosecute when the case was called in Felony court, was a reluctant witness. She said Bittner passed three hours in her room but refused to answer when asked if he had intimate relations with her.

Bittner testified he met her in a restaurant, visited two taverns with her, and then took her to her hotel but denied that he went to her room. Bittner's wife, Edna, testified for him.

Says Henry Mitchell, "Having a boy in the service has given us a new slant on a number of things.

"We've got plans for him when the war is over—plans the whole family want to see come true.

"And we can see that if prices got out of hand now, those plans would be washed up. Inflation would be bad for us and bad for the country. That's why the Mitchells are strong for every one of those 7 points."

How YOU can help hold the line against Rising Prices

THIS BUSINESS OF RISING PRICES doesn't wear false whiskers. Or pack any hidden weapons. Of course, runaway prices could stir up trouble for us. Plenty of trouble. Not only now, but after the war.

But there's no sense in acting like an ostrich. If we face the facts, we'll know what to do. Our Government, of course, has its job to do. We must all pull our weight, too.

7 Things We Can Do

And the Government has made it very clear exactly what each of us can do. They have listed seven things to help stop runaway prices.

1. Buy and hold War Bonds.
2. Pay willingly our share of taxes—including increased taxes—that our country needs.
3. Provide for our own and our family's future by adequate life insurance and savings.
4. Reduce our debts as much as possible.
5. Buy only what we need and make what we have last longer.
6. Follow the ration rules and price ceilings.
7. Cooperate with our Government's wage stabilization program.

Each of these seven points holds a "front" in the battle against inflation. They hit right at the causes of rising prices. (See below).

Some show us where to put our money so it won't be used for buying scarce goods. Others remind us that price and ration rules set by our Government are fine for us—are in our own interests, if we follow them.

So, why not do your part in this home front fight—if you haven't already started? Why not begin this very day?

In war, most of our factories are working full time making weapons. And a whole lot fewer peacetime goods are being made.

At the same time, many of us are being paid in wages and salaries more money than ever before.

If we disregard price ceilings and try to use this extra money to buy these few goods, bingo! prices start going up. It's just the way prices go up at an auction.

But if we all follow our Government's 7-point program above, it's a sure bet prices won't get out of control.

HENRY LESTER MITCHELL is working in a war industry. His son is a staff sergeant in the Army Air Force, his two daughters are working. But he's holding down his spending these days. Use the right hand column below to compare your budget with his.

| OUR BASIC LIVING EXPENSES (including taxes) | 2,608 |
| OUR SECURITY DOLLARS: WAR BONDS, LIFE INSURANCE, SAVINGS, DEBT PAYMENTS | $1,892 |

67,000,000 Americans, with the help of their life insurance agents, are already doing one of these 7 things. They have also found the peace of mind, the family protection, the feeling of independence that owning life insurance brings.

It is in the interests of these 67,000,000 people—as well as the nation as a whole—that the Life Insurance Companies of America have joined to bring you this wartime message to help prevent runaway prices.

3 CENTS AN HOUR RAISE AWARDED STOVE WORKERS

The regional war labor board yesterday awarded a general wage increase of 3 cents an hour to the members of three locals of the International Stove Mounters union of North America [AFL] at Belleville. The members of the locals are employed in 10 Belleville stove factories.

The order, which is retroactive to March 20, also awarded a week's vacation with pay to all employes with a year or more of service. The factories were represented by the Belleville Stove Manufacturers' association.

The board denied the union's request for a shift premium wage scale, in which the workers asked an additional 5 cents an hour for the second shift and 10 cents an hour for the third shift.

COUNCIL DENIES PLEAS TO BOOST PENSION CHARGE

Set Park District Budget Hearing for Monday.

On motion of Ald. Frank Keenan [49th] the city council finance committee voted yesterday to refuse approval of increases in the annual charges for city employes' pension funds.

Keenan reported that the combined pension fund boards had asked a 1944 appropriation of $11,298,000. This was reduced by the committee to $8,991,000. Keenan also suggested that the needs of the pension funds had been more than met last year and that they should abate or reduce their levies for 1943 taxes [which are paid this year] to the amount of $875,000. This is to be further considered by the committee.

Larger Appropriation Sought.

Controversy developed over the pension fund appropriations when the policemen's annuity and benefit fund asked for $5,255,000, compared to $3,536,000 demanded last year and receipts of $2,978,000 actually collected on 1942 taxes. This last was the most that could be obtained on the maximum 16 cent rate of this fund when assessments were made on a 37 per cent valuation.

Assessor John S. Clark has announced that 100 per cent valuations will be in effect this year. Under this, the Civic federation has estimated, the police fund could levy up to 8 million dollars.

Douglas Sutherland, executive director of the federation, referred to the fund board's action as the beginning of the parade of higher levels made possible by the Clark plan. The decision of the council finance committee followed the organization's recommendations.

Plan Hearing Protests.

On other local tax fronts the prospects for economy did not appear so bright. The federation has requested that civic and business organizations send representatives Monday to a budget hearing of the Chicago park district and protest against salary raises for workers on a "temporary basis." The proposed raises, the federation held, might lead to higher taxes in later years.

In the county building it was learned that the county board is under pressure to grant wage raises and that several members may be unable to resist.

Altho the Circuit judges cut enough jobs in the 13 fee offices to save about $400,000 in pay rolls, the board still must shave about 2 millions from department requests to come within the estimated revenues of $19,800,000.

Cost $900,000 More.

This is based on an assumption that no raises would be given. A 10 per cent increase would cost about $900,000 more. This estimate was made by Richard J. Daley, deputy controler.

To balance a budget over 20 millions the board will have to throw over its pegged tax levy of 9½ millions and increase its income from taxation. Under the Clark plan the county would have a taxing power of about 20 millions a year.

UTILITY EXPERTS ANALYZE PUZZLE OF GAS HEATING

If Thermostat Balks, Look to Adjustment.

When you set the thermostat for 70 degrees and the temperature of your gas heated house rises only to 60, the trouble probably lies in the adjustment of the thermostat, an investigation concluded yesterday by THE TRIBUNE indicates.

Spokesmen for the People's Gas Light and Coke company, the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, and the North Shore Gas company agreed that the difficulty could not be due to any lessening of the gas flow in the mains. The flow has not been reduced, they said, and the reason for the trouble must be sought somewhere in the householder's own equipment.

Remedies Are Suggested.

"Thermostats often get out of adjustment," said James A. Cunningham, vice president of the People's Gas Light and Coke company. He explained it might in some cases be necessary to set the thermostat higher than the desired temperature—say at 90 to get an actual temperature of 70.

Charles Hennes, supervisor of gas sales for the Public Service Company of Northern Illinois, suggested notifying the company's service department when trouble of this kind develops.

Among possible reasons for the discrepancy between thermostat and thermometer readings is faulty insulation, or leaky windows, the survey indicates. In general, any seepage of cold outside air into the house will affect the interior temperature. Too much running in and out, with frequent opening of doors, will facilitate entrance of cold air.

Where Fault May Lie.

If the thermostat is found to be in good condition, the heating apparatus itself should be investigated, it was suggested by a spokesman for the Illinois commerce commission. The commission has had no complaints about reduced flow of gas, he said.

It was suggested in the course of the survey that householders may not allow sufficient time for their heating apparatus to neutralize the effect of a sudden drop in outside temperature. However, Hennes said that only in the case of an extremely steep and sudden drop could trouble of this sort develop. In normal outside temperature changes, the heating equipment should maintain the interior of the dwelling at the wanted temperature.

There is also the possibility that the householder expects too rapid performance of his heating apparatus. For example, if the house has been cold all night, and the thermostat is not set at 70 until the family rises in the morning, it will take some time before that temperature is reached, especially if outside temperatures are very low.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

N. H. F. writes: "I have been farming for 16 years and have always had a 3-C deferment classification but now my board tells me that I will have to increase my war unit production from 16 to 20 or more or perhaps they will have to cancel my classification. Can they do this?"

ANSWER: Illinois State Memorandum No. 721-A indicates there is to be a general revision in the war unit production schedule for Illinois for the coming season. The war units per man are highest, on the average, in the northern dairy area, intermediate in the live stock and grain areas of the central portion of the state, and lowest in the southern part of the state where soils are poor and the farms small. The boards are advised in this memorandum, however, "That all experienced farm registrants having insufficient war units to justify deferment according to the revised county standard be referred to the county United States department of agriculture war board for 30 day placement on some other farm in the county or on a farm in some other county in the state." The war unit objective for each county will be only a "rough measure" of production and all borderline cases will be carefully checked to take account for factors beyond the registrant's control.

L. O. B. writes: "I was inducted Dec. 18, 1943, and became 38 the day following. How long must I be in service before I can apply for a discharge because of overage?"

ANSWER: In so far as Yanks in domestic service are concerned, war department circulars 92 and 102 regarding the discharge of men over 38 have both been rescinded so that no new applications would be accepted unless the service man became 38 on or before Feb. 28, 1943, and applied before midnight March 31, 1943. However, a man over 38, regularly engaged in agriculture before induction who intends to return to agriculture if transferred to the enlisted reserve corps, can send an application thru military channels to the adjutant general, war department, Washington, requesting such transfer. Similarly, men who were considered "key men" in a war industry before induction may make application accompanied by a letter from the head or personnel department of the company stating the enlisted man's release is essential to that industry, etc. Transfer to the enlisted reserve under the circumstances is discretionary with the adjutant general upon proper recommendation. Authority for these applications is change 4, par. 60c [2], AR 615-360.

Illinois Sending 450 Tons of Clothing to War Zone

More than 150 tons of discarded clothing have been contributed in the Chicago metropolitan area for relief of persons in war countries, it was announced yesterday. Downstate Illinois residents gave 300 tons, George M. Elsenberg and Walter V. McAdoo Jr., co-chairman of the salvage committee of the Illinois war council, reported to Gov. Green. The Defense Supplies corporation will ship the garments abroad. The drive was sponsored by the war production board.

JUDGE CLEARS 7 DRAFT EVADERS AS HOLIDAY GIFT

"This is my Christmas present to you," said Judge Michael L. Igoe of federal District court yesterday as he dismissed draft violation indictments against seven young men. The gift was in exchange for their pledge to report Monday for induction into the army. Other charges against five of them were dropped Tuesday.

The seven are Anthony Cozzi, 21 years old, 728 South Claremont avenue; Joseph J. Scachell, 23, of 527 South California avenue; Frank S. Rosen, 26, of 6939 Emerald avenue; Emanuel De Benedetto, 25, of 3252 Lexington street; John R. Onesto, 19, of 2425 Flournoy street; Santo L. Cerniglia, 37, of 2447 Lexington street, and Daniel Massucci, 37, of 2851 Congress street.

Onesto's mother fainted when she heard the news. The seven were arrested in an investigation into irregularities at Draft Board 39, located at 2124 Van Buren street. They had been charged with giving false information to evade service. Four other defendants, including Edward A. Chill, ex-board secretary, face action.

SITE FOR WOOD WASTE ALCOHOL PLANT SELECTED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—Rep. Harris Ellsworth [R., Ore.] said tonight that Oregon will be the site of the first commercial plant in this country to produce alcohol from sawdust and wood waste.

Ellsworth said he had been informed by government officials the application of the Willamette Valley Wood Distillation company to construct a $3,600,000 plant at Eugene, Ore., to produce alcohol from wood would be approved when final details were completed.

"I anticipate that this will be the first of a number of such plants to be constructed in Oregon and Washington and I believe there will be other plants in several districts near large supplies of wood," Ellsworth said.

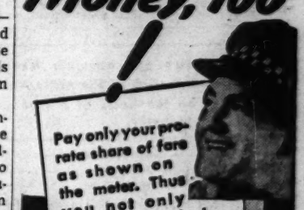

"By producing alcohol from wood waste and sawdust it can be made cheaply and relieve the drain now being made upon our grain supplies from which industrial alcohol is made. It was planned that next year more than half of the industrial alcohol required in the war would be produced from grain."

Ellsworth, who has campaigned in the house to get such plants started, contends that alcohol can thus be made for 20 cents a gallon, compared to 85 or 90 cents when produced from grain, molasses, and synthetically.

Woman Is Found Shot Dead in Friend's Flat

Mrs. Mary Maier, 35 years old, 553 West 103d street, was found shot to death last night in the apartment of an acquaintance, Ernest Kauffman, 27, at 6235 Ingleside avenue. Beside her was a .32 caliber automatic pistol which police said belonged to her. Kauffman told the police he left his apartment for a short time last night, leaving Mrs. Maier there, and that when he returned she was dead. Police said she had been divorced.

THE PACIFIC WAR WINS SOME ATTENTION.

Gen. Marshall returned to this country from the Cairo and Teheran conferences by way of the Pacific. Mr. Roosevelt came back as he had gone, by way of the Mediterranean, but Gen. Marshall took the longer route in order to confer with Gen. MacArthur at his advanced headquarters and with the naval leaders at Honolulu.

Those of us who have been pressing for more effective action against the Japanese can take great satisfaction from this evidence of increased interest in the Pacific war. Evidently the insistence that the war against Japan be taken seriously has had its effect. It remains to be seen if Gen. Marshall's visit will result in larger shipments of men and supplies to Gen. MacArthur, but at least the American war is no longer being passed over as negligible.

So far as Mr. Roosevelt is concerned, he seems to think that the American people have forgotten which nation sent its airplanes to destroy our fleet at Pearl Harbor. His attitude can be explained as the consequence of his obsession with Europe and the attraction which European nobility and royalty have for him. In the minds of these idols of his, the Californians, Australians, New Caledonians, and New Zealanders are lower class people unworthy of much attention or consideration. Accordingly, pressure is required to get Mr. Roosevelt to take any interest in the specifically American war.

The task of stressing the importance of the Pacific campaign is in many ways an ungrateful one. It infuriates the influential colonials of our eastern seaboard and their Communist pals, and invites a thousand slanders by way of reply. Nevertheless, patriots have not shrunk from their duty and will not shrink from it. They know that their insistence upon increased attention to the Japanese has the support of the overwhelming majority of the American people.

FROM OPA TO SHERIFF.

The Democratic majority of the county board has elected Michael F. Mulcahy as sheriff in succession to the late Peter B. Carey. Several years ago, after Mr. Mulcahy had failed of reelection to the city council, he found a place as a deserving Democrat on the New Deal pay roll. For a number of years he has been area administrator of the office of price administration.

The post of sheriff is a most important one politically because of the extensive patronage that attaches to it. The number of jobs next year will be somewhat smaller than usual as a result of the recent action of the circuit judges in reducing the sheriff's staff, but the position remains, as it has been for generations, a great prize to the political organization that controls it. The Democratic organization is therefore particularly careful that the sheriff be, as the phrase goes, regular.

Perhaps there are some people who still believe that the OPA is nonpolitical as, indeed, it should be in view of the purposes for which it was established and the power it wields over business men. The truth is that OPA jobs are regarded as so much party patronage. Mr. Mulcahy, for his services to his party, has been rewarded with a promotion from the OPA to the sheriff's office. In turn, Mr. Mulcahy's successor in OPA is Mr. Shults, another deserving Democrat.

Until recently, Mr. Mulcahy's superior in the regional organization of the OPA was Mr. Raymond McKeough, another New Deal lame duck who moved into OPA after he was defeated for the senate. He left OPA only recently to take another political job, this one in the CIO, which has hired him to get out the vote for the New Deal in 1944.

The new sheriff bears a good name in the community and there is much reason to hope that he will guard it more successfully than some of his predecessors guarded theirs. His promotion serves, however, to expose the hypocrisy of the New Dealers who like to pretend that their alphabetical inventions, and especially the war agencies, are maintained only with an eye to the public welfare. The truth is that all of these agencies, with the fewest exceptions, are reservoirs of political patronage, maintained at public expense to win elections. The traditions of the office of sheriff of Cook county are none too exalted, but Mr. Mulcahy will find the atmosphere in his new job little different from that he has been breathing in OPA.

THE STAR OF BETHLEHEM IN GERMANY.

Herr Goebbels is exercising his sardonic gift of persuasion to lighten in Germany the gloom of a season elsewhere devoted to ideals of peace and good will. Goebbels promises that the Nazi rulers tenderly will see to it that there is a "German war Christmas" with suitable festivals and a present for every child.

The rulers of Germany can give the people no assurance that their Christmas presents will not be bombs by day and night. The malevolence which Adolf Hitler raised as by underworld magic has affected the people who are fighting against him and his order. There is no tenderness regarding the German people. It is only an occasional person who is sensitive to the thought of the destruction intended for all ages and conditions of the populace of the Nazi reich. The hardening of world opinion is not a gain.

This will be the fifth Christmas of the war. It may well be the bitterest of them all. The tensions of the war have increased in both the subjugated and the fighting countries. The losses and sacrifices are increasing. There are more and greater ones in prospect. Determination and desperation are fully matched against each other. We may indeed wonder why in such circumstances the irreligious Nazi rulers put so much emphasis on the effort to rescue a day of Christian significance and ethical inspiration from the debris of their own contrary code. It may be because the traditions of Christmas are imbedded in German consciousness more deeply than any Nazi doctrine has been able to reach.

Possibly what is to be observed in Germany this holy season is not the least of the triumphs of the Star of Bethlehem.

A CRISIS THAT COULD HAVE BEEN AVOIDED.

The President and his associates are seeking to work out an agreement with the officers of the railway unions to prevent a strike on Dec. 30. The difficulty is to find a formula which will both save Mr. Roosevelt's face and give the workers the pay they feel they are entitled to. The difficult part is the saving of Mr. Roosevelt's face, for the unions and the railroads would long since have reached an agreement with a little help from William Leiserson, the old hand at mediations, if they had been free to do so.

Only the government has stood in the way of a settlement all year. Among the nonoperating employes the issue first came to a head. An emergency board, appointed by the President and headed by Prof. I. L. Sharfman of the University of Michigan, a man of wide experience in railway labor arbitration, considered the demands of the nonoperating unions for an increase of 20 cents an hour. Last May the board recommended that the employes affected be given an increase of 8 cents an hour. Both the unions and the railroads accepted the determination as equitable. But on June 23 Economic Stabilization Director Fred M. Vinson set aside the award of the board on the ground that it was inflationary. Vinson later ruled that an increase of 4 cents an hour would not produce an inflationary effect.

The employes declined to accept the modification and the President appointed a new board to consider the issue. In November the new board determined that an increase of from 4 to 10 cents an hour was appropriate, the higher paid employes to get 4 cents and the lower paid 10 cents. The President and his associates regarded this as a very fine solution of the matter since it was in keeping with the New Deal theory of social betterment. Actually the amount of increased wages that would have been disbursed under this plan was not less, or at least not materially less, than would have been paid under the 8 cent award which had been approved by both employers and employes. The unions again refused to accept the award and appealed to congress. The senate on Dec. 9, by a vote of 74 to 4, passed a bill authorizing a pay increase at the rate of 8 cents an hour. The house has not yet acted.

Meanwhile, an emergency board was appointed by the President to consider a wage settlement for the operating unions. This board was also headed by Prof. Sharfman. On Sept. 25 the board recommended that these unions be given an increase of 4 cents an hour. The board stated that "the workers have made a strong case for a wage increase to correct gross inequities to aid in the effective prosecution of the war." But it said that in view of the Vinson order in the other case no greater increase than 4 cents an hour would be justified. The unions declined to accept the 4 cent advance and ordered a strike referendum which resulted in almost a unanimous vote for the strike.

Of course there can be no rail strike. The interruption of the transportation of the country is unthinkable. Neither can the administration fail to give the unions an increase in pay of something like 8 cents an hour or 64 cents a day. When it adopted the "Little Steel" formula it laid the basis for the present claims. The "Little Steel" award, which became general policy, provided an escalator for advancing wages 15 per cent to compensate workers for the rise in the cost of living down to March, 1942, but there was no sacredness in that date. If the workers were to be guaranteed against the rise in the cost of living there was no reason to stop in March of last year and say that any increase since then shouldn't count.

Having provided automatic wage raising machinery, the government could not stop the advance. John Lewis proved that. All he had to do was to devise a formula to give the miners the extra pay they wanted without raising the rates. Portal to portal pay and shorter lunch periods, with time and a half for the reduction in eating time, broke the "Little Steel" formula. The railway wage crisis logically followed. To end the present strike threat there will doubtless be some new featherbed rules to plague the railroad business for years to come and make transportation unnecessarily costly in the post-war period. The railroad workers will have as much money to spend as they would have had if their pay had been frankly raised. But the President will still have face. The "Little Steel" formula remains, impregnable to attack by honest means and a soft touch for any subterfuge.

An official report says 20 per cent of the food used in American kitchens is wasted. Presumably the figure refers to the materials that go into the confection known as Brown Betty.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Here to the Line, let the quips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

AT THE FIRST CHRISTMAS.

The first Christmas was the first day in the Year of Our Lord 1. History, as we write it, then dropped its B. C. dating and began the A. D. cycle. There is no year numbered 0.

* * *

The exact day of the Nativity within its year is not known, and Dec. 25 was chosen by agreement between the early church fathers for reasons that are not clear. Until the fourth century Christmas was celebrated with the feast of the Epiphany on Jan. 6. The Gregorian Armenians, alone among all Christian groups, still hold their Christmas festival on that day.

* * *

Historians believe that they have satisfactory evidence for fixing the year of Christ's birth not as A. D. 1 but four years earlier. See "An Encyclopedia of World History," compiled by William L. Langer of Harvard university, which contains this entry:

"4 B. C. The birth of Jesus probably occurred not in the traditional year, but shortly before the death of Herod the Great, who had obtained the kingdom of Judea from the triumvirs in 40." The Britannica agrees that the Nativity happened before the death of this Herod, and that he died in 4 B. C.

* * *

The Roman world, in which Judea was a vassal state, was enjoying the peace of a benevolent dictatorship under Octavius Augustus when Christ was born. A quarter of a century had passed since the civil wars, and the New Deal of Augustus was working wonders. Mediterranean civilization was calm, prosperous, thoroly taxed, and unfree.

* * *

Tiberius, future emperor in whose reign Christ was to be crucified, had retired to the island of Rhodes, where he was studying Greek philosophy. His several years of private life there were a period of good behavior in an evil life. He did not see the Star of Bethlehem, but one day an eagle, a strange bird there, perched upon his house and was regarded as a portent of imperial honors.

* * *

Herod the Great, after New Dealing lavishly and restoring the temple of Jerusalem, was sickening for his death. Savage tribes in the forests of Germany were sharpening their spears to drive out the Roman invaders. . . . In China there was a movement to require civil service examinations of office seekers, and a southern province presented the child emperor with a live rhinoceros.

* * *

Such was the state of the world when Christ was born.

TO A CERTAIN S. CLAUS.

Santa, dear: I've hung my rayon
Here upon my Christmas tree,
Which I hope that it will stay on
Better than the limb of me.

And my ration books I'm stacking
Neatly ordered in a pile;
All my stamps are yours for packing,
If you'll fill my hose with style.

See that mistletoe hung yonder?
Leave a millionaire beneath;
Who could make my heart grow fonder—
Tie him to my holly wreath.

Santa Claus, I've been no model;
Still, I wish I'd get a break:
Now it's Christmas; could you coddle
Me with stocks of silk and steak?

Too, I'd like two months' vacation
In Miami or Atlanta.
For the coupons from my ration
I don't ask much, do I, Santa? mmb.

Party Girl and a Soldier.

She was standing in the railroad station, reading a letter. A blast of air lifted a page and flung it at the feet of a soldier who was standing alone.

"Going home for the holidays?" she asked as she thanked him for returning the page.

"I haven't any home," he said, "so I spent my leave here in Chicago. Great place for a guy who hasn't a family and no place to go. They treat you swell. Don't leave," he pleaded suddenly. "I don't mind never getting mail, and packages, and all the rest like the other fellows do, but it's an awful feeling not to have any one to say goodby to."

She studied his face for a moment and then smiled. "What do you think I came down here for if not to see you off? Look, you may not remember me, but I'm the girl who used to live next door."

"Remember you?" he cried eagerly. "How could I help it. Gee, you were an awful brat!" Laughingly they re-lived a past of small town life and peaceful days. A voice over the loud speaker shattered their reminiscences. "All service men leaving for the west on track nine present your tickets at once."

"That's you, isn't it?" she asked. He nodded.

"It's been grand seeing you again," he said, and held out his hand.

"I always kiss my friends good-by," she announced and, raising herself on tiptoe, she kissed him lightly. . . .

"Friend of yours leaving?" I asked casually as she joined me.

"I never in all my life saw him before and I probably never will again," she said, "and would you mind looking up the next train for me? I seem to have a cinder in my eye."

THERE'LL ALWAYS BE A CHRISTMAS.

There'll always be a Christmas
With prayers and candlelight;
With eyes that glow, and glistening snow,
And sleighbells in the night.

A thankful, smiling Christmas
With lights upon the tree;
With stockings hung, and carols sung,
And joyous revelry.

There'll always be a Christmas
With holly at the door;
And there will be a world that's free.
That's what we're fighting for!

AIDS TO PROMPT HEALING.

WE have often heard the expression, "Whenever I experience a scratch, my skin heals promptly. I must have good blood." Others may complain that repair is slow, requiring a multitude of dressings.

"Good blood" really tells the story. These individuals are constitutionally stronger. If the vitamin levels in the circulation could be checked, the chances are that we would find A, C, and K particularly high. This means that the recuperative processes proceed apace, beginning with normal clotting of the blood.

There are two essentials for the one who has suffered a laceration. First of all, rest for the parts is indicated. We could not sandpaper the area daily and expect a firm scar to form. Second, nutrition must be adequate and include both vitamin C [fruits and green vegetables] and protein.

Ordinarily, a clean wound, even tho severe, will start to mend by the fourth day. If the diet is rich in meat [protein], however, recovery will be initiated quickly. On the contrary, if fats are fed generously, it will be delayed. Perhaps this is accounted for by the fact that some protein has been lost from the blood. But this would be negligible unless bleeding has been marked, in which case a transfusion may be called for.

Another factor is swelling of the tissues. This is one of the chief hindrances to rapid restoration. The sooner we can get rid of the excess fluid, the more speedily will the tear close. Here again, generous rations of the meat will oblige water to depart.

The practical application of all this is that we may supply larger quantities of cheese, eggs, fish, beef, lamb, and fowl. At the same time, we can add citrus fruits and other sources of C. But we can do without butter, bacon, and fats of all sorts. While cheese contains a fair amount of oily material, its protein content is substantial and readily absorbed.

This explains further why plasma is so valuable to our wounded soldiers. It puts nitrogenous material directly into the circulation, without the necessity of passing it thru the digestive tract.

In one of our hospitals where surgical patients have been discharged relatively early—far too soon, according to some observers—the breakfast menu lists fruit, cereal, and milk. Meat is served at the two remaining meals, while extra feedings of fruit are administered between the regular repasts. With our meat shortages we can substitute—at least, in part—fish, oatmeal, peas, beans, etc.

As we can all understand, infection will place many stumbling blocks in the way and our first duty is to cleanse the area, removing all dirt and contamination. Then come sterile dressings which allow the free access of air. Enough pressure may be employed to squeeze water out of the tissues, thus permitting new capillaries to grow. Punctual healers are basically healthy. With a little care and attention, we can place our own bodies in the same condition.

PREVENTING INFLATION

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Regimentation.

Word has come to our attention of an employer who sent Christmas cards to all his employes bearing not only their names but their social security numbers.

Motto of the Faint.

Dearly to be cherished is the tale of two gentlemen who walked into a chain drug store and asked for a brand of cigars which was not called Bologna-Bologna. "I'm sorry," the salesgirl said. "We don't have those in stock any more." The two gentlemen removed their hats at this and bowed from the waist. "Why do you do that?" the girl asked. "Sheer thankfulness," one man said. "You're the first sales person we've found who hasn't said, 'Don't you know there's a war on?'"

Sins of Omission.

I am abashed by asterisks
Because I always find
That my imagination frisks
Wherever these small starry discs
Are printed as a blind,
A typographic substitute
For naughtiness that might pollute
The page and hence the mind.
I'm sure that when I muse on them
I've often comprehended
More mischief in their stratagem
Than ever was intended.

MARY WINTER.

Add Horrors of War.

Excerpt from Washington society column:

"Mrs. Herbert Newman was worried about the manless women of the nation, and emphatically advised young girls not to marry until the men come home from the battlefields and the selection is better.

"'It's a bad time for young women,' she declared moodily. 'By the time you meet a good one, he's gone. How will the young women ever find out whether a man is a good horseman or not, with so much shifting?"

Christmas Cheer Note.

A woman dressed in overalls walked into an exclusive North Michigan avenue shop the other day. After a good deal of deliberation she bought a $285 sequin evening gown which she donned on top of her overalls. "I don't have any place to wear it," she confessed as she left, "but I always wanted one, and this time I have the money."

Thumb Sketch of Artist.

From Susan, who is studying art in Mexico:

"Yesterday I spent the morning with Diego Rivera. I was fascinated and impressed, first by his horribly homely face and figure. I don't understand how he could have had so many celebrated love affairs. He was perched high on the delicate scaffold, about 400 pounds of flesh. The lower portion of his mountain was tightly stuffed into a pair of levis from which escaped a pinky pink plaid shirt set off by a red tie with large blue dots. Over all was a heavy tweed jacket.

"His heavy face has little form or structure, the mouth hanging apologetically open to show sparse, spotted brown and yellow teeth. His eyes are like raw eggs; they don't look at anything. His hair, fine and curly and thinning, stands away from his head. He is folds and folds of flesh. He had a cold and was carelessly using two rolls of bathroom tissue in lieu of handkerchiefs. One roll fell down and rolled across the floor, leaving a beautiful swinging tail. He roared with laughter. His stuffy young helper blushed and with great dignity rolled it up and handed it to him.

"But how that man paints! I planned to stay an hour. I stayed three, sitting high on a marble topped ledge beside him, a miserably cold place. He is doing a history of heart cures and the men connected with it—a huge mural in the new heart hospital here in Mexico City. The outlines are transferred on the wet plaster, and from memory he paints the magnificent faces. There must be 100 portraits.

"His painting is so simple you wonder that any man could have such a clear, detached understanding of life and man. That's art."

Womanpower.

And now comes a 13 year old Chicago girl, Merlyn Place, who says she is going to join the ripples and free a WAVE to fight.

HOW OTHER CITIES PLAN.

Chicago, Dec. 15.—We heartily indorse the comments in your editorial of Dec. 13, with reference to the inadequate sum reportedly appropriated by the finance committee of the city council for the Chicago plan commission for 1944.

Good, big planning now will place Chicago on a level with other cities in the race for post-war supremacy. Comparison with the preparations being made elsewhere indicates that the city's leadership is failing to grasp this unique opportunity to equip Chicago to dominate the heart of the nation in the period ahead.

New York has appropriated $25,000,000 for planning and blueprinting a $700,000,000 program of public works. At the war's end, they will be prepared with engineering drawings for projects. Philadelphia has appropriated $749,000 for 1944, for planning, including preparation of specifications and blueprints. Similarly, vigorous response to the challenge of postwar possibilities is being made in Louisville, Los Angeles, Cincinnati, and other cities across the country.

Failure of this city to recognize its potentialities will relegate it to a secondary position among the municipalities of America. FERD KRAMER,
President, Metropolitan Housing Council.

FOR WAR TIME SPORTS.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—A. J. Read expresses disgust at Sen. Lucas' claim that it is necessary to keep up sports for the morale of the home front.

Mr. Read believes that the men participating in these sports are lengthening the war. Not only do sports keep up the morale of the home front but the thousands of our boys overseas follow the games and discuss the sports events. It gives them something else to think about besides fighting, homesickness, and fear.

Last season the two major baseball leagues alone raised thousands of dollars that were turned over to army and navy relief. Surely in a country of 130 million people 400 men can be spared to keep the 16 teams in both major leagues operating.

Men participating in sports are not deferred. They are being called as fast as men in other fields.

We all hope this war ends soon. However, terminating sports will not hasten victory.

HARRY BERGER.

UNFAIR TO BACHELORS.

Oak Park, Dec. 17.—In reply to Frank Edwardo, who thinks A. F. R.'s criticism of the social security act is untrue or is in ignorance of the act,

The social security law does confiscate funds of unmarried workers, in this way: an unmarried worker does not receive the same amount in benefits as does a married worker. If an unmarried worker and a married worker earn the same salary, pay the same amount of taxes, for the same period of years, and then at the age of 65 years, apply for the social security benefit, the unmarried worker will receive approximately one-third less than the married worker. Why? Surely that smacks of communism, or something.

Unmarried workers, too, have dependents other than parents [invalid or crippled sisters and brothers] who are just as deserving as childless wives.

ONE OF THE LAMBS TO BE SHORN.

HOW TO CHECK INFLATION.

Batavia, Ill., Dec. 13.—The brainy economists of this country are all in a dither over the threat of inflation caused by the large incomes of war workers. Why not follow the plan merchants use in dealing with seasonal workers. School teachers, carpenters, dock workers, and others are carried over their period of unemployment on the books of merchants. When reemployed, these workers repay the credit extended to them.

During our national depression the government carried many people over a difficult period of unemployment. The records were kept by special agencies. The money and goods given should be recorded in government files. Why not require all former relief beneficiaries to repay to the government the money they are credited with receiving during that period? Surely they should be grateful for past favors, and feel it a moral obligation to repay money which is so desperately needed to save our government from financial disaster.

Furthermore, such a plan would raise the morale of 10 million white collar workers who stood the brunt of relief taxation, carry the burden of inflated food and clothing bills now, and see former relief recipients spending money right and left because they expect the government to take care of them if another depression follows the peace.

MRS. J. T. MORTON.

COOK COUNTY JURIES.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 17.—We Kentuckians know our state has its faults, but fumbling juries is not one of them.

Witness in one day's issue of the Chicago papers such headlines as "Three Freed in Quirk Murder" and "Girl Not Guilty in Love Slaying." An AP dispatch from Louisville on the same day announces "Stoll Kidnaper Gets Death Sentence."

Have law and order broken down in Cook County, or have the mixed juries gone sentimental?

FORMER KENTUCKIAN.

AGAINST RAIL PAY RAISE.

Chicago, Dec. 16.—Your editorial, "No Railroad Strike," in this morning's TRIBUNE seemed so out of place that I must protest. More pay for less work is the road to economic waste. Time and again you have preached against it. But here you extoll the virtues of union leaders who have created a scandal by raising "featherbedding" to an art, and holding the "gains" during America's hour of trial.

Kerr Lawson to Be Wed to Ensign Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

MISS KERR LAWSON and Ensign John Clark Leggitt, who received his commission yesterday from the naval reserve midshipmen's school at Northwestern university, will be married quietly at 4:30 p. m. today in the Scott street home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Werner Lawson. Later a handful of close friends will drop in for a small reception.

The Rev. Dudley Stark of St. Chrysostom's church will perform the ceremony. The bride will be unattended, but her brother, Andrew, has come from Philadelphia, where he is engaged in war work, to serve as best man. Missing from the family circle will be their sister, Mrs. John H. Burrowes, who is at her husband's post in Tennessee.

Ensign Leggitt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Leggitt of Wilmette, will take his bride on a wedding trip to Florida. Later they will go to his navy post in the east.

Other Wedding News.

Chicagoans who knew Miss Catherine McIlvaine when she lived in Lake Forest are receiving word of her marriage Monday in New York to Ensign John H. McDonald of the navy. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Frederick V. Burgess of Burlington, Vt., and of John H. McIlvaine of Bryn Mawr, Pa. She has been attending the Juilliard School of Music in New York. Ensign McDonald, son of Mrs. Cecil A. McDonald of Tulsa, Okla., was graduated in June from the United States Naval academy.

The marriage of Miss Daun Andruss to Lt. Malcolm McCaleb of the army took place Nov. 29 in the First Methodist church of Evanston. Later the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lee J. Andruss of Evanston, gave a reception at the Westmoreland Country club. Lt. McCaleb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert G. McCaleb of Evanston, left Colgate university to enter the army. He and his bride will live in El Paso, Tex.

Christmas Carolers.

Christmas carols will ring forth in the Astor street, North State parkway, and Crilly court neighborhoods this evening. The Astor street carolers will be members of the Great Lakes Dredge and Philharmonic [Friends of Music] society, who have rehearsed their program for some weeks. The Crilly court singers will be young couples living in that neighborhood who will gather informally "behind Joe's" between Crilly court and Wells street for a completely unrehearsed but none the less lusty caroling trip thru the neighborhood.

The society will congregate in front of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Rogers' house in Scott street at about 5:15, complete with lanterns and red scarves, and start a tour north in Astor street and south in State parkway, stopping in at the Joseph T. Ryersons' and possibly at the Charles D. Freys' and the Albert F. Madleners' homes for a cup of cheer. The group, which is composed of men, will join their wives for supper at the home of Dr. and Mrs. O. E. Van Alyea, where they will sing a carol over long distance to the Robert Pyzels of New York, in whose home the carolers rehearsed for many years when the Pyzels lived here.

By virtue of a pair of "leather lungs," John W. Webster again will lead the Crilly Court carolers, who will assemble at 8 p. m. Mr. and Mrs. Neal Emmons supply the carol books, and Mrs. Webster is preparing the candles the singers will carry. The Websters have canceled their post-caroling party because Mrs. Webster is ill with flu. They hope Mr. Webster's brother, Capt. William Webster of the army air forces, who recently returned after completing 52 bombing missions

Thru the Looking Glass

The late shoppers can be thankful for one of the whims of fate that the shopkeepers have been cussing heartily—the shipping difficulties that made some merchandise arrive much later than the shops had every right to expect. This stuff is dribbling in just now, and it is indeed bringing comfort to those afflicted with the last minute shopping jitters.

It's hard to say, at this point, that anything we saw in a shop yesterday will be there when you want to see it tomorrow . . . but you can, if you're desperate, do some careful checking of the cosmetic sections even at this late day and maybe come up with a plum.

One such, at least in our book, is a sterling silver compact that came to town just this week, practically months late. It's a beautiful thing, well made. If the shipment had arrived on time there wouldn't be one left but it's entirely possible that you'll find some now. The metal compacts, as you know, are scarce these days. The sterling silver ones are a de luxe priority job, well worth what they cost, it seems to us, since they should last darned close to a lifetime.

You will also find, here and there, some gifts that came late, too, and that are just now being set out in all their glory for your edification. By gift sets we mean those boxes fitted with bath trimmings or cosmetics that are offered by almost every line. If you have an inkling of what house a woman likes, you can practically stop worrying about her Christmas present. Anything in cosmetics, skin grooming preparations, or bath glorifiers that bears the name she prefers will please her.

In other words, the cosmetic sections are still a happy hunting ground, even at this late date.

Simple Lines Dramatized

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 22.—Now that Twentieth Century has "Ladies in Washington" in work, it has whipped up "The Story of a Guy." It's about a prize fighter who was drafted, deserted, then was sent to a rehabilitation camp. It will star newcomer Henry Morgan. . . . Young Bob Hutton not only got himself a beautiful bride, but also rave notices in "Destination Tokyo" in the same week. . . . Metro has big plans for Jeff Adams. His voice is something the studio is shouting about. . . . Fred Allen and Lauritz Melchior work so well together it wouldn't surprise me if and when Fred does his next picture, Melchior will be with him. He's not only a great singer, but a great comic as well. . . . I loved the crack a top director made to a young girl who was complaining they were shooting the wrong side of her face. He stood it as long as he could, then said, "Miss, you're sitting on your best side."

Returned Compliment.

Walt Disney, who's been making insignia for allied fighting forces, got a Christmas present from a group of marines in the South Pacific, whose insignia he'd designed. They sent him a propeller from a Jap plane. . . . Recently Walt had a letter from Capt. Bishop of Tennessee, who's interned in Germany. So Walt sent insignia for interned flyers. Design shows Donald Duck behind bars, and the motto, "I Wanted Wings." . . . H. J. Pinchon writes from Honolulu, "Wouldn't it be a glorious gesture if one of those victory ships was named in memory of Carole Lombard?" Yes, it would—and why not? . . . Alfred De Liagre bought a pair of turtle doves to present to Margaret Sullavan opening night of "The Voice of the Turtle" and the morning of the opening, to his horror, one of them had laid an egg. But the play didn't turn out that way. Walter Wanger says it's the best thing in New York.

Walt Disney. Margaret Sullavan. Walter Wanger.

Welcome Home.

Lt. Comdr. Bob Montgomery, with his wife, and the George Murphys, doing a little holiday celebrating at Mocambo, said, "Isn't it wonderful? This is the first Christmas I've had home in three years." He asked if I'd seen the picture "The Navy Goes to War." I hadn't. Then he went on "I had more pride in that than anything I've done on the screen. I was in command of three PT boats, aboard No. 107, and did they perform beautifully!" . . . A pat on the back to Mrs. Laurence Block and Mrs. Herbert Sternberg, who will place 1,500 service men in private Beverly homes for Christmas dinner. . . . Walter Brennan's off to his Oregon ranch and family for a white Christmas.

He's Also Home.

Lt. Eddie Albert phoned to apologize for not bringing me a Jap skull as he'd promised. He said, "In the battle of Tarawa I saw 1,000 dead Japs at least, but never stopped long enough to cut off a head." He said Capt. Louis Hayward was the most efficient guy he ever saw. Wherever he looked, there was Hayward taking pictures of the whole thing. Said he, "Gosh, I'd like to be an officer like that!" I asked if he was really having Christmas dinner with Margo. "That's what I read, but I'm really having it with my mother," he answered.

Sticks to It.

Joan Blondell leaves day after Christmas for rehearsals of "Something for the Boys" which opens in Philadelphia Jan. 10. She's a smart gal. She's preparing for a big musical comedy next year which won't be by Gypsy Rose Lee or George Kaufman. Joan never saw Gypsy except from a distance. She wasn't invited to that big party—didn't know she was giving one. Opening night Gypsy went to an art gallery, while Kaufman sat on his seat in Bucks county. Then folks wonder why Hollywood doesn't fall on its face with joy at its New York reception. Reception they call it! I call it jealousy. They hate anything coming from Hollywood. Yet we give them the town when they come here.

Knew It Would.

Warner Brothers called off the "Hollywood Canteen" picture. Too much trouble. What with the unions, stars, and producers all having a good healthy gripe, it was much easier to call off the whole project. And will this give the New York stars something to laugh at! . . . Travis Banton did Marlene Dietrich's clothes before she took off for New York. Dietrich made many friends happy by passing out hats. Some old ones went to Mitch Leisen for one of his nutty parties. She's gone back to see Jean Gabin, also about a new play. She turned down "A Touch of Venus," in which Mary Martin is making history. . . . When Helen Forrest agreed to autograph records at a little record shop the other day, she had no idea it would result in a lawsuit. Five hundred kids showed up and wrecked the joint, and she had to pay $1,500 for repairs.

Bright Colors Glow on New Dinner Gowns

BY REA SEEGER.

Gala dinner and evening gowns glow with vivid color and sparkle with sequins and beads. The smart short models are smoothies in severely straight and simple lines, with highlights around the evening decolletage and some on the off-the-shoulder outlines of the bodice top.

Bright red models lead the parade, and you'll find all the varying shades of red from Christmas holly red, cerise, Chinese vermilion, and ruby to the strawberry and raspberry tints.

Many of these short evening red gowns are fashioned with very brief sleeves and others with elbow length. The skirts are slim, with deft shirrings at one side for extra width—a width, incidentally, well within the legal limits of yardage. Many afternoon dresses in scarlet boast the same flashing bead and sequin trim, only the designs are scattered along the bodice and over the skirt and occasionally repeated on the sleeves. Dull crepe is a most popular material. It's a crepe that clings flatteringly to the figure lines.

A few two piece outfits in red are included in these showings—simple suit dress effects to be worn as one piece dress costumes. These also flash with sequins and beads and embroidery, tho the designs are not as lavish as on the short evening costumes.

The most dramatic long dinner clothes are the stunning models designed by Adrian. All are exceptionally individual, using unusual color combinations and contrasts. His famous geometric motifs are featured, as well as the loose swinging band trim and the figure flattering silhouettes. They are suave and telling costumes for the appreciative woman. Subdued as well as vivid colors are plentiful in the current collection ready for holiday parties.

This Gay Movie Is Anodyne for Shopping Woe

"PRINCESS O'ROURKE."

A Warner Brothers picture, directed by Norman Krasna; featuring Olivia de Havilland, Robert Cummings, Jack Carson, and Charles Coburn, and presented at the United Artists.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

As good medicine for those shopping jitters, I recommend a look-see at "Princess O'Rourke."

This gay conceit tells the story of a Cinderella man [an airplane pilot] who falls in love with a girl he believes to be plain Mary Williams, war refugee and prospective "upstairs girl," and finds she is a visiting princess, with quarters in the White House, while not only the President but the President's sma' black dog, Fala, are deeply interested in her activities.

The spontaneous performance of Robert Cummings [never before realized he was such a slick comedian!] lends a natural sheen to a situation that's far fetched, to say the least. Then, Miss de Havilland is so smooth—so pretty. And she has a good sense of humor, too! Also HOW you'll enjoy Charles Coburn as the heroine's uncle, with an eye to a marriage for his niece which shall fortify the dwindling family line with new heirs. . . . Jack Carson, as Hero Eddie O'Rourke's co-pilot and buddy, and Jane Wyman, as his wife, greatly add to the movie's entertainment value.

The action spins along at a lively clip, climaxing in a sur-PRISE!

Fluffy little concoction, this, but, after a season of heavy fare, it sho' does go down well!

Be seeing you!

Two Sisters Sworn Into Air WAC

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

WAC Lt. Betty Jayne Echols, Anthony Annarella, and his daughters, Jenny and Madeline Annarella (left to right) as sisters were sworn into the air WAC yesterday.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Everything Happens at Once.

Something you never understand about Christmas—why everything happens at once.

You did your shopping long before Thanksgiving, but three days before Christmas a store telephones to say the goods you ordered are ready, and you ask, "What goods, for heaven's sake?" . . . and the caller says, "O, those initialed handkerchiefs." . . . You reply, sheepishly, "Please take a look at them and tell me what initials are on them. I'm afraid I've forgotten." . . .

You mail your Christmas cards well in advance and omit the family which invites you to a simply elegant tea. . . . The cards begin to arrive at your home, and one completely mystifies you because you never in all your life ever heard of the person . . . or so you think. . . .

You decide you are over the flu—and then, for no reason at all, tumble downstairs and break [of all unromantic things] your little toe. . . . You hobble around, and, after walking upright for many a year, you fall down again—this time because a suburban engine lets out a blast of steam and [in the fog] a commando-commuter knocks you over. . . . And that's how you got that puffy cheek and discolored eye—but does any one believe you?

Button, Button.

You're invited to a cocktail party. All the shops are showing purple dresses in their windows, so you get out yours [last year's]. . . . It will do, all right, except that the rhinestones, missing from the buttons, supply an oddly toothless look. That's easy; you'll just buy some new buttons. Easy? Ho! Ho! You finally buy three for a dollar apiece that ordinarily you wouldn't wear to a dog fight. . . . The salesgirl explains chummily how you can make ducky earrings out of smaller buttons—nothing to it, really; everybody is doing it. You listen wanly. You are sure your flu is coming back.

We Don't Serve Water.

You wonder whether a gay hat wouldn't pick you up a bit. . . . You stand and gaze at yourself in the long mirror while the milliner explains that "it's the new forward model." . . . You say you'll buy it [forward or backward] just because you can sit down while she writes the check. . . . You know your flu is coming back. . . . You find she has had it, too—and you compare symptoms.

Hat box in hand, you stumble into the drug store and buy some aspirin. . . . Could you have a drink of water? . . . "No, sorry," the girl says, firmly. . . . They don't serve water with one aspirin.

You drag yourself into the office, read your mail, and stuff it into a folder, and all at once it disappears from your desk. . . . You query every one who will listen. . . . Have you seen my mail? . . . You notice a brown overcoat on the next desk. . . . You're tempted to search the pockets. . . . You discover, at last, that the brown overcoat belongs to a publicity man from the Civic theater who, quite by accident, slipped your folder into his bulging brief case. . . . "I do the funniest things," he remarks. . . .

And this explains how you get two complimentary seats for the Civic theater, where you could sit—blackened eye, broken toe, purple dress, and forward hat—and ponder why everything happens at once!

Wilmette Has Annual Carol Singing Tonight

Arthur Straight, George P. Arns, H. C. Froeschle, Benjamin Jacobsen, Mrs. Jerome B. McMahon, Howard A. Berg, Carl Morgenstern, and H. A. LaRoy.

Sally Reports Wheel Chairs Badly Needed

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc.]

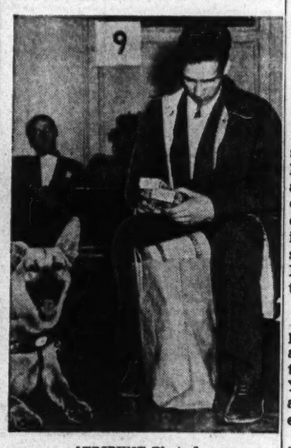

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

A case worker has requested our assistance in locating a wheel chair for an elderly woman, who is much in need of one. She and her two sisters are entirely dependent upon an income provided by the old age assistance service. This woman has been seriously ill for some time and is almost helpless. Her sisters do their best to care for her, but since they are both elderly, it is difficult for them to do so. A wheel chair would relieve both the patient and her relatives and would enable her to spend at least a part of her time sitting up.

Mrs. N. has sent a similar request on behalf of her husband, who has been an invalid for the last twelve years. With the help of her two sons, Mrs. N. was able to care for him easily. Both boys are now in the service, and the mother finds it very difficult to move him. A small wheel chair would give him a change of position and permit him to sit near the window occasionally. Since he is extremely thin, a small size chair would be best for him.

We will be glad to provide further information on both cases to interested readers.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

Joining the ranks of other Chicago girls who have enlisted directly into the air WAC, two sisters were sworn in yesterday at the induction office, 175 West Jackson boulevard. They are Madeline, 21 years old, and Jenny Annarella, 20, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Annarella of 2744 North Whipple street.

Jenny had to have parental consent to enlist because she is under 21, but her father, a veteran of the first World war and a member of the American Legion, was happy to give his permission.

The Misses Annarella bring special skills to their new war jobs because both have worked in war plants and have the mechanical ability which will fit them for any of the more than 150 types of jobs for WACs in the air forces.

Both Madeline and Jenny were graduated from Tuley High school and Madeline attended the Central Y. M. C. A. college. Their hobbies include photography, drafting, horseback riding, and swimming.

Mrs. Frederick A. Preston of Lake Forest, chairman of the Chicagoland JANGOs [Junior Army-Navy Guild organization], has announced that the members of the Wesley Memorial hospital unit will give a party at 4 p. m. tomorrow on the navy floor at the hospital for more than 300 convalescent navy men.

Mrs. Henry G. Taylor, wife of Adm. Taylor, will supervise the party. Gift stockings will be distributed, the girls will trim a tree, and Mrs. E. B. Erskine, wife of Comdr. Erskine, will lead the members in singing Christmas carols. Professional entertainers also will give a program.

Other JANGOs, under the leadership of Mrs. G. A. Lofquist, whose husband, Capt. Lofquist, is stationed at Great Lakes, will give a party, complete with refreshments and carol singing, at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the nursery school at the naval station. Mrs. James Freeman and Mrs. Paul Hinkle are sponsors of the JANGOs' nursery school project.

After Christmas, Mrs. Preston reports, the organization will launch a membership campaign to enlist the services of many more JANGOs. Young women whose close relatives are army or navy officers are eligible to join.

Also slated for after the holidays is a new unit to be formed at Fort Sheridan under the chairmanship of Mrs. John Rhett, wife of Col. Rhett.

Several teen-age JANGOs now are staffing the gift shop and cafeteria at St. Luke's hospital.

South Shore Club Has Christmas Ball Tonight

The ballroom of the South Shore Country club will be strung with bells and mistletoe for the Christmas ball tonight. The children's party is set for the afternoon of the 29th, and the junior ball will be held the same evening.

Yule Festivities Numerous for Men in Service

Nearly every organization in the city has devised a series of Christmas observances to cheer service men, war strained civilians, and orphans for the nation's third war time Christmas. Emphasis is on the service men, and the city's service clubs will be the center of much activity.

The three Chicago service men's centers will be open all night Christmas eve, and programs of entertainment, as well as servings of food, will be continuous. Today the greatest activity at the service men's center in the former Auditorium hotel will be around the newly installed long distance telephone booths. The two operators serving the booths reported a land office business, with soldiers placing calls to their families from coast to coast. This service began Tuesday.

Parties are scheduled for the Great Lakes Naval Training station, Fort Sheridan, and other army and navy installations in and around Chicago. Elaborate dinners will be served to the men at the posts and many of the army regulations are being relaxed for the holiday.

Elissa Landi, stage and screen star, will help the Volunteers of America tomorrow in their annual distribution of hundreds of Christmas food baskets to the city's needy. All items in this year's baskets are on the nonrationed list.

Yesterday was a busy day for several organizations which celebrated Christmas early. Sixteen men, a few hours removed from the blast furnaces and offices of the Gary works of Carnegie Illinois Steel corporation, dressed themselves in Old English costumes and serenaded the offices of their mother company, the United States Steel corporation, at 208 South La Salle street, as well as other La Salle street organizations. They closed their singing with a program for the navy.

De Paul university co-eds yesterday sponsored their annual Christmas party for children of the De Paul Settlement and Day Nursery at 2141 North Halsted street.

It will be a happy Christmas for six children, victims of the recent infantile paralysis epidemic, who were released from the Wesley Memorial hospital yesterday.

Hull House began its Christmas observances Dec. 12, and group observances of the approaching holiday have been held almost nightly since then.

Christmas mail was still pouring in yesterday to the Chicago post-office, where postal employes found themselves 12 hours behind in their work for the second consecutive day, according to Postmaster Ernest J. Kruetgen. Tuesday set a record for volume this year, the postmaster said, with 16,179,517 pieces handled, as compared with 14,576,641 pieces on Dec. 21 last year. A total of 131,212 sacks of parcel post items were handled Tuesday, as compared to 129,760 sacks a year ago.

'Courage Stout'

By William MacLeod Raine

(Copyright: 1943: By William MacLeod Raine)

SYNOPSIS: Austin Reynolds, cattleman, is accused of ambushing Stuart Lane. Jess Blackburn tries to incite the rustlers to violence, but Neal MacGowan, who plays a lone hand, averts trouble. Reynolds accuses Neal of being the leader of the cattle thieves. Neal finds tracks heading for Rustlers' gap. The Sheridan stage had been held up. He follows the tracks to the gap, talks to Dunn and Blackburn, whom he suspects of the murder. When Janet Lane is shot, Eleanor and Austin move her to their home. Neal gets a United States marshal's badge and searches for Blackburn. He tells Cad Clemson he suspects Blackburn of the murder of Lane and the shooting of Janet. Cad directs him to Blackburn, whose friends desert him when he is caught in lies. In self-defense, Neal is forced to shoot Blackburn. Riding out of the gap, a boulder crashes in front of Neal, the work of Cad, he believes. Eleanor's interest in Neal grows. A raid is staged. Two rustlers appeal to Janet and Neal for aid. They lend Dagwell a horse and hide Russ Miller, who has been wounded. Dagwell is captured by the cattlemen and hanged. When Miller is located, Neal claims him as his prisoner because of the stage holdup. When Eleanor implies she will marry Muir, Neal proposes and is accepted. Austin disapproves of their engagement. Russ Miller breaks jail. Neal is suspected of arranging his escape. His motives are misconstrued when he sides with Dunn and goes on his bond after Dunn's forced duel with Brock. Eleanor is infuriated because Neal doesn't offer an immediate explanation. Assuming he will be penitent, his attitude further angers her. He leaves and she realizes she can't dominate him. Neal warns Reynolds a posse to the gap to round up the rustlers will end disastrously for the cattlemen.

INSTALMENT XXXIV.

LEADER CHOSEN.

The horsemen traveled thru the sage, mile after mile. Out of the blackness the distant hills marched vaguely. Gradually night began to lift.

The terrain grew more broken as they moved into the footslopes. This was brush country.

Before they reached the Bar A B line camp the sun was coming over the eastern hills and sending long shafts of light across the gray-green sage desert.

Oldfield had a word to say before they started. "This is serious business, boys. We may get in a tight spot. Anyhow, we ought to choose a leader, and after we have him, obey orders. If we make mistakes we're headed for trouble."

"That's right," agreed Delavan. "Reynolds is my man for boss of the outfit."

The dark blood beat up into the beefy face of Cross. His steel-trap lips tightened. He considered this his expedition. Now the Triangle R man was being proposed as leader.

"I don't get this," he snapped. "We know what we've come for—to get a bunch of thieves and outlaws. Let's go get 'em. We don't need any boss."

"I don't agree with you." Oldfield spoke quietly. He was an old Indian fighter, a grayhaired man well past 50 who had an excellent reputation as a good citizen. "We are not a crazy mob of killers but a posse of decent men who have an unpleasant job to do. There are four names on our list. All four are killers and desperadoes. We want them and no more."

"It would be all right with me if we did bump off half a dozen others too," Cross snarled. "There are 20 known rustlers holed up in the gap."

"We've been over all that, Jack," Reynolds said firmly. "If we get the four decided on, the others will be scared off. They will let our stock alone. Either we stick to our agreement or you can count me out."

"Here, too," Oldfield assented.

"I didn't say I wasn't sticking to it," Cross replied sullenly. "But we're grown up responsible men. We don't need any boss."

"Every round-up has one," Oldfield insisted. "Let's go at this right."

Reynolds was elected.

The party struck across country, aiming for a rocky truncated cone which stood out above the surrounding landscape. There the wagon was unloaded and supplies cached in a cave. One man was to be left there as a guard. The plan was that if the food taken in by the pack animals gave out the posse would get fresh provisions from the cache.

Reynolds advised the men to snatch a few hours' sleep, since they would be in the saddle most of the night.

They ate supper under the stars, after which the regulators took up their journey to the gap and the driver of the wagon returned to the Bar A B. With Reynolds in the van rode the guide, Chris Morgan, the gunman recently taken into the employ of Cross. While a fugitive from justice a year earlier, he had spent a month in the gap. He knew its more traveled trails, he admitted that there were a hundred gulches, pockets, and ravines he had never seen.

It was the full of the moon, and after they had passed thru the defile which led into Rustlers' gap they could see vaguely below them the huddle of hills fading into the gulf of blackness beyond. Along a rock scarp they descended, following a narrow trail that ran close to the edge of what seemed to be a bottomless pit.

"They call this Breakneck trail," Morgan said to Reynolds after the cow pony of the rancher had slipped on the gravel and been reined up just in time. "It's bad enough in the daytime. At night it's plain suicide."

Carefully they worked down the ledge and came at last to a shoulder which broadened and offered a safer path. They descended to the bottom, so far below the top of the walls that only a narrow line of the sky could be seen.

They emerged into a valley of meadow land flanked by heavy growths of pine marching up the hillsides. Here Reynolds called a halt. His watch showed that it was 4 o'clock. In another hour the darkness would lift.

"Morgan says that there is a camp about four miles ahead, where Cad Clemson spends a good deal of time," he explained. "He may or may not be there now. If we keep going it will be daybreak before we get there. That might not be so good if he has four or five men with him. My idea is that we had better camp today in the timber and close in on Cad tonight."

"If he is there," Christy amended.

"If he isn't, we'll have to look farther. We'll move well back in the timber and get thru with breakfast so the fire will be out before it is light. All day we'll stay holed up. Any objections?"

"I'm for going in and cleaning up Cad's nest right now," Cross objected. "We came to get the scalawags. I say, go get them."

"He always has two or three fellows with him," Morgan said. "Sometimes more. If you bull right in they'll sure pick off four or five of us. The thing to do is to surprise them."

"Sure," Oldfield agreed. "We've got to slip up on them, mop up quick as we can, and get out."

Cross gave way sulkily. They found a pocket back of the timber on their right where the horses could find grass and the party would be out of sight of a traveler riding thru the valley. While it was still dark they drank their hot coffee and ate flapjacks and steak around the campfire. Before the first streaks of blue showed in the sky the fire was put out.

Reynolds divided the day into two hour stretches for the guard, with explicit instructions that they were to stay back on some flat rock outcropping at the lip of the pocket and not show themselves at all.

The day was warm and sunny. Reynolds was busy until nearly noon, then retired to the shade of a pine tree for rest. He was awakened by Delavan about 4 o'clock.

"Cross and Hack are gone," the big blond giant said.

"Gone." Reynolds rolled over on an elbow and brought himself back from the heaviness of sleep. "What do you mean, gone? They must be near."

"No, sir. They've lit out. They're nowheres around."

Northwestern Art Exhibit Will Continue Until Jan. 5

The Northwestern university art exhibition at Deering library, comprised of work done in the classes of materials and methods on the Evanston and Chicago campuses under the direction of Clara MacGowan, will remain on display until Jan. 5. Most of the articles on exhibit are made from native Illinois materials, such as seed pods, corn, and fish scales, and cast-off objects, such as empty spools, old bottles, old hats, and ice cream cartons.

There will be dancing and refreshments and colored movies of the school will be shown by the principal, Francis L. Bacon.

Park District's Annual Yule Flower Show to Continue Thru Jan. 2

Chalking up a daily weekday attendance of 750 and a Sunday attendance of 5,000, the park district's 31st annual Christmas flower show, which opened last Saturday at the Lincoln Park conservatory, will continue thru Sunday, Jan. 2.

If last year's figures are an indication, the largest crowds will arrive on the Sundays following Christmas and New Year's day to view the lavish display of Christmas blossoms. The exhibit this year includes more than 2,000 scarlet, pink, and white poinsettias, and approximately 10,000 plants of other species which also are popular at the Christmas season, such as begonias, erlanea, butterfly bushes, Jerusalem cherries, and stevia.

The show is open to the public without charge, and hours are from 8 a. m. to 10 p. m. daily, Sundays and holidays. Many of the plants will remain on display until the middle of January.

Movies Will Be Shown Tomorrow at Library

If you're a gourmet, or try to be one, you've probably sampled smoked turkey or capon. But have you tried smoked wild duck or pheasant? We hadn't until lately, and didn't know what we'd missed! Outdoor Editor Bob Becker gets a vote of thanks for suggesting to the Fin 'n' Feather club of Dundee that we might like to know about the birds they smoke every year at this season.

Smoked duck, pheasant, guinea hen, wild goose, capon, or turkey may be served hot or cold. It is ready to eat when you get it. You cut wafer thin slices and wait for the blissful "Ah-h's" to go round. Leftover scraps make wonderful casserole dishes, with or without a wine sauce. And the bones may be stewed for stock. There's a lot of flavor left in them.

Juicy winter pears from Washington and Oregon add succulence to our holiday meals. If they are hard when you buy them, let them stand at room temperature for a day or two so that they may ripen. A half fresh pear, pared and nested in watercress, makes an attractive and pleasant Christmas salad. A holiday color scheme may be attained by placing a spoonful of cranberry sauce in the center of the pear.

The Bosc pear seldom stays with us beyond Christmas, but we have fat, juicy Comices, Anjous, and Royal Rivieras.

Aged beef is better, of course. But beef isn't being aged any more because the demand for it is so great that there isn't time. Also, there's some shrinkage during spring, and we want our beef to stretch, not shrink, these days! No, you'd better not try aging your own beef at home, for temperature and humidity must be accurately controled for a period of about 21 days. It's no job for a novice.

The raisin famine is over. Raisins and prunes both are available in sufficient quantities for civilians, even tho they are rationed. There's an increase in the use of figs because of the disappearance of dried apricots, peaches, and apples from the market. Candied and glazed plums and pears have made their appearance this year to replace the absent candied pineapple.

Reserves of canned grapefruit juice, pineapple, figs, string beans, tomatoes, peaches, peas, and catsup have been released for civilians, and other canned food reserves now are being released. That's because these foods are in excess of war requirements.

Even tho canned grapefruit juice came off the ration list at the season of plentiful fresh grapefruit supplies, homemakers have been rushing to market to buy their share of the 2½ million cases which were made available to civilians.

Carefully Tell Truth About Santa Claus

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Altho we have talked already about the dilemma that many parents feel themselves faced with when the direct question, "Is there really and truly a Santa Claus?" is put to them, and have suggested ways of handling it, I would like to quote today a letter from a reader whose years number something over three score and ten:

"In a recent paper your article about telling children of Santa Claus interested me and made me think you might like to know this which has stayed with me nearly 70 years.

"When I was about 5 and was supposed to be asleep on Christmas eve, I saw my Uncle Jim carrying the presents and trimmings for the tree downstairs. How the family knew this I don't remember, but I have never forgotten what my father said to me next morning.

"He took me up on his lap and said, 'You found out last night, Mary, that what we have told you about Santa Claus isn't true. We told you that because we thought you were too little to understand the real truth. The story about Santa Claus isn't true in one way, but it stands for something that is true. There is a kind of spirit that gets into our hearts around Christmas time and makes us want to do things for those we love and give presents. You will find, as you get older, that there may be a lot of things you've been told that are not literally true, but that stand for real truths.'

"That thought has stayed with me and helped me always."

You may think that a child of 5 is too young to understand that father's speech, but the fact is that this little girl did. Because children are not articulate about the deeper or less tangible emotions, we are apt to think their perceptions are less keen than they are. I believe any one who lives on a plane, other than a purely material one, with her children realizes this.

See what an impression the father quoted in this incident made on his little daughter—one she never forgot.

Mrs. Anne Y., Fort Wayne, Ind.—This year we are going to lengthen the life of our Christmas tree—or hope to—by placing it in a pail of damp earth. We've been told that it will stay fresh longer this way.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1943: By Ely Culbertson.]

The mere fact that a penalty double is extremely "close" is nothing against it unless the double, by indicating the possession of key cards, including trumps, helps the declarer in his play. In the following deal West was able to make a killing defensive play simply because he had resisted the temptation to double.

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH.
♠ K 7 5
♥ K 10 8 4
♦ J
♣ J 9 7 4 3

WEST.
♠ A Q 2

♣ K 10

EAST.
♠ 8 4 3

♦ A Q 9 5 4 2

SOUTH.
♠ J 10 9 6
♥ A Q 7 6
♦ K 10
♣ A Q 5

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 heart | Pass | 2 hearts | Pass |
| 2 spades | Pass | 4 hearts | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

West opened the eight of diamonds. When the dummy appeared with the K-10 of hearts, West was glad that he hadn't doubled. East took the first trick and shifted to a club. Declarer put in the queen and West won. West now laid down the spade ace and boldly continued with the spade deuce. Declarer did not require a spade finesse to his jack, hence he put up the king, led a low trump to the ace and cashed the diamond king, discarding dummy's last spade.

The point had arrived at which the fate of the contract rested only on declarer's next play in the trump suit. Normally, there would have been only one correct method for him to follow—to lay down the queen so that if East showed out, a finesse would be established against the jack in West's hand. The fact that declarer lacked the nine-spot made a finesse against East out of the question. Undoubtedly, declarer would have made the winning play, except for this important point: On the first trump lead West had unhesitatingly played the nine!

Observe how this affected declarer's reasoning. Now it was possible to finesse for the jack in East's hand, and if the nine was really a singleton the finesse would be vital. At any rate declarer could no longer afford [it seemed] to lay down the heart queen. He led a low trump to dummy, and the fact that West followed suit was not enough to dictate the play of the ten-spot. When declarer put up the king, the contract was doomed.

The program also includes Strauss' Overture to "Die Fledermaus" and Prokofieff's Classical Symphony.

Oscar Levant.

For a moment after the booking was announced it looked as if Mr. Levant was going to share the stage with Mia Slavenska's dance ensemble, previously billed for the same house, same time. However, inquiry proved that the beautiful Slavenska, former ballerina of the Ballet Russe, has been moved to the Eighth Street theater, where she will present two programs Jan. 23, at 3:30 and 8:30 p. m. David Tihmar is her partner, her ensemble consists of nine dancers, and accompaniment is provided by two pianos.

$11,822,508 Is Fund Total; 92 Pct. of Goal

More than 1,000 workers in the three month drive to raise money for the national community and war funds, which ended recently, assembled last night in the Palmer House where they were informed that $11,822,508 had been subscribed.

This is the largest amount of money ever raised in a single campaign in Chicago, and represents 92 per cent of the $12,806,424 quota assigned the Chicago area, Elmer T. Stevens, campaign chairman and presiding officer at the meeting, said.

Miss Olivia de Havilland, film actress who came to Chicago to participate in last night's program, told the campaign workers:

"I am glad to find that the people of Chicago know that they owe an obligation to the boys fighting overseas to keep their home clean so that they may come back to the kind of decent, honest, wholesome life they are dreaming of every night, in whatever trench or foxhole they may find themselves. In Chicago you are taking care of your own."

Three major groups will participate in the funds raised during the campaign. They are the U. S. O., the 187 welfare agencies in Chicago, and 16 accredited war relief groups.

Mayor Kelly told the gathering that he was glad to see that Chicago realized that the war is not yet over, and praised the organization that campaign managers created, adding: "I happen to know something about organization myself."

"You people here tonight represent the shirtsleeve brigade—the hard working, plain speaking men and women who did the job," the mayor asserted. "Chicago is still displaying the spirit of charity and patriotism for which it is known."

Stevens said that there was "hardly a business citadel in the Chicago area which hasn't responded to your preaching of the needs of the national community and war fund. The way this drive was carried out typifies the kind of democracy that you and I want."

Lost R. A. F. Airman's Daughter Is Adopted by WACs in Britain

LONDON, Dec. 22 (AP).—Her blue eyes round with excitement, the 7 year old daughter of an R. A. F. gunner missing since April, after a raid on Cape Bon peninsula, was adopted today by WACs in Britain as their Christmas war orphan and mascot.

Muriel WAC, as she is known because relations covering sponsorship of British war orphans exclude use of the full name, is the first non-American to wear a WAC uniform. She was started out in her army career as a private 1st class, with one stripe on her sleeve. "I like it fine," she said.

A tiny figure, but walking very erect and proper, Muriel arrived at the American Red Cross Service Club for Women to be the principal guest at a Christmas party for 80 other youngsters. They were the children of charwomen at various Red Cross clubs in London.

Soldier or no soldier, what Muriel wanted—and got—was a doll.

HAWKS BEAT WINGS, 7-1; END LOSING STREAK

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

STRANGERS to the doings of the Blackhawks need have no fear of failing to identify Harold [Mush] March, who has been earning the acclaim of the balcony bugs for 14 seasons. . . . Mush is the lad who leads the team onto the ice for the opening of all home games and he has been doing it since 1932, four years after he joined up. . . . The late Chuck Gardiner had been the leader up to that time, but the Hawks won the night March took over, so naturally his buddies wouldn't think of letting him abandon the habit. . . . Penn State coaches must like the school. . . . At any rate, four of them have grown gray, you might say, in the service of the Nittany Lions. . . . Bob Rutherford Sr., the golf mentor, took over in 1921; Leo Houck of the boxing team in 1922; Bill Jeffrey, the soccer man, in 1926, and Bob Higgins of the football squad in 1928. . . . Lawrence college, which has maintained a full schedule of intercollegiate sports while its Midwest conference rivals were, for the most part, sitting out the war, now is planning a hockey team made up of naval officer trainees. . . . Lt. [j. g.] Allen Walz, crew coach at the University of Wisconsin, is commander of a PC boat on the Atlantic patrol. . . . Mike Mikulak, the former Oregon football star and assistant coach, is now a major in Italy. . . . He was a first lieutenant when his unit went overseas. . . . In 1877 a football team consisted of 15 players and it kept possession of the ball until it lost it on a fumble. . . . Promoters of the Cleveland Plain Dealer's Golden Gloves tournament, which will open in the Arena on Jan. 27, have received an order for 9,600 tickets from William Jack, president of a defense plant. . . .

Mike Mikulak.

Mush March.

Corp. Eddie Parry, who helped the Detroit Eagles win a national professional basketball championship, is playing with the Waco [Tex.] air force quintet. . . . Lt. [j. g.] Byron [Whizzer] White has been transferred from a PT boat squadron in the South Pacific to a destroyer. . . . Bill Durnan, Montreal's sparkling rookie goalie, also has starred at baseball, softball, basketball, rugby, and soccer. . . . Altho he is playing his first season in the National Hockey league, Bill is 29 years old and was approached by the Toronto Maple Leafs 13 years ago. . . . They're sorry now he wouldn't accept. . . . Bullfighting probably is the only sport, if it is a sport, which provides hospitals for the personnel. . . . A new one is being built in Mexico City.

Stagg Chosen as Comeback of Sport Year

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—Football's Old Man River not only keeps rolling along, he keeps picking up new honors along the way.

Amos Alonzo Stagg, too old for the University of Chicago a decade ago, and since then coaching at the comparatively obscure College of the Pacific, the past fall turned up with a crackerjack football team and by doing so is designated as the person staging the outstanding sports comeback of 1943.

Polling 12 first place votes and accumulating a point total of 65, the venerable coach edged out Patty Berg, golf star, who regained a victorious touch after being inactive nearly 18 months due to a knee fracture suffered in an automobile accident. Patty received 15 first place votes, but her point total was only 60.

There was a wide variety of choices for the honor among the 77 sports editors taking part in the annual Associated Press poll. Bronko Nagurski, the pro football player, who returned to the Chicago Bears after a long absence, was picked by seven voters for the top honor, and the New York Yankees received a like number of first place ballots.

Stagg's College of the Pacific team, augmented by navy lend-lease players, went thru the first half of its schedule without a defeat and then was beaten by Southern California in one of the year's best games, 6 to 0.

Nagurski edged out the Yankees for third place, 38 points to 36, with Luke Appling, the Chicago White Sox star, who led the American league hitters, fifth with 32.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks, completely refreshed after the fatigue that came upon them with dire results last week-end, last night gave the world champion Detroit Red Wings a sinful beating, 7 to 1, before 8,116 in the Chicago Stadium.

An imposing phase of the stirring revival was the goal tending of Rookie Hec Highton who had what would have been the National hockey league's second shutout of the season in hand until the game was within 3 minutes and 41 seconds of the end. Hec played well but the big difference perhaps was that he got some solid defense work in front of him. The Hawks didn't ask Capt. Earl Seibert to do all the defending last last.

Two Freshmen Score Goals.

Vic Heyliger, University of Illinois hockey coach, scored his first National league goal. Vic had been used briefly in four games this season, staging a volunteer comeback as a helping measure after a short professional career with the Hawks immediately after his graduation from the University of Michigan some seasons back. Vic's effort, being the second goal, technically was the winning marker.

Another gent to crash into the National league scoring column for the first time in his life was young Jack Dyte. Jack has been on skates in all the Hawks' 19 games, but didn't seem to get the idea very well until his awakening last night.

Seibert Starts Scoring.

The Hawks scored only two goals in the first two periods. Seibert, assisted by Cully Dahlstrom and Mush March got thru with a big one in the first period. Heyliger's success, with Johnny Gottselig and Fido Purpur assisting, was the loner in the second period, the time, 9:35.

The first of five goals scored by the Hawks in the final period, was accomplished by Doug Bentley, in 2:26, assisted by Seibert and Bill Mosienko. Then followed three goals in a span of 1 minute and 32 seconds, Smith, Dyte, and Dahlstrom were the scorers; Mosienko, Bentley, Dahlstrom, George Allen, and Virgil Johnson the assisters.

Grosso Spoils Shutout.

Don Grosso spoiled Highton's shutout in 16:19 of the third period. Then Bentley, assisted by Smith and Mosienko, wound up the Chicago goal harvest in 16:52.

The game was the last home effort of 1943 for the Hawks. It was the eighth game in 11 they have won before their doting constituents. Christmas they will play the league leading Canadiens in Montreal and on Dec. 26 they will engage the tail end Rangers in New York. Then they will come home to rest up for their New Year's meeting with the tough Canadiens.

Bears Name 4 Redskins for All-Foes Team

Five players were unanimous choices in a poll among Chicago Bears yesterday to determine their all opponent team for the 1943 season. One other missed being a 100 per cent choice by a single vote. The five who were on every ballot were Don Hutson, Green Bay left end; Riley Matheson, Detroit guard who is owned by the inactive Cleveland Rams; Sammy Baugh, Washington back; Frankie Sinkwich, Detroit back, and Bob Morrow, Chicago Cardinal full back. Wilbur Moore, Washington's right half, missed a clean sweep when one of the Bears voted for Ward Cuff, veteran New York Giant player from Marquette university.

Referee Ronald Gibbs drew a unanimous vote as the National Football league's best official.

George Wilson, Bears' end, thought the best Chicago play of the season was Hampton Pool's catch of Sid Luckman's seventh touchdown pass against the Giants while guarded by two opponents. Pool thought the best play was Wilson's terrific block of the Redskins' Ray Hare. Wilson and Pool are rival ends and their selections show what each thinks of the other. Harry Clark and Al Hoptowit thought that Dante Magnani's 97 yard touchdown run of a kickoff against Phil-Pitt was tops for a single play.

The daily wagering was $130,327, while the total play for the meeting which ended December 18 was $2,345,894. Of that sum, the state received $27,958.94.

INJURIES SLOW DOWN BEARS IN WORKOUTS FOR TITLE GAME

BY EDWARD PRELL.

A broken wrist suffered by an almost anonymous Chicago Bear lineman yesterday threw consternation into the ranks of the coaches and made it necessary for them to revise tactical plans for Sunday's battle with the Washington Redskins in Wrigley field for the professional football championship.

Pete Gudauskas is the name. Never heard of him? He's the fellow who had been playing an increasing number of minutes in each of the Bears' concluding games of the season. For Sunday's encounter, Pete was to be distinctly a sleeper. If the game started with the Bears kicking off, Pete was to have been at right guard and in charge of booting the ball down the field.

In Tuesday's line scrimmage, Pete suffered the injury—maybe because he was a little too overambitious. Dr. John F. Davis came in with the bad news late yesterday morning. X-ray pictures had revealed a break. Pete, who is a native of Georgetown, Ill., and who played college football at Murray [Ky.] State Teachers, was a forlorn figure, his arm in a sling, as his half frozen teammates bounced into the Wrigley field dressing room at the noon hour.

All season long the Bears have had only a thin spread of linemen. That's one of the reasons they claimed Gudauskas on waivers from the Green Bay Packers. Pete started his pro career with Cleveland in 1940.

Turner May Be Shifted.

Bill Steinkemper, another of the newer Bears, had a long session with Trainer Andy Lotshaw on the rubbing table. Andy declares he'll have the former Notre Dame player, a tackle, in shape for the Redskins.

If he doesn't, there'll be trouble. That's why the Bears' board of strategy yesterday was contemplating moving Bulldog Turner, the all league center, to tackle. The Bulldog volunteered to make the move. Al Matuza, the No. 2 center, was back in action yesterday after having had a session with his draft board at Shenandoah, Pa. Al is in 1-A, but hasn't been inducted. Fred Mundee gives the Bears additional protection at center, so Turner's proposal may be accepted.

What About Nagurski?

This turn of events also complicates the status of Bronko Nagurski, who for a week has been working at full back. Yesterday he was told to keep an ear open for tackle assignments. It may be that the Bears will wait to see how Sunday's game goes before declaring Nagurski as a tackle or full back. If he plays at tackle while the Bears are on offense, he will not be able to play normally at full back. But he can play tackle on defense and full back on offense without getting the written consent of his congressman. The middle finger on Bronko's right hand is swollen from a knock he suffered in the second Green Bay game. He says it doesn't interfere with his handling of the ball.

If Bronko goes to tackle, the full back burden will fall on Gary Famiglietti, who is physically and mentally set to play football as he played it last year, when he was the league's leading ground gainer at that position.

Danny Fortmann Arrives.

The Bears' family was completed yesterday by the arrival of Dr. Danny Fortmann, veteran guard. He flew in from Pittsburgh and joined his mates at an examination held on defensive assignments. Afterwards, moving pictures of the Bears' 14 to 6 loss to the Redskins in last year's title game in Washington were shown. Today the Bears will concentrate on defense against Washington's passing and running plays.

Lt. Comdr. George Halas, owner of the Bears, who gave up the team's coaching reins to enter the navy a year and a half ago, arrived in Chicago late yesterday from Norman, Okla., where he is stationed. He will witness Sunday's game before returning to duty at his base.

ALL-STARS DINE; VISIT HOSPITAL BETWEEN DRILLS

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 22 (AP).—Eastern and western football players, who will meet in the charity game here New Year's day, sandwiched in brisk practice sessions today with other activities.

Players of the two squads were shown what the proceeds of their game will be devoted to when they visited the Shriners' crippled children's hospital.

The easterners, including Coaches Andy Kerr and George Hauser, were luncheon guests of the Big Ten club before rounding out the afternoon with a workout.

The westerners, under Coaches Orin Hollingbery and L. T. [Buck] Shaw, drilled on half a dozen plays. Abe Croaft, end from Southern Methodist university, missed the practice. He has been confined two days to his hotel room with influenza.

Both squads will leave late tomorrow to take up permanent training quarters.

Cubs, Sox Will Air Road, Home Games in 1944

The Cubs and White Sox made simultaneous announcements yesterday that something different would be tried next season in the broadcasting of games. Both the at home and abroad engagements of the two teams will be on the air.

James Gallagher, general manager of the Cubs, revealed arrangements had been completed with station WJJD. Harry Grabiner, White Sox vice president, announced he had contracted with station WIND.

Joe Louis, Army Boxers, Arrive in New York

New York, Dec. 22 [Special].—Sgt. Joe Louis, world's heavyweight champion, and his army exhibition boxers and trainers arrived at La Guardia field today from Mobile, Ala., to spend the Christmas holidays in New York.

Mt. Carmel Is Heavier than Jesuit Eleven

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When Mount Carmel's football players take the field against Jesuit High school in New Orleans' City stadium Sunday afternoon the Caravan will have a weight advantage of approximately 10 pounds for each man in the lineup. But Jesuit, city champion and holder of the Louisiana state championship for the fourth time in 11 years, has overcome this handicap this season by speed.

Jesuit High school, coached for the last 11 years by G. Gernon Brown, an alumnus of the school and of Loyola university of New Orleans, has won nine games and played one tie this season. In competition in New Orleans, the Blue Jays won seven games and tied Warren Easton, 6 to 6. The latter was beaten once and so the city championship went to Jesuit.

In the semi-finals of the state title play, the Blue Jays whipped Baton Rouge, 7 to 2 [they had beaten the same team earlier 19 to 0], and Jesuit then won the state title by defeating Shreveport, 25 to 7.

Four Backs Are Track Men.

The four starting backs are extraordinarily fast. All were members of the track team last spring. Capt. Ray Coates and Norman Hodgins earned letters as sprinters and Oliver Raymond and Joe Johnston were star quarter milers.

Jesuit ranked third in offense in the New Orleans High school league with a total of 1,515 yards in six games. The Blue Jays were first in defense, holding all opponents to an average of 2.6 yards per play.

The Jesuit line has an average weight of 162 pounds compared to Mount Carmel's 178 pound average. The New Orleans backs average 164 pounds, nine pounds less than the average of Mount Carmel's starting backs.

Succeeds Doc Erskine.

Coach Brown succeeded Robert [Doc] Erskine as varsity coach in 1933 when Erskine became head coach at Loyola and later assisted Tom Stidham at Oklahoma and Marquette before entering the service. Brown's first team won the state title and was undefeated.

The Mount Carmel squad of 29 players will leave this morning at 9 o'clock on the Creole limited of the Illinois Central railroad. The squad is headed by Father Fitzgerald, Brother Coughlin, Mike Murphy, physical director, and Coach Wally Fromhart. Among the players is Tom David, half back, who was stricken with infantile paralysis Labor day, but who now is able to rejoin the team.

The Mount Carmel team will be quartered at the Municipal Auditorium in New Orleans. The squad will leave New Orleans on the return trip Tuesday evening.

GREAT LAKES BEATS DEPAUW QUINTET, 45-26

Seventh Without Loss for Bluejackets.

The Great Lakes Bluejackets proved too big and too good for the DePauw university quintet last night as they defeated the Tigers, 45 to 26, on the training station floor for their seventh straight victory.

Herman Schaefer, the Sailors' leading scorer, again was high man sinking four field goals and one free throw for nine points. Schaefer's teammate at Indiana, Paul Armstrong, was still missing from the lineup as a result of the injury suffered in the Purdue game. The two have paced the Sailors in all of their other victories.

The Bluejackets led all the way, building up a 25 to 16 halftime advantage, and then sending in the second stringers for most of the second half. Great Lakes used a total of 13 players.

High scorer for DePauw was Charley Radcliffe, who sank three baskets and two free throws for eight points. It was DePauw's fourth loss in seven starts while the Bluejackets have yet to lose.

Boxer's Death an Accident, Jury Finds

BY FRANK MASTRO.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death in the Al Reasoner case. Reasoner died following a bout with Freddy Dawson in Marigold Gardens on Monday night. The inquest was conducted by James Whalen, assistant chief deputy coroner, and Bob Martin, deputy coroner, in the chapel at 3800 South Michigan avenue.

Reasoner, 23 years old, who lived at 4911 South Calumet avenue, died of traumatic cerebral hemorrhage early Tuesday morning after being knocked down three times before the bout was stopped in the 10th round.

Norm McGarity, who refereed the match testified at yesterday's inquest. Others who gave testimony were Dr. Edward J. Buchan, chief medical examiner for the Illinois Athletic commission; Ivor Hansen, the fighter's manager, Mrs. Altonia Reasoner, and Dawson.

According to the statements, Reasoner apparently was in good condition before the fight. Mrs. Reasoner was asked only to establish herself as the boxer's widow.

Funeral services will be held at St. Elizabeth church, 41st street and Wabash avenue, Tuesday at 9 a. m. Burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

ILLINOIS TECH DEALS MAROONS 45TH DEFEAT

Illinois Tech's basketball quintet, the last to lose a game to the University of Chicago since 1941, gave Coach Ed Wagner an early Christmas gift and secured revenge for that loss yesterday afternoon by beating the Maroons, 43 to 35. It was the Maroons' 45th straight defeat.

It was the first victory for the Techawks over the Maroons since 1934 and avenged the 43 to 29 defeat of Dec. 6, 1941. It was the fourth straight for Tech, which now has a season record of five victories and two losses.

The Maroons battled even with the Techawks thru the first 17 minutes of play during which the score was tied 10 times. Then Coach Wagner inserted Glenn Neiswander into the lineup and he sparked a rally that gave Tech a 26 to 18 half time lead.

With Neiswander and Ed Puchalski hitting the hoop for a total of 16 points, Tech pulled away in the second half and was never in any grave danger.

SKATING SCHOOL OPENS TONIGHT IN GAGE PARK

The third in a series of ice skating schools sponsored by the Chicago Sports association in coöperation with the Illinois Skating association will open tonight in Gage park, 2415 West 55th street. With most of the skating activities confined to the north section of Chicago, this is the first time in years that any concerted effort has been made to interest the youngsters of this area in competitive skating. Three weekly sessions are scheduled for the school and a staff of coaches will be on the job to teach the fundamentals of the sport to the boys and girls.

With the cold weather continuing, a fine sheet of ice is expected for the opening derby next Sunday at Garfield park. Joseph F. Gubbins, head of the organization sponsoring the races, reports that most of the point winners of last year have been working out and will try hard to repeat. Coaches of the C. Y. O., Northwest Skating club, Pierce playground, Glen Ellyn Skating club, and George F. Barrett Athletic club have rounded out their teams and will try to open with a victory.

Fred Gohl, director of Pierce playground who will sponsor the annual derby on Jan. 2, will have his largest team in years, with representation in all classes. Last year one of his juveniles, Ray Parker won the city, tristate and Silver Skates championships and will be back looking for more honors this year.

COMA IS FOUND TO AID RECOVERY OF FIRE VICTIMS

Study of Cocoanut Grove Cases Summarized.

An indication that a person who loses consciousness during a disaster stands a better chance, if he escapes with his life, of avoiding nervous and mental trouble later than a person who retains consciousness and photographs every detail on his memory is contained in a study of neuropsychiatric complications in victims of Boston's Coconut Grove fire published yesterday in the Journal of the American Medical association.

The study is the work of Dr. Alexandra Adler of Boston and is based on examinations of and later interviews with 46 of the 131 victims of the disaster who were taken to Boston City hospital the night of Nov. 28, 1942. [The fire on that date at Coconut Grove, a Boston night club, cost 491 lives.]

26 Affected Mentally.

Twenty of these 46 victims developed no psychiatric complications, and of these 20, all but five had lost consciousness, most of them for periods longer than one hour. Of the 26 who developed nervous or mental troubles later, all but three either had retained consciousness or had lost it for only a short time.

"Unconsciousness, and in particular prolonged unconsciousness, had prevailed in patients who stayed free of psychiatric complications," Dr. Adler said, "whereas there was no loss of conciousness or it was of very short duration in most of the patients with post-traumatic [after injury] complications."

Among the patients who developed nervous or mental troubles, memories of being choked and trampled on were frequent. These terrors, which were associated with the fear of imminent death, were vivid in the patients' recollections and seemed to have contributed importantly to their psychiatric difficulties.

70% Fully Recovered.

The study was carried on over a long period of time and Dr. Adler was able to report on the delayed as well as the immediate results of the disaster on the mental and nervous stability of the patients.

"Nine months after the disaster," the article reads, "70 per cent of the patients did not show any aberration from their pretraumatic [before injury] personality. One patient has a lasting brain lesion with the symptoms of visual agnosia [loss of power to recognize objects by sight]. This lesion of the occipital lobe [of the brain] was probably caused by exposure to carbon monoxide fumes."

3 YEARS' SEARCH YIELDS ANTIDOTE FOR CORN BORER

Success Crowns Day and Night Experiments.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Working days and nights in his spare time for three years and scraping together money wherever he could, a young Illinois soils expert has developed a new method of combating the dread corn borer which annually costs the nation's farmers millions of dollars in ravaged fields and lowered crop yields.

Three years ago John Bell, 29 years old, of Watseka, surveyed the damage done by the borer on his father's farm. He saw the yields of the country's greatest sweet corn producing area appreciably lessened as a result of the pest. He decided that something could be done to prevent the heavy losses.

Other Methods Observed.

In his work as soils expert for a fertilizer concern he had contact with many hybrid seed corn growers. They had attacked the problem by attempting to produce a seed that would give a stalk resistant to the borer. Their success had been only moderate.

Bell conceived the idea that success lay in making the stalk so distasteful that the borer would abandon it. He first tested this theory by using as experimental plots his father's field and those of other farmers in 20 counties who were eager to help him.

Bell began by preparing solutions containing different combinations of essential plant food elements and injecting them into the corn stalk with a hypodermic needle. Failure marked these trials solely because of deficiencies of the solutions.

Needs Another Year's Proof.

After exhausting the essential elements, Bell began making combinations of the minor food essentials and finally hit upon one that did the job. His results have been excellent, but he feels he needs one more year to completely substantiate his theory.

In tests this year he mixed his compound with commercial fertilizer and spread it over 1½ acres in a 42 acre field of corn already infested heavily by the borer. In a short time the borers began leaving the small plot and at harvest time the 1½ acres yielded 22 bushels per acre more than the untreated section ravaged by the pests.

The compound in the fertilizer is taken into the ground and absorbed into the stalk, making it distasteful to the borer, but not toxic to live stock.

Jars Aid Another Test.

In another test Bell took jars of water containing plant food in solution. In the jars he placed young stalks of corn—both greenhouse and field grown. On the leaves he placed borers and allowed them plenty of time to gnaw their way into the stalks. Then he put his compound into some of the jars. In each instance the borers left the stalks within two days. They remained on the untreated stalks, eventually killing them.

"My compound doesn't produce 100 per cent results," Bell said yesterday, "but it does offer enough protection to make it valuable to farmers. Perhaps in this method also lies the answer to many other agricultural pests."

Approved by Experts.

Agronomy experts at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, declared Bell's approach to the problem is logical, and should have been thought of long ago. They said that altho they are not acquainted with Bell's compound, it may be a solution of the corn borer problem.

Bell is planning to take his compound to university experts for testing. The exact nature of the compound remains, of course, Bell's secret, but he declares it is simple and inexpensive. It can be included in any commercial fertilizer with little trouble, he said.

PUZZLED BY TAX FORM? YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHIN' YET

Collector Gives Peep at New Returns.

Income tax form 1040, the so-called long form, never was simple. But a sample copy of the 1943 form, released by Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue for the Chicago district, makes previous years' returns look simple by comparison.

The 1943 form, to be filed on or before March 15, 1944, by all taxpayers whose income exceeds $3,000 and by others whose income does not consist wholly of salary, wages, or other compensation for personal services; dividends, interest, or annuities, is longer and requires more frequent reference to instruction sheets. Moreover, some taxpayers may find it necessary to file other forms or schedules to supplement the 1040 return.

New Provisions Cause Trouble.

The new complications arise because of the victory tax and more particularly because of the pay-as-you-go law with its virtual cancelation of one year's tax and the withholding of income and victory tax by employers.

An outstanding feature of the new form is the additional information required with respect to deductions claimed by the taxpayer. The 1942 form provided only eight lines in which to explain deductions claimed for contributions, interest paid, taxes paid, losses from fire, storm, theft, etc.; bad debts, and "other deductions authorized by law."

The 1943 form indicates that the treasury department intends to scrutinize these deductions more closely. Instead of one schedule of eight lines the new form provides five schedules and 20 lines.

More Details Demanded.

The taxpayer is required to state the names and addresses of organizations to which contributions were made, and the name and address of the persons to whom medical expenses were paid as well as the approximate date of the payment. The nature of taxes paid must be explained and the person or organization to whom interest was paid must be named.

The schedule for reporting gains and losses from sales or exchanges of capital assets and other property is a separate sheet, with nearly a page of instructions on the back. Nonbusiness bad debts now are considered short term capital losses and will be entered on this schedule.

Two Additional Schedules.

Two additional separate schedules, affecting relatively few taxpayers, are provided. One is schedule L-2, designed to limit the tax cancellation allowed persons whose surtax net income for 1942 or 1943 is greater than the surtax net income, plus $20,000, for a base year immediately preceding the war. The other is schedule L-1, to be used in computing the tax cancellation, or forgiveness, of taxpayers who claim credit for income taxes paid at the source on tax-free covenant bond interest.

Taxpayers may derive some comfort from the fact that these tax cancellation calculations will not be encountered in future tax returns.

Incidentally, many millions of taxpayers will be required to file on or before March 15, 1944, a declaration of estimated income tax for 1944. This is in addition to the complete return covering 1943.

DENIES LENDER CAN BE FORCED TO OWNERSHIP

Standard Gas Plan Is Challenged.

Philadelphia, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Edgar G. Crossman, counsel for the Guaranty Trust company, New York, indenture trustee for Standard Gas and Electric company, Chicago, challenged today the right of any solvent corporation to impel creditors to repudiate indebtedness in exchange for the receipt of common stock.

Arguing before the securities and exchange commission, Crossman declared that a proposed recapitalization plan of Standard Gas and Electric is not fair and equitable to note and debenture holders, and furthermore, that he believed there is nothing in the public utility act of 1935 which authorizes the commission to sanction cancelation of indebtedness by converting creditors to common stock holders. He said this was the first time such a case had come before the commission.

Defended by Company.

Speaking for Standard, A. Louis Flynn, Chicago, said the company's plan was necessary and fair and equitable. The company proposes, among other things, "to redeem in cash as far as possible," notes and debentures, which are the senior securities.

Flynn said about half of such securities, which aggregate about 59 million dollars, would be paid in cash. The rest would be discharged by giving the creditors common stock of the California Oregon Power company, the Mountain State Power company, both subsidiaries of Standard, and new common stock, series A, of Standard.

To make the cash payment, Standard proposes to obtain a three year 21 million dollar bank loan and to use the proceeds of the sale of its stock in Pacific Gas and Electric company.

Others Oppose Plan.

The plan was opposed also by Sydney K. Schiff, Chicago, representing a group of debenture and note holders, and Albert J. Fleischmann, Baltimore, Md., a note holder.

Opponents told the commission the plan was also unfair in that Standard will be ultimately merged with the Philadelphia company, Pittsburgh, the only subsidiary that Standard is allowed to retain under proceedings instituted against it in connection with the geographic integration clause of the public utility holding company act. Present creditors will be forced to take a "gamble" as holders of common stock, they argued.

The public utilities division of the SEC previously deferred approval of the plan until it was modified to assure new stockholders of further rights.

The commission adjourned today's meeting saying arguments would be taken under advisement.

PULLMAN UNIT GETS LITTLE OF SALES DOLLAR

More than 98 cents of every sales dollar received by Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company this year will have been paid out in carrying on the operations of the company, exclusive of dividend payments, H. M. Dudley, vice president and controler, said yesterday.

"Only 1.81 cents of the sales dollar, it is estimated, will be retained as profit, subject to possible decrease thru price revision under the renegotiation act," Dudley asserted. The profit, he said, also is subject to further possible reduction in the liquidation of inventories upon the general termination of war contracts and the expense of reconversion to commercial work.

The company was engaged thruout the year in the production of patrol escort vessels, tanks, howitzer carriages, shells, bombs, mortars, anti-aircraft mounts, troop and hospital cars, aircraft subassemblies, and freight cars.

Expect Extension of Milk Subsidy Expiration Date

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The government subsidy to dairymen, averaging about ¾ of a cent a quart on fluid milk, is expected to be continued a month beyond its Dec. 31 expiration date to prevent a further drop in an already short level of production. Food administration officials said they had ascertained that continuation of the subsidy for a brief period would not violate a congressional agreement that the administration would inaugurate no new subsidies pending settlement of the food subsidy controversy after the congressional recess.

Plans to Turn Medinah Into Modern Hotel

BY AL CHASE.

The 42 story Medinah building, 505 North Michigan avenue, built in the late 1920s at a cost of more than 8 million dollars, will be converted into a modern 700 room commercial hotel if an offer of $625,000 by John Mack is accepted by the federal trustee of the property. One million dollars will be spent remodeling and equipping the building thruout with new furniture and fittings when war time restrictions are removed, Mack said.

Shortly after Christmas, Mack said, he will announce plans for reopening the Congress hotel with entirely new equipment. The lease by the Reconstruction Finance corporation to the Michigan Congress corporation has been canceled by mutual agreement and negotiations are under way for a new lease with Mack.

Would Retain Pool.

Outlining his plans for converting the Medinah into a modern hotel, Mack said he would rebuild much of the public space into 300 additional rooms. The building now has 400 guest rooms.

"By retaining the swimming pool, the garage—which will be enlarged—and other popular features of the Medinah club, the new hotel will be able to offer guests facilities not available in other hotels," Mack said.

The main ballroom will be retained for banquet use and in addition there will be a main dining room and several other dining rooms will be restyled, Mack said.

Earlier Bids Rejected.

Federal Judge William J. Campbell on Dec. 20 ordered Arthur C. Youngberg, federal trustee, to file a plan of reorganization on or before Feb. 7, 1944. The trustee had recently filed a petition calling attention of the court to "an unusual amount of interest" displayed by individuals and groups in the building.

The Union Central Life Insurance company of Cincinnati was the only bidder at a foreclosure sale last September. Its bid of $350,000 was rejected by the court as was a bid of $352,500 at another sale held on Nov. 23. Then Mack made his offer of $625,000, which will be considered at the next sale attempt, the date of which will be announced later.

MINES WITH PMW CONTRACTS FREE OF ICKES' RULE

All of the 17 mines operated by members of the Coal Producers Association of Illinois were returned to owner management yesterday by the coal mines administration in Washington, D. C. The mines are those which have contracts with the Progressive Mine Workers of America [AFL]. Most mines which customarily have contracts with the United Mine Workers of America remain under government control.

Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and mine administrator, reported operators of the mines released had agreed to extend their contracts with the PMW to March 15, 1945, and that the terms of the agreement had been approved by the war labor board.

Two Chicago companies, the Sahara Coal company and the Superior Coal company, are among those having contracts with the PMW. Officials of the former said notification of termination of government control had not been received.

ONLY LICENSED JOBBER CAN COLLECT WHISKY DIVIDEND IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—The New York state liquor authority ruled today that only a licensed wholesale dealer will be able to collect the dividends in liquor recently offered by some distillers and bring it into the state for resale.

Unlicensed owners of distilling stocks can obtain their dividends in liquor only if they accept it at the point of manufacture and bring it personally into the state, the authority said, adding that the liquor cannot be sold.

Licensed retail liquor dealers of New York are "prohibited from owning any shares of stock in any distiller, rectifier, or wholesaler of alcoholic beverages," John F. O'Connell, chairman of the authority, said.

Banned in Pennsylvania.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 22 (AP).—Horace A. Segelbaum, counsel for the state liquor control board, said tonight "up to this time, no way has been found" by which Pennsylvania owners of American Distilling corporation stock can exercise their privilege of buying 16 cases of liquor at cost and bring it into the commonwealth. He said "state law says you must buy your liquor from a state store."

WLB REJECTS PLEAS TO MAKE ANY STEEL BOOST RETROACTIVE

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The war labor board refused tonight to direct that any wage concessions obtained by the CIO United Steelworkers of America under new contracts be made retroactive to the date of expiring contracts.

The board's action, by a vote of 8 to 4, was taken in the face of a warning from union leaders that unless there was assurance future wage adjustments would be retroactive "an extremely serious situation" would develop among the unions' thousands of members.

The steel workers, headed by Philip Murray, who also is president of the CIO, had asked WLB for an order directing steel companies to sign an agreement providing that:

1. Current contracts, most of which expire Jan. 3, be kept in force pending completion of a new agreement, either by negotiation or on WLB order, and

2. Any wage increases called for in the new contract be retroactive to the date of the expiring contract.

Explaining their position, the majority said, "There are no wage increases due under existing wage stabilization policies. To vote retroactivity now would have led the steel workers and the public to believe that some wage award is to be made."

Stock Prices Mostly Weak; Trading Quiet

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A mild upturn in a mixed group of specialties near the close was the nearest approximation of a marked price change in today's stock market.

Until the final hour price movements generally were limited to small fractions. Selling was listless despite an undercurrent of uneasiness over the snarled railroad labor situation. Declines outnumbered the gains.

Apart from the rail strike threat the approach of Christmas tended to discourage speculation. Transactions of 563,530 shares were the lowest since Dec. 3.

Helped by late bidding were such stocks as Sears Roebuck, which had a final gain of ¾; American Telephone, up ½; Eastman Kodak, up 3⅜; Douglas Aircraft, up ⅞; Owens-Illinois, up ¾, and American Hawaiian Steamship, up 2.

CHICAGO LEADERS GAIN.

Selected issues were strong in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Midland United A preferred, the volume leader, rose 1½ points to a new high for the year at 20½ and retained most of the gain at the close. New peaks were registered also by Sears-Roebuck, Chicago Flexible Shaft, and Northwest Bancorporation.

NEW HAVEN LOANS RISE.

New York, Dec. 22 (AP).—A rise of 1 to 8 points in securities of the New Haven railroad on court confirmation of a plan of reorganization provided the main color to today's bond market.

Prices were irregular in other corporate issues including the main rails.

NORGE FACTORY IN MUSKEGON SHUT BY STRIKE

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Norge machine products division, Borg-Warner corporation, closed its plant here this afternoon when 900 employes, members of local 760, United Automobile Workers [AFL] left their jobs demanding that the company reinstate 41 employes who walked out last Friday.

Roy Bergman, president of local 760, said the original walkout was in protest against "individual bargaining" by the company.

Steel Output Curtailed.

Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 22 (AP).—The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company sharply curtailed steel manufacturing operations at its Fairfield works today as the result of a walkout of approximately 250 blast furnace employes.

Willow Run Strike Ends.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP).—Robert H. Keys, president of the Foreman's Association of America, an independent union, announced this afternoon after a meeting with Ford Motor company officials that a walkout of foremen at the Willow Run bomber plant would be ended immediately.

World Plane Routes for All Held Perilous

Unrestrained competition in the operation of international air routes after the war would result in "such chaos that government operation would be the only alternative," W. A. Patterson, president of United Air Lines, told stockholders at a special meeting yesterday in the Palmer House, at which the company's $10,500,000 program for financing post-war expansion was approved.

Not enough business would be available for the 16 possible American contenders if the world routes were left open to all, he said. Instead of open competition he advocated a "chosen instrument" company to handle overseas business, in which the various air lines might participate.

Opposes Government Operation.

"I am opposed to government ownership or operation of air lines," Patterson said in reply to a stockholder's question, "but on the other hand I feel concerned about the attitude of some air lines in advocating free and open competition in foreign business.

"Pan American Airways has done a splendid job in carrying the American flag overseas. The future operation of international routes need not be confined to a single chosen instrument. There might be as many as three, but unrestrained competition would mean too many."

The proposal to create a new issue of 200,000 authorized shares of cumulative preferred stock of $100 par value was approved by a vote of 910,574 capital shares to 65,235.

Name Change Approved.

The strongest negative vote was against the creation of 100,000 shares of management stock to be sold to officers and employes at not less than common stock book value [$12.48 a share as of Sept. 30], but the proposal was carried, 858,703 shares to 116,996. It was also voted to change the corporate name from United Air Lines Transport corporation to United Air Lines, Inc., to raise the par value of the common stock from $5 to $10 a share, to increase the authorized number of that class to 2,500,000 shares, and to permit the issuance of preferred stock of a series not convertible into common.

The management stock, after being held a minimum of four years, would be convertible, share for share, into common stock.

Plan Sale of 105,032 Shares.

Of the preferred stock, 105,032 shares, carrying a cumulative dividend rate of $4.50 a share, will be sold shortly at not less than $100 a share, the company has announced. The issue will first be offered stockholders for subscription at the rate of seven shares for each 100 shares of common held. The offering will be underwritten by a group of 33 investment firms headed by Harriman, Ripley & Co.

Directors of the air line will meet today to decide prices at which this series of preferred may be converted into common stock during the 10 years ending Jan. 1, 1954. Patterson said he would recommend a price of $30 a share.

'BONUS' IN PORK TO EASE MEAT STORAGE LOAD

Warehouses Bulge with Vast Stocks.

Chicago packers yesterday viewed the government's Christmas bonus in pork as a means of clearing their warehouses of part of the vast accumulation of meat supplies, which have piled up in amounts never before experienced.

With hundreds of millions of pounds of meat in storage, the warehouses will hold no more, and as a result some types of pork products have been sold below office of price administration ceilings for the first time since ceilings were applied.

Also, some pork cuts have been sold in carload lots that otherwise would have been disposed of in smaller quantity lots—this entailing a further discount of about $1 per 100 pounds offered by packers wishing to make room for the flood of fresh supplies.

Cuts Sold Below Ceilings.

Because their warehouses are already filled, companies have sold large quantities of fresh pork instead of curing or freezing it. Picnic hams and other pork cuts have sold below OPA ceilings.

The OPA Christmas bonus came in the form of "spare stamp 1" on the first page of the No. 4 ration book, which was validated at five points and made good for use by consumers thru Jan. 1.

Packers said they expected this action to help relieve their situation, and asserted that the government could assist further thru accelerating procedure in ordering meat products out of the warehouses for shipment to military establishments and to foreign destinations under lend-lease. Much of the meat in storage is earmarked for the government.

Warehouse Space Is Scarce.

Another reason for meat backing up in the big city plants is that spare warehouse space formerly employed in small towns is no longer available on the scale of former years. Much of the small town warehouse space has been converted into refrigerated lockers patronized by farmers, and to an increasing degree since rationing by city residents.

Smaller Chicago packers reported that the lack of space had prevented their sale of large quantities of meat to butcher shop owners who had requested storage of the meat until called for.

MARKET GLUT EASED

A drastic cut in hog receipts and news that the government will extend the $13.75 per hundred pounds support price to hogs as heavy as 300 pounds, starting today, reversed the lower trend of prices at the Chicago stock yards yesterday. All except 200 to 270 pounders were strong to 25 cents higher, with some 280 to 300 pounders showing even larger gains.

Twenty major markets received a total of only 93,000 hogs, 35 per cent below the 144,000 head handled a week earlier and 146,000 handled a year ago. Only 18,000 hogs arrived at the Chicago yards, including direct shipments to packers.

The smallest Wednesday cattle receipts since the middle of June sent steer and yearling prices 25 to 50 cents higher. Lambs were mostly weaker and old ewes slumped another 25 cents.

GOVERNMENT'S VAST UTILITY EMPIRE MAY BE EXPANDED WIDELY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The interior department, largest supplier of electric power in the nation, is still expanding its facilities but its power production is nothing compared to what it may be after the war. The department's power division, in its annual report to Secretary Harold L. Ickes today, said:

1. Present instalations are producing 2,713,500 kilowatts from Grand Coulee, Boulder, and other dams scattered thruout the west.

2. Projects now under construction will raise this to 3,849,750 kilowatts.

3. This is "only a fraction" of the power available from western waters. Studies underway indicate another 10 to 12 million horse power of low cost electricity may be expected to be developed after the war "if the greater industrialization and population growth of the west is to be continued."

Wholesale Egg Costs Falling, but Retail Prices Remain High

A sudden increase in egg receipts in Chicago and some other midwest markets this week has sent wholesale prices sharply lower, altho retail prices have held steady at a relatively high level.

Chicago receipts during the first three days of the week totaled 30,997 cases of 30 dozens each, compared with 20,810 cases in the first three days of last week and 23,911 cases in the corresponding period a year ago. As a result wholesale prices of some grades have fallen as much as 11½ cents a dozen below office of price administration ceilings.

Dealers Heavily Stocked.

The falling wholesale market has not yet affected the retail price of eggs, which are selling, in best grades, from 59 to 64 cents a dozen. The principal reason given for the failure of retail prices to follow wholesale prices is that large chains and wholesalers are stocked with high priced eggs and are attempting to move them before reducing prices to housewives.

The number of eggs produced in the first 11 months of this year was 50 billion 754 million, the largest production in the history of the country, the war food administration reported. This was 12 per cent more than in the first 11 months of 1942 and 45 per cent larger than the 10 year average [1932-'41] for the period.

The number of potential layers and pullets not of laying age on the farms on Dec. 1 was 9 per cent larger than a year ago. The number of layers added to pullets just beginning to lay totaled 402,380,000 in November, 6 per cent more than a year ago and 32 per cent above the 10 year average.

Production Costs Rising.

Production costs to farmers are higher. The ratio of the number of dozen eggs required to buy 100 pounds of feed was 5.45 for the week ending Dec. 18, compared with 4.61 a year ago and the 10 year average of 4.46, WFA reported.

Wholesale prices also slumped in Des Moines, Ia., and Minneapolis, Minn., causing concern to WFA officials in those sections over prices being paid producers. No program has been formulated for the purchase of dried eggs for the 1944 season, WFA said. Lack of demand was reported in the Twin Cities, but other than government sources said complications were caused by army buying, storage situations, and OPA ceilings.

Wheat Prices Rise in Last Minute Rally

Evening up operations in December grain contracts on the Chicago Board of Trade, in which trading ceased at the close yesterday, resulted in much activity in wheat and rye in the last 15 minutes of the session. December wheat broke 1 cent a bushel shortly before trading ceased, but rallied to $1.72¼ at the close for a net gain of 1⅛ cents. December rye moved within a range of 2¾ cents and closed unchanged. December oats sold at 82 cents, the ceiling price thruout the day, and the expiring barley future was offered at the ceiling at the finish, showing no change from Tuesday.

Part of the uncompleted December grain contracts was eliminated as the result of pit operations. After the close 225,000 bushels of cash wheat and 80,000 bushels of rye were tendered on December contracts. There have been no tenders of cash oats or barley so far this month.

Deferred Futures Unsettled.

Deferred deliveries of grain futures were unsettled. Wheat finished ⅛ to ½ cent higher. Rye was ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher, and oats unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Reports were current that the long expected ceiling prices on hard wheat would be announced by the office of price administration after the Christmas period. Traders believe the maximum price in Chicago will be between $1.67 and $1.73 a bushel for No. 1 hard.

Ceiling prices on cash corn, oats, and barley have disturbed the delicate balance which brokers said existed in recent years between the prices prevailing in the various markets. Eastern markets were reported to have bid equal to 86 cents a bushel for No. 2 white oats in parts of Illinois that normally ship to Chicago, the price running 2¾ cents above the prevailing ceiling.

DEBATE PAID LEADER

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade at a meeting yesterday heard arguments for and against changing exchange policy of nearly 100 years by amending the rules to permit employment of a paid president. The heads of several big elevator companies expressed opposition to the plan, but a number of commission houses and independent brokers favored the idea. President P. R. O'Brien, who initiated the plan several years ago, told members of its possible advantages.

A ballot vote will be taken Dec. 28 on 27 amendments to the rules of the board necessary before a paid president can be employed. So far no opposition has developed to O'Brien who is running for his fourth term as president. If the amendments are adopted, he will become chairman of the board of directors

Open Aviation Gas Plants at Cost of Civilian Fuel

Washington, D. C., Dec. 22 (AP).—The petroleum administration for war today said that 11 new 100-octane aviation gasoline refineries had been completed in the last 90 days, and that 38 more would be in operation early in 1944. The extension of the aviation gasoline program will make less civilian gasoline available, the PAW said, as increasing quantities of the base stock of crude oil must be diverted to the 100-octane plants.

People and Events

An organization service department, designed to integrate the work of the Illinois State Chamber of Commerce and 209 local chambers and other business groups in the state, will be established next month, Harry J. Neumiller of Peoria, president, announced yesterday. The new department will be headed by N. J. Ziener, former community relations executive of the Illinois Chain Store council.

N. J. Ziener.

Public Service Company of Northern Illinois announced the election of A. E. Patton, R. D. Maxson, and C. G. Bennett as vice presidents. Patton will continue as secretary of the company, Maxson will be in charge of engineering and production, and Bennett will supervise rates, real estate, and claims. Other executive changes include appointment of Arthur Schneider as general sales manager, J. R. Pershall as director of advertising, and Charles D. Auringer as southern division vice president.

The New York Central system announced that W. F. Schaff would retire on Jan. 1 as vice president at Chicago and that Gustav Metzman had been appointed his successor.

FORD ASSAILS WPB UNIT'S PLAN AS UNION WEDGE

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 22 (AP).—Ford officials, in replying today to an article in a publication of the war production board, termed the labor-management program a "political vehicle designed a long time ago in an effort to push labor farther into the management of industry."

The article, appearing in Labor Management News, criticized Henry Ford, president of the Ford Motor company, and Alfred P. Sloan, chairman of General Motors corporation, for giving "only superficial attention" to the labor-management committee plan.

Ford officials asserted further:

"The idea given in the press when this program was explained was that the unions wanted to sit with management on a 50-50 basis in the discussion of production and other problems. Actually, since in our plants union membership is compulsory, such a program would give the unions practical control of the operation of the plants."

FIRST CHICAGO FIRM IS FINED FOR PAY RAISES

Violation Admitted by Brush Maker.

The regional war labor board yesterday took its first punitive action against a Chicago company for raising wages without board approval when it ordered sanctions of $5,723 imposed on the American Brush corporation, 1113 North Franklin street. The company employs 83 persons.

Robert K. Burns.

The board charged that between Oct. 3 and Dec. 7 the company made unauthorized wage increases totaling $3,766, bringing the total unauthorized pay roll for that period to $22,894. Under WLB regulations, when raises in pay are made illegally the entire salaries and wages involved become illegal.

Company Consents to Sanctions.

Robert K. Burns, regional board chairman, said the company in a written stipulation admitted the violations, waived a hearing, and consented to the sanctions.

The board ordered that $1,144 be disallowed as an item of cost in compiling income taxes for 1942 and that $4,578 be disallowed in 1943. These amounts also will be disallowed as cost items involving government contracts, Burns said.

He said it was the second case in the Chicago WLB area in which the board has imposed sanctions after several hundred investigations and 12 hearings. The other case involving sanctions was ordered three weeks ago against the White Frost company, Anderson, Ind.

Many of Minor Nature.

John Byrne Chamberlin, assistant general counsel of the WLB, Washington, D. C., who is visiting the regional office, asserted that half the reported violations have proved unfounded and many of the others of minor importance. These were corrected when called to the attention of the employers, he said.

"The WLB is serious and means to maintain strict enforcement," he said. "I am convinced the majority of employers is striving to comply with the act."

Chamberlin said no criminal charges have been filed in any case. The law provides criminal penalties of fines of not more than $1,000 or imprisonment of not more than one year, or both, to employers and employes convicted of violations.

JORDAN FACTORY ADDITION AFTER WAR CONSIDERED

A post-war factory expansion is being considered by the Jordan company, manufacturer of chemicals used by the steel industry in armament orders, A. E. Jordan, president, announced yesterday.

The company purchased for $7,000 from the Alton railroad 9⅝ acres adjoining its five acre plant site at the northwest corner of Merrimac avenue and West 51st street. Work was started on an addition in 1942 but war restrictions stopped it. This will be resumed on a large scale as soon as conditions permit, Jordan said.

SEEMS TO US

It seems to us far more important in these times to emphasize the position of the Times-Herald as the custodian of an advertiser's interests in Washington than to bore him with circulation and statistical data which are easily accessible in expanded and more authentic form.

We respectfully submit that a newspaper in which no threat to your business is taken lying down is a better advertising medium on that account.

U. S. NEWSPRINT CUT MAY DIVERT MORE OVERSEAS

Canadians Argue Others Want It if We Don't.

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 22 (AP).—Canadian newsprint makers said today the United States government may get little newsprint for its proposed stock pile. They said that instead, overseas customers of the dominion should benefit from the United States decision to tighten restrictions on use of paper by newspapers and magazines despite improvement in the newsprint supply outlook.

This prediction was qualified, however, by acknowledgement that the United States-British-Canadian combined production and resources board could order shipments of paper to the United States in excess of amounts publishers will be permitted to use.

Output Boost Wasted Effort?

Perplexity was the chief reaction of newsprint men to the war production board order Monday for a 23.6 per cent cut on the heels of the Canadian government report Sunday that Canada could supply 200,000 tons of newsprint monthly to the United States, a decrease of 5 per cent from 1943 levels. Puzzlement deepened when the WPB announced Tuesday its plan to stockpile newsprint.

Some newsprint men were disappointed by the order to curtail paper usage and said efforts of the industry and of the Canadian government to cut more wood for paper making apparently were going for naught.

Some said that from now on the matter lay between United States publishers and the WPB.

Canadians Not Consulted.

The two WPB decisions, newsprint sources said, were taken without consultation with Canadian representatives.

One paper company executive commented: "I am unable to reconcile the WPB's position regarding curtailment with the Canadian promise to deliver the paper. The stockpile idea will leave most United States publishers cold. They want the paper to print on, not to sit around and look at.

"Our overseas customers wouldn't be very pleased to see paper shipped to warehouses in the states when they are even shorter than the United States. We probably will ship it overseas rather than to the stockpile, altho we'd like to keep our best customers [United States publishers] happy."

CANADIAN DOLLAR.

Will the rate of exchange between the United States and Canadian dollars change after the war? If so, how? H. V.

Answer: Some students of Canadian financial affairs expect the Canadian dollar to regain parity with the American dollar, or even go to a premium, when the war ends, if exchange controls of the dominion government are removed.

The basis for this reasoning is the contention that the purchasing power of the Canadian dollar, in terms of Canadian commodities and services, is higher now than the purchasing power of the United States dollar in United States goods and services. This tends to encourage Americans to buy in Canadian markets.

In addition, Canada is said to have acquired sufficient holdings of American exchange to take care of Canadian demands when trade and exchange restrictions are lifted.

At present there is strong pressure for the Canadian government to keep its dollar at a discount as a war time price control measure. Canadian producers selling in American markets for American dollars can convert these dollars into a considerably larger amount of Canadian funds. Without this advantage, it is asserted, the Canadian producer would have to raise his prices.
